TWENTY-FIRST ANNUAL CONVENTION

OF THE WOMEN'S GENERAL MISSIONARY SOCIETY OF THE UNITED PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, HELD AT BLOOMINGTON, IND., MAY 10-13, 1904.

MINUTES.

TUESDAY EVENING, MAY 10.

The twenty-first annual convention of the W. G. M. S. of the United Presbyterian Church was called to order in the United Presbyterian Church, Bloomington, Indiana, Tuesday evening, May 10, 1904, by the Secretary, Mrs. Geo. M. Moore, of Xenia, Ohio, president of the convention of 1908, in the absence of the first and second vice-presidents. Mrs. Moore introduced the president elected at Allegheny, Pennsylvania, Mrs. Chas. E. Crowe, of Philadelphia.

The President took charge of the opening prayer and praise service. Subject, "Obedience to Christ's Commands." Prayer by Mrs. A. N. Porter and Mrs. Jennie Ramsey.

Greetings were received from the church and Missionary Society of Bloomington, Indiana, presented by Mrs. W. L. Bryan, of Bloomington.

Mrs. Woodburn presented the greetings of Princeton Presbytery. These were accepted for the convention by Mrs. Seddon Cromwell, of Baltimore.

The President gave the address of the evening, as follows:

Our Forces for Progress.

There is an impelling power behind all active force which is necessary to it. As we travel from one section of our country to another, carried forward by the strength and power of the locomotive, we are reminded of the similarity between it and our noble Women's Missionary organization. Both are forces for pressing onward. Our Women's Missionary Society is one of the pieces of machinery of the Church, organized to carry on the great work of diffusing a knowledge of a risen Savior, through whom alone salvation can come. The Master himself is at the throttle, wielding and guiding it as we journey to the station of Christ's kingdom, carrying along with us sisters brought to the light by our missionary engine. The very term "force" expresses thought of energies which must be used. Our Women's Missionary Society is a force for what? For evangelizing the world, especially the world of women; for carrying the truth and light of Christ's redemption, which has been entrusted to us, to the unenlightened and careless at home and abroad. To woman, after the resurrection, first came the command, "Go tell, he is risen," and that command is as binding to-day as it was when Mary ran with the glad message; and our Lord himself repeated the command, "Go tell."

In order to obey this injunction, organization to unite all our efforts is necessary. It is woman, heathen or enlightened, who exercises the strongest influence on the family. As a writer has said, "It is the heathen woman who clings to her chains so tenaciously, chains that have been forged around her, and it is she who hugs them, in her ignorance and despair, as the only means of alleviation for her sufferings. It is from the mother the boy or girl learns of the sin-darkened religion of idol worship." It is woman, ignorant, superstitious, hopeless woman, to whom is entrusted the training of the younger generation. Then what great need there is that through us, who have become enlightened, this gospel of love and light and hope shall be carried to these, our ignorant sisters.

If progress is to be made, forces are necessary. To the engine coal and water for the making of steam are necessary; but even with these the engine is lifeless until given life by the fire, when immediately forces are of service; so in our organization prayer and money are as necessary as coal and water to the engine; but as the coal and water must have the fire, so must we have the touch of the Holy Spirit in our prayers and gifts. We must be "baptized with the Holy Spirit and with fire." As the first result of this baptism we shall be filled with the spirit of PRAYER.

Prayer is one of our greatest essentials in forwarding our work of saving souls. The real desire to be a missionary or for any work for the Master, comes through prayer, a heartfelt asking of God what we may do to best serve him. The command, "Go work in my vineyard," comes to each one of us, and happy are they who cheerfully and promptly obey this summons. There is ample work for us all. It is an honor high above any of us to be associated with our divine Master in the work of saving souls. The pervading influence of the Holy Spirit must be with us at all times, so filling our minds with a passion for souls that we may, like Paul, make petition at all times, and pray without ceasing for those who do not know Christ. It means something to see God and carry his message to a sin-sick world. It means something to go to men and to plead with them, and bear with them, and lift them again and again, and fairly carry them until they can get near the Master, and hold his hands. It is very difficult for the human mind to do what it fairly believes can never be done. God has foreseen and decreed the triumph of the gospel over all opposing forces, and he has revealed these facts in the Scripture. There is more in the words of promise to encourage our faith than in all the error, sin, and infidelity of the world to discourage it. They give to the true believer a power of faith and hope which he does not understand who is always looking at second causes, totally forgetful of the first.

Our prayers should then be the prayers of faith. The Scripture saith, "Whatsoever ye ask the Father in my name, believing, it shall be granted you." "Believing!" There is the test. Are we not asking each day that his kingdom may come? Is it not in the strength of faith that we go on from year to year in this work of ours, knowing that he who has promised is "faithful and able to perform"? To Christ himself Jehovah has promised, "I will give thee the heathen for thine inheritance," and we as God's appointed agents are to help in this work. So the prayer of faith will make us brave when we meet difficulties, will clear the way when there seems to be insurmountable barriers in our path, will cheer us when we are depressed by the lack of interest in this work for the Master. Let us be much with God in prayer, often in his presence, and we need not fear that what he has purposed he will not bring to pass. In the vision of God is the secret of strength, and of courage, as with Elijah in the mount. If we went oftener to the mount of communion our hearts would be stronger and our faces would more often shine with the glory of his presence.

There is no need for wavering in this which we have undertaken. The Master himself is at the throttle. He will guide us on the journey, and though we may have to travel sometimes through dark tunnels of difficulties and coldness, let us remember that the sun still shines, that he who controls our engine is familiar with the way. "Christ is the light that lighteth every man, even though that light has shined in darkness and the darkness comprehend it not." He guides our woman's work over the road bed of faith, that runs in the direction of that one great event, the evangelization of the world. If we wish to accomplish that for which we exist, then let our force of prayer be the prayer of faith. The Scripture saith, "According to your faith be it unto you." "Faith is the victory that overcometh the world." Why should we not travel along with full assurance of accomplishing much?

Our prayers to be a force must not only be the prayers of faith, but they must be earnest, incessant prayers, out of the strongest desire of our hearts for the success of the work which we have undertaken as a band of Christ's helpers. Have we manifested this earnestness? Have we at any time done as the apostles before the days of Pentecost? Have we waited, praying and fasting for ten days that laborers, richly endued with the Spirit's power, might be sent into the field whitening to harvest? Have we prayed that the Holy Spirit might work with convicting and convincing power on those to whom the message is carried? Missions have progressed so slowly, because piety and prayer have been shallow at home. The consequence of habitual intercession will be a new outpouring of the Holy Spirit upon the individual, upon our society, and upon those to whom we send the gospel. "Prayer is the vital breath by which mission movements live." A missionary once said, "There has been more prayer than we know of and more things accomplished on the field by prayer—prayer of those far absent, as well as those engaged in the work—than either the church or the world recognizes. Our Lord put the petition, "Thy kingdom come," beside "Give us our daily bread," thus showing that our prayers should ascend to heaven daily as we receive our daily bread. We have assurance that we shall be heard because we pray to that God that always heareth prayer.

Our prayers should be importunate prayers. Christ gives us the parable of the man on a journey, who called at the house of his friend to spend the night. This friend found he had nothing to set before him to eat, so he went to his neighbor for bread, but found his neighbor in bed, and unwilling to rise; but as the friend continued to knock and to call, he finally rose, on account of his importunity, and gave him what he needed. Our Savior says that not because he was his friend did he give him, but because of his importunity. This parable is clearly given for our instruction in prayer. To prevail we need to be importunate in our prayers. It is not lost time to wait upon God.

Another requisite in order that our prayers be a force is that they should be united prayers. An eminent Methodist missionary has related an incident in connection with their mission in China which illustrates a result of waiting upon God unitedly. "We in China," he says, "felt the need of divine guidance in the matter of organization in the field, and in the matter of reinforcement, and we came together to spend eight days in united prayer, four alternate days being days of fasting as well as prayer. This was in November. We were led to pray that one hundred missionaries should be sent out during the next year; we were also led to ask God for £10,000 in addition to what had been received the previous year; we were also led to ask that this might be given to us in large sums. What was the result? God sent us offers of service from over six hundred men and women during the next year, and those who were deemed ready and suitable were accepted, and it proved at the end of the year that exactly one hundred had gone. And the money. God did not exactly give the £10,000, but he gave £11,000, one thousand more than we had asked for, and, moreover, it was sent to us in large sums." Prayer as a force is always available. We may ever call upon our Father, and he has said, "Whatsoever ye ask." What a great force is that of the power of prayer to the Almighty God. It is the means of moving that omnipotent arm of God by which the world is held.

But we must know something of the watching and waiting for answers to our prayers, of the weariness in prayer, if we expect the blessing. Jacob not only wrestled, but he suffered.

The prayers of faith, earnest, incessant, importunate, and united will be one of our greatest forces for progress. Methinks if more time were spent in prayer, in close communion with Jesus Christ, our other forces, those of means and workers, would steadily and speedily be forthcoming. Prayer will inspire our gifts. "The history of mission boards reveals the fact that again and again in times of emergency, and no less in times of prosperity, back of the small as well as the large gifts have been the days of fasting and prayer and waiting before God, so that out of the intercessions have come the sacrifice, the consecrated giving of self and property." This leads us to mention our second force.

Just as coal as well as water is necessary to the engine, so are gifts, as well as prayer, necessary to make progress.

GIFTS.

Money is powerful for good if divinely used. Money is a part of ourselves, for it comes as the result of our labor. Christ clearly designed that this force should be used. The purposes of God concerning the salvation of the world are accomplished chiefly through prayer and giving—money gifts and gifts of ourselves, a sacrifice for others. Money is certainly one of our forces for progress. We must use the forces God ordained should be used. This force has never become powerful because Christians have withheld it. We cannot fulfill the command of our Savior until there shall be a revival in this respect. The force which lies in money for carrying forward the missionary enterprise must be increased. Money is known to be the sinew of war. It is no less the sinew of missions. We know that missions is a divine cause, but Christ has ordained that its progress shall depend to a great extent on the pecuniary help of his people. There is a growing conviction that great conquests could be accomplished on the mission fields if we could command, along with our spiritual forces, this sinew of war. The doors which for so many years were closed against us have now in divine providence been thrown down, and there are few barriers in our path but those which come from our own lack of interest; no closed doors except those closed by our own wilful hands. God has given to his own people large means. Dr. Josiah Strong said twenty years ago, "There is money enough in the hands of church members to sow every acre of the earth with the seed of truth." It has also been said, "The consecration of the wealth possessed by Christians in Great Britain and the United States could send the gospel to the uttermost parts of the earth in ten years," and yet, do you know, there was more spent in one year in the United States for chewing-gum than was given to foreign missions! Five millions were sent to foreign missions, while there were twenty-two millions spent for chewing-gum; seven hundred millions for chewing tobacco and one billion for intoxicating liquors. While foreign missions received but five millions, one hundred millions were kept for the church at home, four hundred millions were given to amusements, and seven hundred millions for jewelry and plate. Contributions for missionary purposes have never reached the sum of one cent a week for each professed follower of Christ. May we not say that there is among us a covetousness which is idolatry, that although Christians do not worship images of gold and silver, they worship the raw material, and the worship or love of it is the root of all evil. God has commanded us to use our money in his service. He makes appeal to us for sacrifice when he commands the use of the money we receive as the fruit of our bodily labor.

If this money were baptized by the Holy Spirit, it would then be an available force. We are to consecrate our all to him. As our Creator and Redeemer he is entitled to all we possess. "The silver is mine and the gold is mine, saith the Lord." "The earth is full of my riches, the cattle upon a thousand hills are mine"; yea, his also is the very food on which we live, for it is written, "He causeth the grass to grow for the cattle"; so we are not givers to God, but rather stewards of gifts from God.

We are often boastful of our ability to accumulate riches, but, "Thou shalt remember the Lord thy God, for it is he that giveth thee power to get wealth." To Solomon God said, "I have given thee both riches and honor"; this was said to make Solomon humble. So humility should rather characterize our thought in regard to the great responsibility God has placed upon us in giving unto us wealth. God asks for ours because he wants us.

As Jesus makes and gives the money, so it is he that blesses the money in the using. None of us can use money without sin, but wealth blessed of God is wealth indeed, and such blessing only cometh from the Lord. Christ has many uses for it. When it is given to him he takes it and through it many learn of salvation and are brought into his kingdom.

In order to be a force, it must come from the Lord's people, systematically, regularly, cheerfully, and prayerfully.

Systematically is God's own plan. He laid down a law for his own people in the past that they give a tenth, but from us he expects not only the tithes, but as we have been prospered by the Lord. "See that ye abound in this grace also." No Jew considered his giving liberal which did not go beyond the tenth. In deciding what proportion to give, should we not do better than they? Then there would be a regular, steady stream pouring into our boards for missionary purposes.

Lovingly, cheerfully, not grudgingly should it be done, for God loveth a cheerful giver. No gift is good that is grudged. The heart of beneficence is spontaneity. "Freely ye have received, freely give." Man, as well as God, loves a cheerful giver, for no gift can be great enough to make up for an ungenerous manner in making it. Hilarious is the way Dr. A. J. Gordon used to translate cheerful. Think of it. People should grow hilarious over the opportunity to serve the Lord by their offerings, welcome the contribution plate with enthusiasm, grow jubilant over a new occasion for giving, rejoice when you find a new avenue through which you can make a gift to God; such seems to be the scriptural injunction. We are told in Scripture that if we remember the Lord with our offerings he will open the windows of heaven and pour out blessings upon us. He also says, "Every one that hath forsaken houses or lands, for my name's sake, shall receive an hundred fold, and shall have everlasting life." And what a great incentive is the thought of the glorified souls in heaven, of the children of Zion who learned of Christ's redeeming love in the Bibles printed and from the lips of missionaries supported by your Christian liberality.

We should give prayerfully, asking the blessing of God upon our offerings. Our prayers and gifts will put in operation the third force. This force of consecrated lives can then be utilized if God's people will pray and give systematically.

CONSECRATED LIVES.

There is yet a great work to be done, a long distance yet to be traveled. When our Savior said, "The field is the world," did he not comprehend the extent, the magnitude, and the difficulty of the work assigned? Whose fault is it that the wilderness and the solitary places are not made glad by the approach of the messenger that bringeth the good tidings, that publisheth salvation? Surely our engine has many miles yet to travel before reaching all our fields with the light of the gospel.

One reason that we have not traveled further is our natural love of ease. What do the great mass of professing Christians know or care about the state of a world lying in darkness which cannot be dispelled until they send them the light which God has imparted to them for this purpose? But it should not be so with us. He has commanded, "Go ye" and he is most honored by an obedient life. He has given each one of us a work. That disciple is most like his Master who spends himself in the service of his fellow-men.

We have divine assurance that this great work of bringing a world to a knowledge of Christ shall be accomplished. "As truly as I live," saith Jehovah, "the earth shall be filled with the glory of the Lord." How is this to be done? By the Spirit, working through the prayers of his people, by consecrated gifts, and by consecrated lives, offered spontaneously to the Lord, and who are ready to go or stay, to live or die, as the Lord pleases. Are we ready for that? We must each one of us become a missionary. We should be constrained by our love for Christ to be of service to him.

We are organized as a means for extending the tidings with which we have been made glad to such as are yet unacquainted with the preciousness of Christ. The call comes to us from Egypt, from India, from the colored people of the South, and from all the dark places in our own land; all places of the earth extend their hands for this precious gospel. Without it the human mind is shackled by ignorance and enfeebled by vice, until it has almost dwindled to the standard of the brute. Our indignation has kindled at hearing of men, mortal as ourselves, bowing down worshiping idols or paying adoration to reptiles and stones. Not only is intellect under the dominion of idolatry everywhere prostrated, but beyond the boundaries of Christendom on every side the dark places of the earth are filled with the habitations of cruelty. We mourn over the hardness of heart of our native Indian. We mourn over the vice and sin and degradation of the black man in our midst. We turn again to India and behold how the demon of her idolatry has worse than debased, has brutalized the mind of man. Think of the degradation and unhappiness of woman in heathen lands, of the sorrow and despair of India's child widows. Picture to yourself the anxiety of every wife there, whose first daily prayer is that she may die before her husband.

Our work is to purify these places from these abominations. We must send the consecrated workers who shall preach Christ. If we in Christian lands feel so our need of Christ, how can we expect those who do not know him and have never heard of him to live righteously without him? Christ stands with outstretched hands. "There is no name under heaven given among men by which we must be saved but the name of Christ."

"I know of a land that is sunk in shame,
Of hearts that faint and tire;
I know of a name, a name, a name
Can set that land on fire.
Its sound is a brand, its letters flame;
I know of a name, a name, a name,
Will set that land on fire."

Who shall send this Name if we do not? "How can they hear without a preacher, and how can they preach except they be sent?" Shall millions now living pass away without having the opportunity even to know him? To have a knowledge of Christ is to incur a responsibility to every one who has not, and makes us debtors to the world. It seems impossible to explain the final commission of Christ as given in the Gospels and in the Acts as not implying that each generation of Christians should at least preach Christ to its own known and accessible world. In the first generation of Christians this was clearly the interpretation placed upon it. Every reason for doing mission work at all demands that it be done as speedily as possible. We are responsible for the present generation. The Christians of the past could not reach them, neither can the Christians of the succeeding generations. This is a time of wonderful opportunities. A call has come to us unprecedented in force and volume. The people are waiting for the messengers and the duty is ours to respond. We should be ready to answer the call. The needs of humanity everywhere should appeal to us. God has always raised up laborers at every call for them as the fields are opened and the church is prepared to enter and occupy, and the Spirit of God has baptized our young men and women with the spirit of missions and made them willing to sunder the dearest ties, from love to Christ and the souls of men.

At home and abroad there is a great need which can only be filled by this force consecrated lives. As a force for progress our lives must be dedicated to his service. The Christian knows that everything he has is for him to use in God's service. His talents are sacred to the one great cause. We are awakening somewhat to a realization of why we were brought into the kingdom at this time. It is we who know Christ as our own Savior that God wants as his witnesses. Some may say, Have we not dedicated our lives to our Lord's service? Have we? Would not our fields have the missionaries if we prayed as we should, if we gave as we should, and if our lives were patterned after that of our divine Master? If we were the express image of his person, if the old man were slain in us and our love for the world were cast aside, would we not be a stronger force for progress?

Many of us may feel that we have a small, inglorious part in this force; but as the little mountain stream, enlarged in its progress by the waters of the rivulets, becomes a river to beautify the plain and furnish drink to all in its course, so the humblest and weakest among us may increase the volume of Christ's blessings to the wilderness world, causing it to "blossom as the rose."

PROGRESS.

For progress these forces must come both through individual and organized effort. Each one of us has her appropriate sphere of action and ought to fulfill the peculiar duties for which she is fitted. No one has any faculty or talent that she has not received. The body has different members, but all are needed. The eye needs the foot as much as the foot needs the eye. God needs many kinds of instruments. The body consists of different members, to each of which is assigned some peculiar function, together with appropriate powers for the discharge of it. The eye, the ear, the hand, the foot have all their own peculiar structure fitting them for the uses for which they were designed by God himself. We are all a part of this great missionary organization, each of us is a member with a peculiar work to do that no one else can do. God expects us to do it; he requires it of us. The different powers were not given to the members of our body for their own use only, but all were given for the use of the whole. In relation to these every one sees plainly that God alone determined what powers to create, and where to place them in the body, and what measure of influence every member should possess; and in the whole of it nothing is seen but the wisdom, power, and goodness of God. All owe their powers to the same author. So God has a place for us in this society, has given us our powers; therefore we must use both ourselves and talents in his service and for strengthening this work which has been committed to our care, in its entirety. Needed grace will be given to all whom he has called into his service.

But as the engine is imperfect unless all its parts are in good working order, so this Women's Missionary Society needs its machinery perfect in all its parts with prayer, abundance of means, and the consecrated workers, touched by the Holy Spirit, to carry on this work, in Judea, in Samaria, and to the uttermost parts of the earth. Our work is the Lord's.

Without the special presence of God's spirit at every step our labor would be in vain, but God is back of it all. The winning of heathen women for Christ is our responsibility, and has been laid upon us. More missionaries are needed, and the Church needs strengthening at home. More prayer is needed, and this will not only bring the Lord's blessing, but also enlarge our gifts and furnish the consecrated workers. Medical missionaries, of whom there is only one to every million and a half of people on the foreign fields, are needed. Cannot this organization be a stronger factor than it has ever yet been in the alleviation of all these needs of the human family?

If our prayers, our gifts, and our workers were multiplied to what God expects of us, might not we in our own Southland be a force in the negro problem which is causing so much anxiety to-day? If we as God's chosen women would give ourselves, souls and substance, in influence and example, think of what would be at our command for carrying this work forward. Twenty-five thousand dollars would have been added last year to our contributions if each one of us had given the small sum of only seven cents a week, twenty-five thousand more to have gone into our treasury.

In organized effort great things can be accomplished, but individual effort must be the leverage. We are well able to do more, if filled with the spirit of Christ. God's Spirit will work in us in answer to our prayers and make us more willing to make sacrifices, will give us the yearnings we should have over those who are going down to death because we have not done what we could. Livingstone said, "I will place no value on anything I have or may possess, except in relation to the kingdom of Christ." This should be our stand. "If I, as a foreign missionary," says Bishop Thoburn, "am expected to give up all things for the interests of the work, to count home and treasure and ease and personal comfort as nothing when the interests of the work are at stake, my brother in the United States who unhesitatingly assigns this standard of duty to me should be governed by a spirit precisely similar." We, as an organization, are now past our childhood years, having reached our twenty-first year. Let us, as a society that has come to its majority, assume the responsibility that rests upon us, and in the year to come pray without ceasing, give without ceasing, work without ceasing for the coming of our Lord and his kingdom, and there is no doubt but that with such ceaseless activity our forces will be enabled to make progress in the upbuilding of the kingdom of our Lord and Master.

Report of Junior Secretary, Mrs. N. Wylie Stevenson, presented by the Secretary. Action thereon deferred until open hour.

While waiting for Juniors to come up, Bible Songs No. 134 was sung. A Junior exercise was given by the Juniors of the mission school, under the care of the session of the United Presbyterian Church of Bloomington, under the leadership of Mrs. Alice Marlin. The children filed in by twos. After recitations and singing, they marched out in the same orderly manner. A rising vote of thanks was given to Mrs. Marlin in acknowledgment of her training of the children.

Open hour. Discussion of Secretary's report called for. No discussion.

Report, Young Women's Work. A motion that course of Bible study on missions be prepared for the young women was lost.

The Junior Secretary was given an opportunity to speak further on her work. Her report, on motion, was adopted, the recommendations contained therein to be referred to a committee, as per action of convention.

Mrs. H. C. Campbell, president of Women's Association Work, presented the claims of the Association and asked each to secure a copy of the annual report and to become a member of the Association.

Mrs. G. M. Moore moved that we recommend to the young women the "United Study of Missions." Carried.

Mrs. R. A. Elliott moved that, if possible, some special work be given to the Young Women's Society. Motion lost.

A series of questions on our women's work, sent to the President in printed form, was distributed among the delegates and were answered by those in position to do so. Mrs. Stewart, of Argyle, had this exercise in charge.

Meeting closed by singing a portion of psalm in Bible Songs.

WEDNESDAY EVENING, MAY 11.

Thank-offering evening never loses its interest for the women of our Church. The intense personal interest we all have in this service makes it doubly dear to us, and as it is hallowed by the praise and prayer service accompanying, its influence reaches all hearts, and we are thankful and proud to be a part of this beautiful service. Mrs. Mary Clokey Porter, the Thank-Offering Secretary, was in charge, the lady appointed, First Vice-President Mrs. J. A. McNaugher, of Allegheny, being unable to preside. The service prepared by Mrs. McNaugher was used, and consisted of psalms and responsive Scripture reading.

During the singing of a psalm, the delegates, bearing the offerings of their respective presbyteries, walked in procession and stood in line, while Mrs. Geo. M. Moore, of Xenia, offered the consecration prayer, which dedicated our offerings to the work of the Lord. The amount of the offering of each presbytery was read to the audience by the Thank-Offering Secretary.

As several presbyteries are yet to be heard from, the correct amount cannot at this time be given, but will be correctly given in the minutes of July.

The address of the evening was given by J. Campbell White, financial secretary of the Ways and Means Committee. He paid a high tribute to the work of the United Presbyterian women, and made helpful suggestions regarding our women's work.

A thank-offering prayer was offered by Mrs. N. H. Brown, of Monmouth, one of the first life members of the W. G. M. S. Evening service closed with the benediction pronounced by Rev. Mr. Reed, of Bloomington, Indiana.

The offering taken amounted to $32.07, and was included in the thank-offering.

THURSDAY, MAY 12, 9:00 A. M.

The devotions of the morning were in charge of Miss Fannie C. Martin, missionary to India. Subject, "Spiritual Life; Its Cause; Its Grandeur."

The roll was called, showing 117 persons entitled to vote.

Minutes of Tuesday evening, Wednesday morning and afternoon read and approved.

Report of the Foreign Secretary, prepared by the Assistant Foreign Secretary, was, in her absence, read by Mrs. J. B. Hill and adopted.

Mrs. W. J. Reid, Secretary of Foreign Work, since deceased, spoke at length on the report.

Report of Secretary for Home for Missionaries' Children, Mrs. R. S. Smith, was read and adopted. Financial statement also presented and adopted with the report.

Report of Home Mission Secretary, Mrs. E. M. Campbell. This report includes the report of the Ministerial Relief Fund. Report adopted. The Secretary asked that she be allowed to give seven minutes of her time to Miss Jennie Bryant, a worker in the Italian Mission, in Pittsburg, Pa. This was granted, and Miss Bryant in the few minutes at her disposal gave a most interesting account of the work, describing the mode of life, and improvement in their manner of living after conversion. Home mission report, on motion, adopted.

As the election of officers of the W. G. M. S. was the order of the day, Mrs. Stewart, of Argyle, offered prayer for guidance in this important matter.

Conference on medical missions, Mrs. R. A. Elliott, of Monongahela, presiding.

Mrs. Elliott opened the conference by reading a paper; subject, "Medicine An Open Door," followed by Mrs. J. A. McConnollee, of Rawal Pindi, India, subject, "The Physician as An Evangelist"; Mrs. S. C. Parker, of Philadelphia, Pa., subject, "Jesus, Our Example in Medical Missionary Work; Miss Mary C. Webster, subject, "Hospital and Out-Patient Department"; Mrs. D. C. Stewart, of Salem, N. Y., subject, "Some Incidents of Medical Missionaries."

The officers elected at this meeting were invited to the platform, introduced to the audience, and received with the Chautauqua salute, each officer responding with brief remarks, thanking the convention for the honor conferred.

Committee on visiting Indiana State University recommended that the convention accept the invitation to visit the university on Friday afternoon. Report adopted as amended, that we visit the university after lunch, 3:30 P. M., on Friday.

Committee on Place. Mrs. N. H. Brown, chairman, reported as follows:

Your committee have received invitations for the convention of 1905 from Albany, Oregon Presbytery, and from Monongahela Presbytery; and while we would be very glad to accept the invitation from Albany, after careful and prayerful consideration deem it unwise to recommend going so far for two reasons—the great expense involved in necessary railroad fares and the time it would consume. The delegates would be obliged to travel on Sabbath or break largely into three weeks, which as busy women they can hardly afford to do. Therefore your committee recommends that you accept the kind invitation from our sisters in Monongahela Presbytery.

Respectfully submitted,

MRS. PRITCHARD.
MRS. KELSO.
MRS. STEELE.
MISS KERR.
MRS. N. H. BROWN, Chairman.

Mrs. Campbell moved that this report be adopted. Substitute motion carried that the whole matter be deferred until the corporation meeting, the fourth Friday of May.

Mrs. N. H. Brown moved that the delegates to conventions pay for dinner at future conventions. Amended to include suppers also. Carried.

Report of the Junior Conference.

A most interesting and enthusiastic Junior Conference was held at one o'clock on Thursday, May 12, led by Mrs. Stevenson, and opened by prayer by Mrs. McLaughlin, of Topeka.

The work of the Little Light Bearers was carefully explained and emphasized by Mrs. Stevenson and discussed by the delegates. Honorary membership was also urged as a means of raising a contingent fund for the Junior work.

The testimony of a number of Junior superintendents that the children greatly miss the Cozy Corner, which was formerly a department of the Junior Magazine, called forth a recommendation that the management be asked to restore "Aunt Ella" and "The Cozy Corner" to the Juniors' Missionary Magazine. A spirited discussion about the Junior thank-offering being included with the women's followed, and resulted in another recommendation being adopted as follows: That it is the sense of this Junior conference that all Junior thank-offerings be reported separate from the women's thank-offerings, both to the presbyterial and general conventions.

All who attended the Junior conference would have been glad to have been given at least twice as much time to consider the Junior work as was assigned them.

MRS. J. S. POLLOCK, Secretary.

Report adopted.

Mrs. C. W. Yourd, recording secretary of the Board of Directors of the W. G. M. S., gave notice of the corporation meeting to be held on the fourth Friday of May in the Board of Publication Building, Ninth Street, Pittsburg, Pa., at 10:00 A. M.

Meeting closed with prayer by Mrs. H. C. Campbell.

THURSDAY, MAY 12, 7:45 P. M.

Meeting opened with evening worship, Mrs. Graham presiding. Subject, "Glorious Promise of the Spread of the Gospel."

Miss Elizabeth Campbell, missionary to the Sac and Fox Indians at Tama, Iowa, gave an interesting address on "Our Work Among the Indians."

Miss Elnora McMunn, our home missionary in Cincinnati, Ohio, told of her work among the poor and needy in that city. No. 127, Bible Songs, was sung.

Address was given by Dr. Anna Watson, of Egypt. In this address she drew the contrast between the sick-room of the Christian and that of the heathen, and urged the women of the Church to further efforts to secure the great need of the society at the present time—additional medical missionaries. At the close of her address a rising vote of thanks was given to the ladies who had addressed the audience.

The foreign, home, and freedmen missionaries were called to the platform and introduced to the audience. A request was made that the mothers be invited to the platform also.

Mrs. Dr. W. J. Reid, Secretary of Foreign Work, introduced the foreign missionaries as follows Miss Elizabeth, or, as she is affectionately called, "Auntie Gordon," whose fiftieth anniversary of foreign work had just passed; Mrs. J. A. McConnollee, Miss Jean Morrison, Dr. Anna Watson, Miss Louise Martin, Mrs. J. P. Lytle, Miss Adele McMillan, and Miss Wilson.

Mrs. H. C. Campbell, Secretary of Home Mission Work, introduced the workers in the home field as follows: Miss Elnora McMunn, of Cincinnati; Miss Elizabeth Campbell, of Tama, Iowa; Miss Jennie Bryant, of Pittsburg; Mrs. Marlin, of Bloomington; Miss Stewart, of Dayton, Ohio.

Mrs. J. B. Hill, Secretary of Freedmen's Work, introduced Miss Margaret T. Kerr, teacher in the sewing department at Thyne Institute, Chase City, Va.

Rev. J. D. Barr and sister, Miss Frances, of Bloomington, were invited to the platform, being children of our missionary, Rev. Mr. Barr, of India.

The mothers of the missionaries who were present were also presented to the audience.

As these representatives of our missionary work retired from the platform two verses of Bible Songs No. 200 were sung.

Greetings were received from the Women's Missionary and the Junior Missionary societies of Waitsburg, Washington, as follows:

WAITSBURG, WASH., May 9, 1904.

To the W. G. M. S., Bloomington, Ind.

DEAR SISTERS: The W. M. S. and the J. M. S. of Waitsburg, Wash., extend heartiest greetings and assurance of sincere interest in the great work which you represent. Although we feel that we are very widely separated from you, yet we recognize the blessedness of spiritual communion and desire to express our devotion to the cause of reclaiming lost souls and establishing the Master's kingdom in the earth; and we do hereby assure you that our prayers shall be mingled with yours as they ascend to the throne of grace asking God's special blessing on the work of the convention.

Soliciting your prayers on our behalf, we are, affectionately,

Your coworkers in Christ,
MRS. R. M. HORNER, Pres. W. M. S.
MABEL N. HAWK, Supt. J. M. S.

Meeting adjourned with benediction pronounced by Rev. Mr. Allison, pastor of the Presbyterian Church of Bloomington.

An offering was taken, this money to be placed in contingent fund of society.

FRIDAY, MAY 13, 8:30 A. M.

Mrs. Jennie H. Miller, of Venitia, was in charge of the morning worship. Prayer offered by Mrs. W. A. McStravick. Minutes of Thursday afternoon and evening read and adopted.

Report of Committee on Recommendations read. Moved that the report be accepted.

First recommendation, no amendment.

Second recommendation, amendment carried.

Third recommendation, no amendment.

Fourth recommendation, no amendment.

Fifth recommendation, amendment carried.

Sixth recommendation, on motion, laid on table until we decide to put up the building.

Seventh recommendation, no amendment.

Mrs. Kelso moved, and it was carried, that this convention recommend that a building be built at the Tama, Iowa, Indian Mission.

Moved and carried that the work of building a mission house at Tama, Iowa, be made the special work for the Juniors for this year.

The report of the committee adopted as amended.

The Committee on Recommendations would respectfully report as follows: We recommend:

1. That a field secretary be appointed by the Women's Board to represent its work throughout the Church, details of this work to be adjusted by the Women's Board.

2. That we do not feel justified in paying the expenses of a delegate to the International Women's Foreign Missionary Society, which meets in Liverpool in June, but we authorize credentials to be given to any suitable person expecting to be present. If no such person be found, that the Women's Board have prepared and sent to that convention a paper explanatory of its work, and that we appoint Mrs. Dr. W. G. Moorehead, of Xenia, to represent this society at the International Women's Foreign Missionary Society, to meet in Liverpool, England, June 20.

3. That a life membership fund be established in the Junior Missionary Society, according to the recommendation of the Junior Secretary.

4. That prizes be given for essays on Junior work as follows: $10 for the best, $5 for second, and $3 for third, these essays to contain not more than eight hundred words, and to be in the hands of the Junior Secretary by October 1.

5. That a Junior banner be awarded to the congregational society having the largest per cent. of attendance in ten months.

6. That the Junior special work for this year be the erection of a mission-house at Tama, Iowa.

7. That the W. G. M. S. offer a prize of $10 for the best manuscript on giving and $5 for the second best.

Report of Memorial Committee.

MEMORIAL FROM STERLING, KAN.

Inasmuch as our W. G. M. S. has included in her objects of beneficence all the great enterprises of the Church except the Board of Education, therefore we request our Presbyterial Association to meet at Newton, Kansas, April 12, 1904, to memoralize the general Missionary Association to recommend the Women's Board to take this important work of Christian education into its list of benevolent objects appealing for our prayers and contributions.

Among others we would mention the following reasons:

1. The great importance of this work in the church.

2. Because it seems out of harmony with the spirit of our organization to discriminate against this cause by excluding it from the list of our avowed objects of benevolence.

3. Because definite recommendation on our part will help to keep this important work of the Church prominent before all the people.

MRS. J. G. BERRY, President.
MRS. ANNA WILSON, Secretary.
Sterling, Kan.

The Women's Presbyterial Missionary Society, which met at Newton, Kansas, April 12, 1904, heartily endorsed the action of the W. M. S. of Sterling Kansas, in regard to the Educational Fund not being included in her objects of beneficence, and decided to send the memorial with our delegate to the W. G. M. S., hoping some action will be taken that will take this into account.

MRS. C. MCAUTHUR, President.
MRS. M. M. GORDON, Secretary.

WHEREAS, The W. G. M. S. coöperates with the boards of the Church only at their request and by the endorsement of the General Assembly, and whereas such request has not been made by said board or General Assembly, we therefore recommend that no further action be taken on the memorial.

Mrs. Sharp moved and it was carried that the recommendation of the committee on the first memorial be adopted.

NO. 2—MEMORIAL FROM KANSAS CITY PRESBYTERIAL.

The Kansas City Presbyterial hereby most respectfully memorialize the Women's General Missionary Society, meeting in Bloomington, Indiana, May 1904; that the blanks sent to the local societies for the annual reports be so amended as to include a report of moneys used for congregational work. Our reasons for asking this are:

1. It would do justice to the workers.
2. It would be a true record of work.
3. It would encourage further effort.
4. It would show the society's attitude toward the different lines of work, and by comparison it would tend to stimulate effort to strengthen the weak places.
5. Because the blanks without this amendment are comparatively useless in showing the work done by many of the societies.

MRS. L. P. RENWICK, President.
MRS. L. W. WILLIAMSON, Secretary.

The committee unanimously recommend the granting of the request of this memorial that a space be left for congregational work on the blanks sent out for annual reports.

Respectfully submitted,
MRS. D. C. STEWART.
MRS. J. H. MCLAUGHLIN.
MRS. J. D. GRAHAM.
MRS. JENNIE RAMSEY, Chairman.

Moved that the recommendation of the committee on the second memorial be adopted. Carried.

Report adopted as a whole.

Report of Committee on Resolutions.

Mrs. J. H. Miller, chairman, read the report, which, as amended, was adopted, as follows:

WHEREAS, In the wise providence of God the W. G. M. S. of the United Presbyterian Church has been permitted to meet in the beautiful city of Bloomington, in annual convention, therefore,

Resolved, 1. That we express to the officers of the convention, to the members of the Women's Board, and to the secretaries of the different departments our appreciation of their work during the year, and of their efforts to make this convention a success.

2. That we recommend that the magazines and other literature receive a more extensive reading and a larger field of usefulness; that we sympathize with the Magazine Committee in its trials during the year, and bear testimony to the efficient editorial work of Mrs. S. S. Wilson, who was compelled to resign from the committee because of change of residence; and also to that of Mrs. J. B. Carruthers, as secretary of the committee, who during the past year has removed to Philadelphia.

3. Realizing the importance of Junior missionary work, both in the present and in its promise for the future, we do urge our women to carefully plan for this work, that every congregation may have a Junior missionary society where the children may be trained to become useful Christian workers, and, when practicable, we advise the organization of Young Women's societies.

4. That we thank the Financial Secretary, Mr. J. Campbell White, for his stirring address; that we make use of his suggestions; that we as Christian women realize as never before our responsibilities and our opportunities, and that we manifest more zeal and practice greater self-denial.

5. That continual vigilance be exercised in regard to the Mormon question, temperance, and Sabbath observance.

6. That we aim to double our thank-offering and other contributions by doubling the number of givers, and that we place thank-offering and self-denial side by side.

7. That we tender our thanks to those who so satisfactorily arranged the transportation in all its details, to the various committees, and to those who have taken part on the program.

8. That we tender to the people of Bloomington our sincere thanks for their royal entertainment, and to the pages, ushers, choir, J. D. Barr, the pastor, Miss Frances Barr, and to all, especially those of other denominations, who have made our sojourn so pleasant.

9. That we as delegates form prayer circles in our own societies, on return to our homes, for the enlargement of societies and the doubling of our contributions to the Lord's work.

On motion, accepted.

Mrs. Campbell moved, and it was carried, that a committee of two be appointed to carry a message of greeting from the convention to Mrs. Martha Carsell, a member of the Executive Committee, who labored so faithfully for the success of this convention and who has not been able to attend on account of illness. The chair appointed Mrs. H. C. Campbell and Mrs. Mary Clokey Porter to carry these greetings. Mrs. Crowe, the President, was invited to go with the committee.

During the open hour many kind remarks were made, delegates expressing their pleasure and profit at being permitted to attend the convention.

Mrs. H. C. Campbell moved that a rising vote of thanks be given to our retiring President for her unvarying courtesy and very unusual parliamentary ability in conducting this convention. Carried.

Singing of No. 199, Bible Songs, and prayer by Mrs. N. Wylie Stevenson brought the convention to the closing point, and the President, Mrs. C. W. Crowe, declared that after the benediction by Rev. J. D. Barr, pastor, the twenty-first annual convention stood adjourned until further notice.

REPORT OF

Recording Secretary.

You have listened with pleasure, indifference, or interest to the story the figures tell, as given by the Statistical Secretary. "Dull" is sometimes written after the word statistics, but it is never pronounced by the one personally interested in the figures.

The second chapter in the 1904 record-book of the W. G. M. S. is devoted to its agent, the Board of Directors. We present our report in a humble, grateful, and prayerful spirit, mindful of human weakness yet conscious of the guidance and blessing of God throughout the year just closed.

At the last convention the order given was "Forward march," and with renewed energy and adjusted step the board reorganized June 2, 1903. Officers and department secretaries were elected as follows:

President—Mrs. Annie R. Herron.

First Vice-President—Miss E. D. Brown.

Second Vice-President—Mrs. T. D. Mellon.

Treasurer—Miss E. J. Sloan.

Recording Secretary—Mrs. Sam'l Yourd.

Statistical Secretary—Mrs. Mary W. Porter.

Corresponding Secretary of Departments, Foreign—Mrs. W. J. Reid.

Assistant Foreign—Mrs. E. M. Hill.

Home and Ministerial Relief—Mrs. H. C. Campbell.

Freedmen's—Mrs. J. B. Hill.

Thank-Offering—Mrs. Mary Clokey Porter.

Junior—Mrs. N. Wylie Stevenson.

Parsonage—Mrs. G. W. MacDonald.

Literature—Miss Elizabeth Caughey.

Home for Missionaries' Children—Mrs. R. S. Smith.

Young Women's Work—Mrs. T. D. Mellon.

Railroad—Miss E. D. Brown.

Editor of Juniors' Missionary Magazine—Mrs. E. M. Hill.

Business Manager Juniors' Magazine—Mrs. N. Wylie Stevenson.

The Finance Committee was appointed as follows: Mrs. H. C. Campbell, Miss E. J. Sloan, Mrs. N. Wylie Stevenson, Mrs. Annie R. Herron, and Mrs. R. S. Smith.

The committee appointed on addresses: Mrs. H. C. Campbell and Mrs. E. M. Hill.

Owing to the increasing work of the Treasurer, on June 9 Miss E. D. Brown was elected Assistant Treasurer.

Mrs. E. M. Hill and Mrs. H. C. Campbell represented the board at the General Assembly, Tarkio, Mo., 1903, and at a special meeting held June 9 gave full and interesting reports of the proceedings of the Assembly so far as they related to the work of the W. G. M. S.

On June 16 it was reported by Dr. Martin that the registration papers of the W. G. M. S. had been received and filed for record and all work with reference to deeds of property in India completed.

July 7 the foreign secretaries were instructed to put a standing notice in all the Church papers that all young ladies make application for appointment as foreign missionaries through our foreign secretaries, and also that hereafter missionaries cannot be responsible for any boxes but their own, and persons wishing to send boxes to friends in the foreign fields must prepay freight clear out, owing to the trouble this extra freight causes the missionaries and the expense it is to the board.

The India Missionary Association reported that it had commissioned Miss Hill and Miss Anderson during their furlough in America to make appeals for a high-school building at Rawal-Pindi. The board, in conjunction with the Foreign Board, took action that we do not favor these ladies making appeals for that work at this time, as other work has been undertaken which must be met.

Work was begun at Tama, Iowa, June 25, by Miss Campbell and Mrs. Giffen. During the early fall it was found that Mrs. Giffen's health would not stand the strain of the work, and she tendered her resignation, which the board accepted with deep regret. Later Dr. Jenson, of Chariton, Iowa, was appointed to fill the vacancy.

Judge Henderson, a good friend of our Freedman's missions, donated an acre of land at Miller's Ferry and a lot at Prairie, Ala., to the W. G. M. S.

The Freedmen's Secretary, Mrs. J. B. Hill, and Mrs. H. C. Campbell, were appointed to attend the tenth anniversary of the Prairie, Ala., mission the first week in April and visit such of the freedmen's stations as they could conveniently reach in the time given. Some two weeks of time were given to this work, and information gained which will be of value to the board in carrying on the work.

In January Mrs. E. M. Hill and Mrs. Campbell represented the board at the Conference of Women's Boards of Foreign Missions in the United States and Canada, held in New York.

Mrs. E. M. Hill was appointed a member of a committee to arrange for a summer school of methods in connection with the International Union, and Mrs. Mary C. Porter was appointed a member of the Committee of Arrangements for the next meeting of the International Union.

A request comes from the committee in charge of the Women's Conference, in connection with the International Union of Women's Foreign Missionary Societies of the Presbyterian Church, to be held in Liverpool, England, June 30-July 1, at the same time as the Presbyterian Alliance. Three things are asked for:

1. A delegate to represent our Church's work and to speak a friendly greeting, in about two minutes' time, under the title, "Present Encouragements."

2. Literature and magazines for free distribution.

3. A paper; subject, "Expansion of Opportunity, Unequal Growth of Interest; How Can These Be Brought Into Line?" paper to be either taken or sent. The board has promised the literature and the paper, but as to who shall write the paper, and the sending of a delegate, these are for the decision of the convention.

In December Mrs. T. D. Mellon, Secretary of Young Women's Work, found it necessary to seek a change of climate and started for California. A son who was accompanying her took ill while en route and died in a Chicago hospital. The nervous strain and great trial caused our Secretary to offer her resignation as a member of the board, which with great reluctance was accepted, and later Mrs. N. L. Wallace, of Allegheny Presbyterial, was elected to fill the vacancy.

On account of change of residence, Mrs. J. B. Carruthers, secretary of the Magazine Committee, tendered her resignation, which was accepted with regret. On account of ill health, Mrs. S. S. Wilson, one of the editors of the magazine, also felt called upon to resign. The names of Mrs. George Moore and Miss Elinor Collins have been endorsed by the Magazine Committee and the board to fill these vacancies. Quarterly reports were received from the Magazine Committee.

Twenty-five dollars paid at one time will entitle any one to a life membership in the W. G. M. S. Three names have been received this year: Mrs. R. B. A. McBride, Mrs. Isabella E. McCracken, and Mrs. R. A. Elliott.

Members of the board have made ninety addresses to congregational and presbyterial societies during the year.

Twenty all-day meetings and three special meetings were held during the year.

For some time the board has felt that our work should be advanced by the services of a field secretary, and we recommend to the convention the employment of a field secretary to represent the work of the W. G. M. S.

The terms of Mrs. G. W. MacDonald, Mrs. E. M. Hill, Miss E. D. Brown, Mrs. Mary W. Porter, and Mrs. Samuel Yourd expire with this meeting.

The record book as kept by the Secretary is closed, but as the additional chapters of this book are read, and each secretary gives in detail that which we have outlined, you will have a thrilling story of the progress made under the order, "Forward."

MRS. SAMUEL YOURD.

REPORT OF

Statistical Secretary.

We present the statistical report of the Women's General Missionary Society for another year, that of 1903-1904. It would seem as if the members of societies, judging by sums total, had realized the sentiment that another year is but "another call of God to do some deed undone or duty we forgot," and that to us has been given another year to perform the duties devolving upon us as members of missionary societies.

According to our usual custom, the presbyterial and congregational blanks were sent out early in the year. The reports from India and Egypt were the first to return, the home reports arriving as late as the 1st of May. The figures in these reports are given by presbyterial secretaries, and for additional statistics see the reports of the separate secretaries and the Treasurer.

The summary shows reports from every presbytery in the Church and a marked improvement in the compiling of the statistics by the presbyterial secretaries. Also we wish to thank the secretaries for so promptly acknowledging the receipt of the blanks. Many of these cards have a friendly greeting, and the dry work of compiling statistics was lightened thereby. Some of the presbyterial secretaries succeeded in getting reports from every society in their presbyteries, and one writes that she nearly lost her position on account of her strenuous efforts to secure reports, but she did secure them, and her long presbyterial report was a picture to the Statistical Secretary.

Contributions to the foreign work, as reported	$23,878 00
Contributions to the home work.	7,650 00
Contributions to the Indian work	1,633 00
Contributions to the Freedmen work	4,687 00
Contributions to the parsonage work	3,133 00
Contributions to the Ministerial Relief	1,199 00
Contributions to the district work	4,981 00
Contributions to the Home for Missionaries' Children	477 00
Presbyterial Expense Fund	1,416 00
Orphans' Home	661 00
Memorial Hospital	446 00
Home for Aged	691 00
Contributions sent undesignated	147 00
Total	$50,999 00

Number of boxes sent, 747. Estimated value thereof, $11,588.

Women's Missionary Magazine, 6,026.

Senior thank-offering previous year, $32,052.26.

Junior thank-offering previous year, $1,400.56.

The foregoing figures represent the contributions of 63 presbyteries, one, Chillicothe, having united with First Ohio. We have 56 Presbyterial Associations and 7 presbyteries where no Presbyterial Association exists; 1,019 societies, with a membership of 26,575; 14 Women's Missionary Societies. Two Young Ladies and 1 Ladies' Aid have been organized during the year.

We have selected a few items from the report, to which we ask the close attention of the delegates. Under the heading, "District Work," which in these reports means "work among the poor and needy in your own neighborhood," and is so printed on every congregational and presbyterial blank, the following sums have been reported: $282 and nothing more; wrote and found it was for furnishing the church. $260; wrote and found it was for their own work and their own parsonage. $250, $400, $100, $184, all to their own parsonages. Another sum reported was $271; wrote and found this was for an old debt on the parsonage. Of these instances, the last-named sum is the only one not counted in the reports. Is not this congregational work under another name? Money contributed for magic-lantern slides for a missionary was reported, but not counted, as this was considered a personal gift.

Five separate sums of money were reported as sent to the Women's Board and undesignated. These are included in the sum total, but $25 reported for pastor's salary is not. Delegates from these presbyteries may recognize the reports, and will please see that their societies hear of this and correct their reports in the future.

There is a request that congregational work be again included in the heading for contributions in the reports, and a memorial regarding this matter has been sent to this convention by Kansas City Presbyterial for consideration.

Letters have been received from the western people urging this, as they say societies will find a way to report money used in the church and for church repairs, etc., and that it would be better to make it regular. We hope this matter will be discussed and adjusted to the satisfaction of all.

Objection has been raised to the "estimated value of boxes" being included in the receipts of this society. It has been the custom to add this amount to the amount of the general contributions, thus making a grand total. It is recommended by the Board of Directors that "value of boxes" be not included hereafter in the grand total.

In closing this twenty-first report of the W. G. M. S. we wish to acknowledge the guidance of our Heavenly Father during the years that are past and to praise his holy name that we are a united society, growing in numbers, and, we humbly hope, in faith, and that the contributions to the Lord's work are the result of that faith and desire to do his will.

Respectfully submitted,

MARY W. PORTER,
Statistical Secretary.

REPORT OF

Finance Committee

FOR THE YEAR ENDING APRIL 19, 1904.

The Lord has enabled the Women's General Missionary Society to close its books every year since its organization with a cash balance on hand, varying in amount as the contributions and demands of the work varied.

This has enabled us very repeatedly to have our Treasurer report more disbursements than receipts. As we never know in advance what work undertaken will demand during the year, we are hindered from making any permanent investments. So it was thought that we might help our congregations, which were sometimes paying large rates of interest, and even then had difficulty in borrowing money, by allowing them to borrow from us instead of the banks at a lower rate of interest than they could get elsewhere. To negotiate these loans, collect the interest and payments, and keep the books thus necessary, is the most important part of the work of the Finance Committee.

Loans are given on first mortgage only and for one year, with the understanding that loan will be renewed from time to time unless our work demands the money. Four and one-half per cent. interest is charged the first year; if renewed, five per cent thereafter. No new loans were granted during the year just closed. The payments on loans are made to the chairman of this committee, who forwards them to the treasurer of the society.

The interest on loans remains in the custody of the chairman of this committee, who deposits it as the account of the Finance Committee, and the money thus secured is called our "Contingent Fund," out of which all expenses of every kind are paid, thus making it possible not only to send one hundred cents to our several missions fields for every dollar contributed, but also to pay for the envelope and postage used in its transmission. Herewith follows report of loans at the close of year:

Congregation.	Paid during Year.	Balance Loan April 15, 1904.

Another duty of the Finance Committee is to look after suitable and reliable investments for endowment funds of hospitals and surplus funds of Women's Magazine. So far this has been accomplished by the purchase of bonds.

It is of course understood that the revenue from these bonds is not included in the foregoing report, as it is placed directly in the credit account of the hospitals and magazine in the hands of the treasurer of board.

With grateful thanks to the Giver of all good for his favor during the year, this report is respectfully submitted,

REPORT OF Literature Secretary.

Again we come before you gladly saying this is the best year of all—this time the very best, for it is not alone ahead in money, as it has been before, but in number of leaflets it leads all preceding years.

We don't have much money to show as a balance. This is why: Last May you saw quite a number of new leaflets, our own publications. That always means printing bills, and while the leaflets came in time for the May convention, the bills came later, and this year we had to pay them. And now that is all squared up and all is well.

We have a want we want you all to hear, and it is this: Will not some of our ladies throughout the Church write us good short leaflets, a good short story, a Bible exercise, something helpful for missionary meetings, something for Young Women's Societies, something on temperance, or on any line of church work? We do need some good short stories that may be read at missionary meetings, and we do so want our own publications. Please consider this, and don't consider too long, as we want to get out a new catalogue this summer, as so many on this one are out of print.

The United Study of Missions has wonderfully increased, mainly so in the West and Northwest, Iowa getting one-third of all the copies of Rex Christus sold, while Pennsylvania is away ahead in leaflets.

We have filled during the year one thousand and seventy orders. That means a good many leaflets; and while at times we were busy, very busy, we liked it that much better, for that meant more interest manifested. We only ask your continued kindness in the next year. We have nothing but praise for every one of you, for few, very few, have scolded.

A word by way of explanation, in passing, about postage: We have always said we pay all postage, but here is what we have had to meet repeatedly lately: You send for one leaflet, price two cents, but do not inclose two cents for postage. Or this: "I want the leaflet, 'John Eliot on the Indians,'" one cent. One cent is enclosed, so we send it, paying one cent postage. Now you see how hard it is to make both ends meet. Now we think it will be fair for all around if, sending for less than ten cents' worth of leaflets, you send postage. It will only be one or two cents extra to you, while it will mean much to us.

Here is another order we receive often: "Send me all the leaflets on the Indians by return mail; I 'll remit at once." We wait perhaps a month, send the bill, then oft-times get this answer, "I did not know I owed you anything." There are other things we would rather do than collect outstanding bills, even if they are small ones. Now all this is said in the greatest kindness.

A word by way of comparison, for you know that is how we judge a thing. The first year in this department seems to have started with a boom, Mrs. McPherson, Literature Secretary, selling 16,866 leaflets, distributing 1,725 free. This year has for the first time reached and passed high-water mark, 16,977 being sold, 3,117 free, besides 2,000 catalogues and nearly as many of "How Our Leaflets Will Help You." So now that we have caught up we feel we are on a solid basis, and hope to steadily grow and grow, and while we have a small balance, we have a well-rounded supply of leaflets on all departments of church work on hand.

MISS ELIZABETH CAUGHEY.

REPORT OF

Women's Missionary Magazine.

Madam President and Members of the Annual Convention of the Women's General Missionary Society:

In large measure, the Magazine as published must be the report of its committee, issued not yearly, but monthly. At this time, therefore, we shall not waste your moments in uttering empty platitudes; but shall lay before you a few facts and figures which, we trust, will show briefly and clearly that the work of your Magazine is not entirely stationary, but progressive. We shall compare our status on May 1, 1897, with that of May 1, 1904.

First, let us tell you that our outlay in money has advanced. This may be partly explained by the fact that four pages have been added to each regular issue of our monthly, and frequently for special numbers we print four pages more. This enlargement has enabled us to give ampler space to our Young People's Department, while at least two pages have been set aside in each issue for the important interests of the thank-offering work. A larger number of illustrations also has been introduced for the enlivenment of our columns and the instruction of our readers, while it must not be forgotten that we are printing 1,550 more copies now than we were seven years ago.

In view of these facts and our increased subscription list, we believe that this convention will endorse our policy of expending for the improvement of the magazine the money intrusted to us by those who read it. It is our thought that, as far as prudence will allow, the preponderance of the funds secured through the issuing of our periodical should be used for the benefit of those who are paying for it, and that these have a right to expect more from us as the Magazine's circulation increases.

On May 1, 1897, the cost of printing the Magazine for one year was $2,639.37. On May 1, 1904, the expense for a similar period was $3,287.15; but the number of copies issued at the former date was about five thousand, while now it stands at 6,550.

We would call attention to the fact that these figures do not, in either case, represent exactly the number of our paying subscribers. Now, as formerly, we, when occasion demands, send out sample copies. We exchange with other periodicals having a similar aim; and it seems right to us that, in the matter of gratuitous distribution special liberality should be manifested toward our missionaries, whether at home or abroad.

We do not believe ourselves to have been imprudent in the expenditure of our funds, as we think you will agree when we tell you that in the past seven years our balance in hand and our resources have increased from $2,483.11 to $4,609.06. Thus it will be seen, we trust, that our augmented expenses have been entirely justified by our enlarged subscription list, and by our increased hoard of savings for the use of future Magazine committees.

The past year has been, in great measure, one of tranquillity, though not entirely devoid of occasion for regret. We realize the shortcomings of our own work, and feel that the reason these blemishes have not been productive of more harm is because God is acknowledging the Magazine to be His instrument for good; and it is our hope that if we are patient and humble and painstaking he will overrule for good even our mistakes. To him, then, above all others, our gratitude ascends for his assistance, and, as we trust, his guidance. It has been true in our experience that

"Whate'er we leave to God, God does,
And blesses us;
The work we choose should be our own
God leaves alone."

We wish to thank others also: Our faithful agents, without whose unselfish aid our work would be sadly crippled; our readers, who have been forbearing and appreciative; those, too, who have helped us by articles or suggestions, or by recommending our Magazine to other people; our missionaries, who have faithfully, amid their busy lives, sent us letters or other valuable communications from month to month; the conscientious Thank-Offering Secretary, whose department is cared for with punctuality and efficiency; our publisher, who, with his employees, tries, in a manner far from mercenary, to make the Magazine creditable in appearance and accurate in type; the Women's Board, which, by its sympathy and collaboration has done much to stimulate us to our best efforts.

We have aimed throughout the year to give to each department of the general work a special number. This course, we trust, has been agreeable to our readers. It has not been possible for us to secure much matter originally contributed to our columns on the United Mission Study topics, for the reason that we have no mission of our own in China; yet, as we realized the propriety of following the prescribed course, thus becoming familiar with all branches of Protestant foreign missions, we have tried to secure good articles from contemporary literature.

Two members of the committee have been obliged, with regret, to ask for dismissal from our number. Mrs. E. H. Carruthers and Mrs. S. S. Wilson, on account of removal from Xenia, will be unable longer to sustain the happy task of assisting in the care of the Woman's Missionary Magazine, and have accordingly tendered their resignations.

Your committee, with no thought of vainglory, but entirely of humble gratitude, finds joy in assuring this convention that the periodical which is the organ of the Women's General Missionary Society, yet which the committee has learned to call affectionately "Our Magazine," had never a more promising outlook than it possesses at the present time, after seventeen full years of service.

Respectfully submitted by the managing committee of the Women's Missionary Magazine.

MARY H. WILSON, Secretary.

REPORT OF

Thank-Offering Secretary

FOR THE YEAR ENDING APRIL 15, 1904.

With the voice of joy and thanksgiving we come to publish God's goodness in the Thank-Offering Department of our women's work.

From the beginning of the year to its close, every one of the twelve months, as never before, contributed its full proportion of evidence concerning the widening and deepening of the interest throughout the Church in this beautiful form of gift-worship to our God.

The spirit of inquiry in reference to the history of the thank-offering movement, of its helpfulness in all departments of the women's work, of the exact distribution of the gifts has been such that over almost every one of the several hundred letters received during the year might be appropriately drawn a large interrogation point. So many important questions came directly and indirectly from pastors and others that in April some of these were answered through the columns of the Church papers, with the hope of thus giving satisfaction to all. Others have been answered from time to time through the columns of the Women's Missionary Magazine and in private correspondence.

One question which seems to have troubled the minds of some of our good workers is, What shall be done where missionary societies give more largely to the thank-offering fund than to the contributions for our women's work? We answer: By all means possible work up the contributions, and never in any case work down the thank-offering. No one should publicly or privately say a word to discourage any society or individual from giving liberal thank-offerings, but on the contrary she should urge that either form of giving to the Lord's work should be increased if there be a falling off in one.

We should remember that the thank-offering goes toward helping every department of our women's work, just as do the contributions, and liberality shown in either or both departments benefits the work.

Orders for literature, responsive services, and envelopes, began coming in early in October, indicating that where congregations find it difficult during the winter months to come together for their annual "ingatherings" they prefer to observe these early in the fall rather than miss the blessings which accompany these precious hours spent in gift-worship. While this change of time with some congregations may have lessened the amount given for this year, it will likely tell for an increase the coming year.

Through the monthly messages in the Thank-Offering Department of the Missionary Magazine we have been enabled to keep in touch with the workers over the Church as we could not have done in any other way. After a message had been published it was most cheering to receive letters with assurances as, "We will do our full part toward carrying out your plans," "Count on our society following your suggestions," etc. Had we time to give the reports of "ingathering," they would be of deep interest to you all, as at each one a program was carried out that indicated wonderful interest.

In some congregations special interest was shown in having the Juniors and the Cradle Roll (the Little Light Bearers) precede the senior members in placing their gifts upon God's altar. What joy in heaven as well as on earth would be given if such a beautiful scene would be enacted at every congregational ingathering. Would it not help to fulfill the prophecy, "A little child shall lead them"?

Extracts from pastors' sermons were most inspiring, and proved that there is a power back of all our women's work when the good pastors give it their support and sympathy.

One pastor wrote early in March saying he was not satisfied with the interest taken in his congregation in the giving of thank-offerings, and suggested that your Secretary send him a personal letter to read from the pulpit. This, with helpful leaflets, was sent, and after the ingathering he wrote that, while bad roads made the attendance small, their offering would reach one hundred dollars, almost double that of last year. With about twenty members in the Women's Society and not over one hundred in the congregation, who can doubt but their offering is a liberal one even in God's sight?

One pastor of a large congregation, the week previous to the thank-offering service, held on the Sabbath, mailed a typewritten letter, enclosing thank-offering envelope, to each member in every household, asking for a separate offering from each one. In the letter he gave a comparative statement of the offerings contributed by his own congregation and by the whole Church, adding, "This will furnish a subject for an interesting home conference on the thank-offering at the close of some evening meal. Let such conference be followed by earnest prayer that our offering of next Sabbath may be the largest and most joyous of our history." This personal letter closed with these wonderful words: "As our offerings are noted in the heavenly world, may our exalted Lord not have reason to say concerning neglect and ingratitude, 'Were there not ten cleansed? But where are the nine?'"

Can you wonder that the love offerings brought into God's presence on that Sabbath day aggregated over eleven times their first offering given in 1888? God bless all such pastors, and may their number rapidly increase.

While very few of the presbyterial thank-offering secretaries have reported their personal work this year, one in the far East and one in the far West deserve special mention. The one in the East wisely began her work by trying to have her own society a model one. She sent to every woman whose name is upon her church roll a typewritten letter enclosing a thank-offering envelope, a copy of "An Open Door," and a leaflet on home or foreign missions. As previously planned, she had the executive committee of the presbyterial insert an article in the constitution defining the duties of the Thank-Offering Secretary.

If our sixty-one presbyterials would but appoint real live, energetic, persevering secretaries, and they would perform one-half the duties defined in that article, there would be a forward movement in our thank-offering work hitherto unknown. Not being satisfied with doing good work the past year, this faithful Secretary began as soon as the new Church year opened, in April, to advance the thank-offering cause for the coming year. She has sent a letter to the president of every congregational society, and, where there are no societies, to the pastors, asking if they will not make an effort to have their presbyterial offering in 1905 to average at least $1 per member, adding, "If we do this we can have an offering six times as large as was given by us last year." She has arranged to have a thank-offering committee in every congregation to coöperate with her in her plans to enlarge their offerings the coming year. One of her plans is to have each congregational committee secure:

Ten persons who will give ten cents per week into their thank-offering boxes.

Thirty persons who will give seven cents per week:

Fifteen persons who will give five cents per week.

This would give $200.20 for fifty-two weeks from fifty-five people, which would average far beyond what is being given now by the large majority of the women in the bounds of her presbyterial.

From the presbyterial Thank-Offering Secretary on the western coast comes a report of most faithful work done, as a much larger offering for this year than last goes to prove. She brought prominently before the women of the presbyterial the need of knowledge of the work, and the need of prayer for it, using as her topic the sentence from our last year's report, "If informed, you will be interested; if interested, you will pray; if you pray, you cannot but give and serve."

She reports the "ingatherings" all over the presbyterial as being full of interest, most of the societies having used the responsive service published by the Women's Board. She refers to a special sermon preached by one of the pastors on "Secret Giving." "The thank-offering secret kept throughout the year adds its influence on the life."

When we turn to reports from Egypt, we cannot but exclaim, "Thank God for good news from afar!" Last October an order was filled for three hundred thank-offering boxes for Egypt and sent out by one of the returning missionaries. Early in March Miss Thompson wrote: "Our Delta Presbyterial is to meet in Cairo March 25, and we are hoping to have a profitable meeting. Already the amounts given as thank-offerings in different places are being announced. In the Fagalla School we are preparing the translation of your thank-offering responsive service for the meeting. The larger class of girls will enjoy committing the verses and reciting them at that time."

Miss Rena Hogg writes from Assiout: "The amount of the thank-offering from the Presbyterial Missionary Society of Upper Egypt is $130.80, and will be expended on mission work in Egypt and the Soudan."

Mrs. Harvey writes: "As treasurer of the Delta Presbyterial Thank-Offering, I am glad to report an offering of $228. It has been divided as follows: Khartum Building

Fund, $100; building fund for Miss Kyle's school, $40.60; building fund for Miss Smith's school, $42.60; Tanta Hospital, $40; church at Edfa, $4.90. Total, $228. She adds: "This is the most we have ever raised, and I trust that other presbyterials will make an equal advance."

Can it be true that the two presbyterials in Egypt, in many cases out of their almost poverty, gave more this last year in gifts of gratitude to God than any one of thirty-three presbyterials in the homeland gave one year ago? Open your July Magazine of 1903, page 402, and see how many presbyterials paid less than the total of Egypt's gift, $358.80, and you will find your answer.

Might it not be well during the coming twelve months for these presbyterials to aim to reach a sum for 1905 equal to Egypt's gift this year? Many members in our smaller presbyterials, as in the larger, we know are giving personally as liberal gifts to the cause as their financial condition will permit; but let all strive to have the large majority of women and Juniors who give little or no thank-offering to unite in advancing the good work.

Every year the needs in all our mission fields increase greatly, and with these come greater responsibilities. And how are we as women of the Church to meet these if we do not plan for them early in each year?

At the meeting of the Women's Board, May 3, it was decided to hereafter make the month of June the month for special efforts in behalf of the Thank-Offering Department.

It was also decided to ask that the thank-offering for 1905 be double the sum given this year.

The latter request is not so much to have those who are accustomed to giving thank-offerings to double their gifts of this year, as to increase the number of givers throughout the Church. Figures show that $273,500 could be placed in the Lord's treasury every year if the 75,000 women whose names are on our Church roll would give on an average of but one penny a day.

As the offerings each year fall below $40,000, we may safely conclude that the large majority of our United Presbyterian women are giving no thank-offering to the Lord, who so richly blesses their lives day by day.

How are we to get these careless, indifferent ones stirred up to know the blessedness of giving gifts of gratitude to God? Only by personal, persevering effort, and by having "all at it and always at it" as our motto.

And who are expected to put forth personal effort? Every officer and every member of every society who is at present a giver herself. While your presbyterial thank-offering secretaries, your congregational committees, and your General Secretary have each their own special work to do, every present giver of thank-offerings should help on this movement by striving to get as many others to give as possible, and keep up the striving year after year until all our women will be keeping step with those who are in the front rank of givers.

This work all along the line, with a certain sum given regularly per day or per week through the thank-offering boxes, will soon bring about that glorious day when every one of our 75,000 women will be a grateful giver to her God.

We urge the use of boxes because where they are not used the giving is usually spasmodic, and depends largely upon the annual "stirring up" of a thank-offering committee, or, as in some instances, of the pastor. Thus but little real permanent good is accomplished in training the entire people to be regular systematic givers, while if you educate to the faithful use of the boxes you are establishing a habit of giving that will bring with it such rich blessings as are unknown to those who do not practice it.

A delicate young lady, a wage-earner, was asked not long since, "What about your thank-offering box? Do you still use it?" Quickly she replied, "I could not live and be happy without it."

This is the loving, generous spirit of gratitude we need to have established throughout entire Christendom. Ingratitude to God and man is one of the prevailing sins of the day, and the value of training in giving regular thank-offerings to God is seen in that it brings more of Christ and less of self into one's daily life.

Unfortunately for the whole thank-offering movement there is a seeming disposition on the part of the active workers in some congregational societies to rely upon a few women of means to bring up the total offerings to the sum they usually give to their presbyterials, without any special effort being put forth to bring the careless ones into the front ranks of givers and thus have them to also win the promised blessings. Such lack of effort is not God's way of working for his cause.

Again, there is a seeming disposition on the part of presbyterial workers to be satisfied if one or two congregations give liberal offerings and thus keep up the usual amount given by the presbyterial, instead of planning to bring every congregation, according to its ability, up to the high standard of giving set by the more liberal congregations.

Let every delegate, every officer, and every visitor present at this convention determine that, with God's help, she will return home and serve as a match to kindle the fire that shall bring our entire denomination up to the boiling-point of enthusiasm in giving gifts unto the Lord, and that you will never allow one of your congregations to get down to zero in giving, where some now are.

In the June number of the Women's Missionary Magazine will be found a "want column." Let every one present at this convention read it carefully and prayerfully, and then plan to do her full part thoroughout the entire year to help double our offering for 1905.

REPORT OF SECRETARY OF Young Women's Work.

We come to you with the first annual report of your new department, authorized by the general convention, held in Allegheny in May, 1903.

Many of our young women had already taken up mission work as congregational societies, and to such all honor and praise be given.

Your newly-appointed Secretary prepared and sent letters of greeting to these societies, which numbered sixty-eight. Some thirty-five letters were received in reply, each one expressing great pleasure that the young women were really to have a department "their very own." All seemed to feel that the work would go on with renewed vigor.

In November the Women's Board authorized your Secretary to ask that each presbyterial appoint a presbyterial secretary. We believe the clerical work of the General Secretary will thus be greatly lessened and the efficiency of the department greatly increased, as has proven true with other departments managed in the same way.

While results have not been large, much time and anxious thought have been given in order to gain an intelligent comprehension of what should be done, and the best way of proceeding with the work. Five new societies are reported: Knoxville, Tenn.; Salineville, Ohio; Detroit, Mich.; Bloomfield, Ind.; Rushville, Ind.; and Somersville, Mass. Two presbyterial secretaries have been appointed, one in Cleveland and one in Philadelphia. Carnegie, Pa., and Second Cambridge, Ohio, each reported sixteen new members as a result of the "fall rally."

The fact of many and varied questions coming to your Secretary shows conclusively that there is great interest abroad among the young women of the Church. It is characteristic of the young to want to do something; and could we take time to read you some of the earnest, enthusiastic letters of inquiry received, no doubt would remain in your minds as to the need and importance of this new department.

The Church is doing scarcely a tithe of the work waiting to be done in every field, and what better provision can be made than that we secure trained workers for the future? We hope the women's societies will not fail to carry the young women's work to God in earnest prayer, and may the young women themselves seek the Spirit's help and follow where He leads.

We are sure more work would have been accomplished and more new societies reported if, in the providence of God, your Secretary had not been called to resign her work in January. To human eyes progress seems to have been hindered, but we know "his ways are not our ways."

Your former Secretary holds in grateful remembrance the writers of the many cheery letters and various kindnesses shown her during her short term of work among the young women, and would simply say to them: "Be patient and of good courage. Your department will yet be helpful to you." Respectfully submitted,

ANGIE R. MELLON.

When considering what should be presented in this, our fifth annual report, an interesting little story came to us from the mountains of Vermont of a novel plan adopted by an intelligent Christian woman to increase the circulation of the Mission Dayspring, the Junior magazine of the Congregational Church.

This woman, believing that every child should be a reader of missionary literature, sent an invitation to each boy and girl in the congregation to come to a "Mission Dayspring party" at her home. Of course the invitations were accepted. The entertainment consisted of singing, readings, and recitations, culled from the magazine, followed by dainty refreshments. The affair was voted a success, and the energetic hostess was rewarded later by securing the name of each child in the Sabbath school for the subscription list of the Mission Dayspring.

This story has its parallel in our own Church, in the very kind and reasonable proposition of our beloved friend, Mrs. Janette Alter, who some months ago promised a serial story on Indian life for the Juniors' Missionary Magazine if the Juniors in a given time would add five hundred new names to the subscription list.

Because of these two incidents in magazine interests we shall not write our report in the minor key, as the financial statement might dictate; but facts must be presented.

With the enlargement of the Magazine, one year ago last January, additional expense was necessarily incurred. The price of the Magazine in clubs was not changed, the hope being entertained that an increased subscription list would cover the increased expenditure. Our hopes have not been realized, notwithstanding the loyal response of the Juniors to Mrs. Alter's suggestion. All through the year we have worked hopefully on, yet with a little wholesome dread of results. These results, as we feared, are not encouraging, dear friends, revealing as they do that there is not the desire on the part of our women to help distribute this little messenger of the kingdom until every member of the Sabbath school and Junior societies shall recognize the Magazine as an indispensable aid in the education of the boys and girls in things pertaining to missions.

Messages come very frequently testifying to the value and helpfulness of the Magazine in Junior work, and, in more than one instance, in Senior work. These have come as refreshing showers, giving new life and vigor, but the fruits can never be gathered until we secure a more general coöperation on the part of our women, who should be willing to scatter the good seed of missionary information most generously.

Our faith, however, looks into the distance and rejoices to see the two good sisters referred to in our introduction duplicated in every congregation in our beloved Church, whose happy and successful plans have secured for us a generous patronage and a sustaining subscription list, thus enabling the board to issue a magazine that ranks in size, material, and illustrations with the best juvenile magazines of the day.

The most cordial, prompt, and efficient coöperation on the part of those who share the responsibilities of the Magazine has made the editorial work a pleasure and helped us to attain more nearly our ideal. Our missionaries and others, as in the past, have most generously and kindly provided interesting and edifying reading-matter.

To one and all who have in any way given freely of thought and effort, and to those who have faithfully kept up and increased their subscription list from year to year, we extend most gracious thanks, pledging ourselves to reserve the best that can be found for our readers, counting the best none too good for those who in a few years are destined to lead our hosts to a glorious victory.

Thankful for the past and hopeful for the future, we turn our thoughts and efforts to another year of service for our Lord and the boys and girls whom He loves. May we not have your continued assistance in prayers and subscriptions?

MARY M. HILL, Editor.

REPORT OF BUSINESS MANAGER OF THE Junior's Missionary Magazine.

This report brings us to the close of the first year of our larger Juniors' Missionary Magazine. We must report a small decrease in its circulation. No reason can be given for this. Although the Magazine was enlarged four pages, the price in clubs remains the same, ten cents per annum. Only the single subscriptions were increased in price from 15 cents to twenty-five cents.

Our expenses in printing, mailing, and engravings have been greater this year. With the enlargement of the Magazine it was necessary to have new plates made for every department. The increased expenses for printing and mailing alone averaged $14 per month. The receipts from subscriptions were $126.07 less than for last year. Does it not look as though the larger magazine was not appreciated?

Two thousand or more copies were distributed free during the year. The interests of this publication have been kept before the women and children of the Church by much correspondence, by the board secretaries in their addresses, by notices in the Church papers and Women's Missionary Magazine, but with the results above mentioned.

Up until the time the Magazine was enlarged we were able to meet the expenses from the regular subscriptions, but this year we were obliged to call upon the contingent fund of the board for $200.

Shall we go back to the smaller magazine, or will our Junior societies and Women's Auxiliaries help us to double our circulation? We have no guaranty fund and no advertisements to help us out; we must depend solely upon the subscriptions. With seventeen thousand members in the Junior societies and bands of the Church, is it too much to ask that we have at least two-thirds of these on our list, and thereby place our Magazine on a paying basis? If every Women's Missionary Society will give only one dollar for ten copies to be distributed in the band, Junior Society, or Sabbath school of their respective churches where this little light of missionary literature has not found its way, we are sure the financial problem will be solved and we can continue the Magazine in its present size.

Junior Missionary Societies.

In presenting the eleventh annual report of the Junior Missionary societies, our hearts go out in gratitude to our divine Master for another year's opportunity of service.

It is encouraging to note the permanency the society has attained. Each year the women are taking a greater interest and a firmer hold upon the work, until the society has now become a living, growing organization, and one that will tell on the future missionary work of our beloved Church.

It is well known that blanks are sent to the presbyterial Junior secretaries early in the year, giving from six to eight weeks to gather reports from the congregational societies. This year we gave only four weeks, thinking there might be less danger of their becoming pigeonholed somewhere. However, about the usual number of letters came saying, "I have waited until the last minute for reports, but have not heard from the A, B, or C society." In such cases your secretary sets to work at once to see what she can do with these societies, by writing letters, by postals, by special delivery, telephone, or special messenger. If the report cannot be obtained from the superintendent, the pastor's wife is appealed to. Failing there, the last resource is the recording secretary of the presbyterial. Notwithstanding all this, some of our societies retain an impenetrable silence, and we must come to you with a report, not such as we should have, but such as we can get.

The long, severe winter just passed has told somewhat on our work. The mercury hovering around the zero point so much of the time was not conducive to good attendance or aggressive work. Reports from some parts of the Church tell of societies disorganized for the winter or, in some instances, very few meetings held, or, as one said, "Our society was literally frozen up."

The following statistics are gleaned from forty-six presbyterials:

Caledonia, Chicago, Puget Sound, Sidney, and Oregon all reported: We have no Junior Missionary societies or bands. Our efforts were fruitless in obtaining a report from Big Spring, Concordia, Conemaugh, Iowa, Northwestern, San Francisco, and Wisconsin. Will delegates from these presbyterials take note of this?

Last year 233 societies were reported. This year 254, a gain of 21. This includes the Little Light Bearers. Thirty-three new societies were organized this year, one more than last year. Four have been reorganized. Two are reported as haying reorganized as Junior C. U.'s. Six Junior C. U.'s have reorganized as Junior Missionary societies. Three societies are in a disorganized state, and 2 reported as "expired during the winter."

The membership reported for last year was 5,174; this year, 7,349, an increase of 2,175. Last year 769 members were reported in the L. L. B. circles; this year, 1,161, a splendid gain of 392. Honorary members, 640; this year, 698, a gain of 58.

We are greatly pleased to be able to report this organization so strong in membership, for by the action of the convention last year all Young Ladies' circles were cut out of this department and recommended to report under the Young Women's Department. In other words, 582 members were withdrawn from the Junior missionary organization, which, comparing last year's membership with this, looks as though we had a decrease, while if we add the above figures to this year's membership and deduct from the previous year we will still show an increase of 363 members.

Detroit, Wheeling, and First Ohio show the greatest number of new societies.

Little Light Bearers.

The members in these circles are little ones under six years of age. As a membership fee, at least twenty-five cents a year is paid for each one. In some societies much more is gathered through baby boxes and barrels. At the age of six these are brought in as members of a Junior Missionary Circle. Nineteen presbyterials report these circles. Many of these are in congregations where there is no Junior Missionary Society, but they form a nucleus for one. They should be under the supervision of the Women's Missionary Society. Here is an opportunity for every women's society, or young women's either, to get hold of the children, beginning in their tender years to train them for future

Your board is responsible for these schools missionary work. Let our rally cry be, "A Little Light Bearers' Circle in every congregation this year." The weather can have no effect on these, as their meetings are usually held but once a year, and that is in the beautiful month of June. Literature for organizing these will be sent free by applying to your Junior secretary. Although the amount asked from each one of these is but a mite, only twenty-five cents per member, yet it has aggregated the sum of nearly three hundred dollars this year. One hundred of this goes toward the support of Lois Reed MacClure, the four-year-old daughter of Mrs. Alice MacClure of India, the only married lady missionary under the care of this society. The baby's picture, mounted in various ways, has been quite an attraction to the L. L. B.'s. Eight hundred of these have been sent out by your Secretary this year.

NUMBER OF JUNIORS RECEIVED INTO THE CHURCH.

"Those that seek me early shall find me," is the promise of the blessed Master to those of tender years, and we believe it has been fulfilled to the 401 dear boys and girls who have given their hearts to him and united with the Church during the year.

COMPARATIVE SUMMARY OF CONTRIBUTIONS ENDING APRIL, 1904.

Special work	$2,124 53	$2,043 30
Foreign missions	997 75	873 45
Home missions	326 15	288 50
Freedmen's	287 50	232 75

Thank-offering	1,142 35	1,150 30
Orphans' Home	48 30	100 00
Memorial Hospital	54 85	49 50
Aged People's Home	12 50	9 00
Miscellaneous	514 48	455 18
Total	$6,369 11	$5,801 85
Value boxes and packages	$ 488 85	$ 636 20

While we show a decrease in contributions this year, we believe it can be attributed largely to the withdrawal of all contributions from the Young Ladies' circles, and the only wonder is that the decrease is not larger.

Notwithstand the difficulties under which many of our societies worked during the past year, it is worthy of record that every society except one contributed something toward the work of the general society. Nine societies deserve honorable mention because each one contributed over one hundred dollars. These are:

		No. Members.
Willing Workers, Second Church, Allegheny	$101	60
Gailey J. M. S., Fourth Church, Pittsburg	129	84
J. M. S. and Intermediate, Dales Memorial, Philadelphia	136	59
J. M. S., Avalon, Pa	146	90
J. M. S., First Church, Wilkensburg, Pa.	202	124
Young Helpers, Salem, N. Y.	228	125
J. M. S., Shadyside, Pittsburg	245	123
J. M. S., Ingram, Pa.	288	108
J. M. S., Sixth Church, Pittsburg	368	343

A total of $1,843 from nine societies. Mt. Washington, Pa., came within four dollars of the one hundred, and Etna lacked only six of the amount. Some of these societies have a large honorary membership, which helps to swell their funds. Sixth Church, Pittsburg, and Salem, New York, each have 114 honorary members. While the raising of money is not the main object in our Junior societies, it is important that the Juniors be trained in this grace also. As far as we can learn, hard work was necessary to secure these amounts, the superintendents laying their plans months beforehand as to how this money could be raised. Work will tell.

THE JUNIORS' SPECIAL WORK.

Fifteen hundred dollars for the Girls' School at Luxor, Egypt, was apportioned to the Juniors of the Church last year. The year just closing twenty-one hundred was asked for. Right royally have our Junior Missionary societies come up to the help of this school, paying last year $2,124.53, and the year now closing $2,043.30, a total of $4,167.83 in two years, and which was $567.83 more than was asked from all the Juniors of the Church. When we add to this $616.15 given by the other Junior societies of the Church, we have the grand total of $4,783.98, almost five thousand dollars from these busy, active little people. Five presbyterials report every society giving to the special work in addition to the regular departments. These are Muskingum, Delaware, Cedar Rapids, Pittsburg, Kansas, and Mansfield.

The special work of the past two years has been a favorite with the Juniors, and we would like to see the support of these pupils continued from year to year in addition to the money given to the special work.

at Luxor, Egypt, and Sialkot, India, and the money must be forthcoming to support them.

The board wishes to express its appreciation to the Junior unions and Junior Endeavor societies of the Church for the interest manifested and the contributions given to this part of the work, since these societies are not auxiliary to the W. G. M. S. and in no way obligated to send any part of their funds through the board. The special work of supporting pupils who are near their own age in a heathen land has appealed to them, and we believe it has been a pleasure to the Juniors to contribute to this object. We hope they may be even more deeply interested in building a schoolhouse this year for the poor Indian boys and girls of Tama, Iowa, who know as little about our dear Savior as those in heathen lands.

Thank Offering.

The reports say that in five presbyterials not one society gave a thank-offering. However, from personal letters we have received, a number of the Junior societies did give a thank-offering, and it was deposited with the women's offering and no record kept, so that it could not be reported. This should never be done. A space is given on the blanks for a report of the Junior thank-offering, and every society should receive credit for its own offering.

Methods of work.

Nothing especially new in the line of methods has been reported, but we deem it wise to give a number of these, as they may prove helpful and suggestive to new workers. Many of the superintendents find that contests for various things are an admirable and successful way of interesting the members and securing good attendance, the losing side to treat the others. Frequent socials in the homes are reported as good. "Mothers' Day," when all the mothers are invited to be present at the meeting. Giving pins or stars for regular attendance. Sewing for the hospital. Dressing dolls for Egypt and India. Occasional talks from the pastor and others. Talks from our missionaries. "We divide our society, each side trying to get the greatest number of new members. A new roll is made out every six months. We close the six months with a public missionary social." "Work meetings." Collecting pretty cards and pictures and making into scrap-books for Children's Hospital.

Four presbyterials report giving banners to the society having the best average attendance during the year. Des Moines Presbyterial adds to this also the greatest number of verses committed from the Scriptures. To interest in the singing, a number of societies report forming choirs from the Juniors. "Gaining members from unique socials." The above is from the social side. From the spiritual side we learn: "In the devotional meetings we are making a special effort in teaching the children how to pray, by talking over the things we should pray for and the needs of ourselves and others." "The Bible studies as given in the Magazine have been a great help. Clippings are distributed to be read." Another says: "We hold the interest by carefully-prepared and well-carried-out programs."

SUBJECTS FOR STUDY.

Every presbyterial secretary reports the societies under her care as using the lessons prepared in the Juniors' Magazine save one; but then, no Juniors' Magazines are taken in that presbyterial. A number mention using the Junior Normal Lessons No. 2. "Bible Characters," "Books of the Bible," "Missionary Catechism," "Our Different Mission Fields, Including the Soudan," "Life of William Carey." "Writing stories about our mission fields, making the children more familiar with these than their older brothers and sisters who do not attend Junior," "Our Relation to the Missionary and Missions," "Temperance lessons, very frequently illustrating with objects"—these are some of the best methods used to hold the interest.

Juniors' Magazine.

Nineteen societies report no Magazine taken. The ways in which this little monthly messenger, published by this society, has helped the superintendents and Juniors are numerous and varied. One says, "We have used the magazine on missionary nights, when the Juniors have met with the Young People's society, and found it very helpful." From several of the presbyteries we learn that many of the subscribers are outside the society, some outside the congregation and others in Godless homes. The above is truly missionary work. One says, "The Magazine has helped us because it presents missionary truth in a way that appeals to the children." Others say, "It has aroused interest in missionary work, not only in our own fields, but in others." "It helped us by suitable pieces for recitations." "We have something read or told at every meeting." "It has increased the interest in the special work." "Its want column suggests work that can be done." "The reporter's page is a stimulus to better work, but we like the Cozy Corner form best." On the blanks suggestions were asked for the Magazine, but only three were given; at least only three reached us. One asked for simple parliamentary rules to be given for Juniors. The other asked for the Indian serial story, and the third for more help on the Junior Missionary topics. Many expressions of entire satisfaction were given and the wonder expressed how so much could be given for so small a price.

The business manager's report will show that the Magazine was not printed for the price paid.

Recommendations.

We recommend:

1. That a life-membership fund be established in the Junior Missionary Society. By the payment of $10 any child may become a member. Any child from infancy to fifteen years is elligible, whether a member of a Junior society or not. Certificates of membership will be prepared and sent to each member.

2. We recommend as the special work for the Juniors this year the erection of a school-building among the Indians at Tama, Iowa. Two thousand dollars is asked for this purpose.

3. We recommend that a banner be given to the congregational society showing the highest percentage in attendance in ten months.

4. We recommend that $10 be given for the best essay on Junior missionary work, and $5 for the second best. These must not contain more than eight hundred words, and should be in the hands of the secretary before December 1.

Respectfully submitted,

MRS. N. WYLIE STEVENSON.

REPORT OF SECRETARY OF

Home for Children of Home and Foreign Missionaries.

Another year has rolled away, and again we stand before the women of the Church to give a review of the work done during the busy months gone by. As one year's work in this department is much like another, it is impossible to bring before you every year matter of unusual import, hence one report must necessarily be a repetition of another.

The health of the family in the Home has been mostly good, and all have been enabled to pursue their regular studies throughout the year without interruption. Our faithful and very efficient "house-mother," Mrs. L. B. Robertson, was quite ill for several weeks, but we are happy to say she is once more in her accustomed place. The interests of the Home during her absence were not neglected. Everything moved along in the usual quiet way.

The Board of Managers at New Wilmington has held regular monthly meetings. Your Secretary met with the managers at the Home at three of the quarterly meetings, twice being accompanied by members of the Women's Board. Through these visits, and through monthly reports from the secretary and treasurer of the Board of Managers, the Women's Board keep in close touch with this department of our women's work.

The managers by their faithfulness have shown their deep interest in the Home and its inmates. Four children of foreign missionaries have been in the Home throughout the entire year, and one, the daughter of a home missionary, a portion of the year. Two of the former, Leigh and May Alexander, of Aysut, Egypt, have completed their college course and expect to graduate from Westminster College in June, and go out into the world to begin their life-work and to assume greater responsibilities. For three years they have stood among the highest in their classes, and they will go forth an honor to their alma mater, to their parents, and to the Home, which has proved a happy and safe shelter for them. Three will be left in the Home, and we confidently expect others to be admitted before the college years opens, in September.

The rules of the Home require each student over twelve years of age to pay $3.00 per week for board, room, and laundry; those under twelve years, $2.00 per week.

To the friends throughout the Church who have kindly contributed toward the necessary maintenance of the Home we herewith extend grateful thanks. Through keeping this Home open from year to year, we desire to show our willingness to give Christian shelter and home comforts and privileges to the children of our missionaries, who through great self-denial are serving the Church, and who are compelled to be separated from their children during the time they are gaining their college education.

At the same time we believe that, as Christian women, we are thus obeying the injunction of Paul in Galatians 6:10, "As we have therefore opportunity, let us do good unto all men, especially unto them who are of the household of faith." While we are to seek out and care for the children of the world, we are urged to give special, watchful care of the children of the servants of our Lord.

Our earnest wish is that the year upon which we are entering may be marked by the divine presence in filling the hearts of the women of the Church with more zeal, thus leading them to better work, larger contributions, and a greater desire for information concerning the Church's work and its needs. For this let us all earnestly pray.

REPORT OF SECRETARY OF

Parsonage Work.

FOR THE YEAR ENDING APRIL 15, 1904.

In parsonage work an unusual year has closed, a year marked by a cloud—an overdrawn account and discouragement to congregations desiring parsonage aid from our Women's General Missionary Society.

But withal we have reason to come before you to-day with joy and thanksgiving, for He who guides the work and the workers has dispelled the cloud and left in its stead sunshine and praise.

At the opening of the year a number of applications for loans were on our waiting list, others were being received, and the deficit was large. Anxiously we watched the receipts, and each succeeding month saw the overdrawn amount diminish until, at the close of the year, April 15, the debit entry had been canceled.

This was accomplished, first, by the material help the thank-offering rendered; second, the board made a special effort to have societies contribute to this work more liberally than formerly; third, the board felt constrained to discontinue making new loans in all cases but two throughout the year.

This last-named reason has caused deep regret to the members of the board, and the policy was not adopted until after we were convinced that as long as we continued making grants the deficit would increase in greater ratio than the receipts would decrease it.

We know the work of the Church in many places was very much hindered because the desired parsonage could not be erected. In some cases the organizations were quite new, and the people unable to do more than contribute to the church building. We know, too, of at least two congregations where the pastor is unable to move his family because a house cannot be secured.

Applications aggregating $17,000, from ten congregations, are on our waiting list. How long shall these congregations continue waiting? This number, probably, will be augmented by six or eight new applications during the coming year. Does not this work seem indeed great and in need of better support than it has ever received? We would not desire you, however, to strengthen one part of the Church's work to the neglect of any other.

This department has passed the experimental stage, and has proved itself to be a necessary part of our missionary effort.

Just as the perfection that is possible in the Christian's life means development of all the essential graces, so does perfection in the manner of carrying on our Church's work mean proper attention to and proportionate giving to each of its essential parts. Have our societies been giving proportionately in the past?

Our record in the minutes of the Allegheny convention tells the following story: During the year which that report covers 233 societies, or less than one-fourth of the 989, contributed to parsonage work; 756 societies failed to contribute anything, and in nine presbyterials every society passed this work without leaving a dollar in its treasury. Will each delegate take special notice of this in her own society?

We trust that all subsequent reports will show contributions from every auxiliary. Mention might be made of at least one society that has doubled its contributions to this fund the past year.

That better support in the future will be needed is obvious for two reasons: The demand for aid in parsonage-building is increasing with the organization of many new stations; also the General Assembly of 1902, at the request of the Board of Church Extension and the Women's General Missionary Society, assigned to the women of the Church the entire parsonage work.

The two grants made the past year were to Latrobe, Pa., and Sheldon, Mo.

Our complete list of parsonages to date numbers sixty-nine, located in twelve States.

It gives us pleasure to report that the parsonage debt in four congregations has been canceled during the year. These are as follows: Aurora, Ill.; Colorado Springs, Colo.; Sunny Dale, Kan.; and Neil Avenue, Columbus, Ohio.

The statistical record for the past year is as follows:

RECEIPTS.

Missionary societies (Women's and Juniors)	$ 1,891 04
Thank-offering	7,000 00
Thank-offering (designated)	174 20
Interest, sale of Barber Company land, and designations	216 00
Repayments of loans	9,231 54
Total receipts	$18,512 78

DISBURSEMENTS.

Appropriations of past year	$ 6,500 00
Payments as designated	138 80
Overdrawn account, April 15, 1903.	11,016 05
Total disbursements	$17,654 85
Balance, April 15, 1904	$ 857 93

Respectfully submitted,

REPORT OF

United Presbyterian Women's Association.

We can hardly realize that time in its resistless flight has placed upon its record another year of labor for our divine Master and humanity. Seedtime and harvest, summer and winter, have passed over since last we met in annual convention and told you of our work, and as a band of Christian laborers we come together again to-day with songs of praise and voice of thanksgiving to lay our trophies at our dear Savior's feet, giving to him all the glory of what has been accomplished in the twenty-five years of our existence as an association.

We have been accorded the high privilege of another year of labor for our Lord, and that thought should fill every heart with gladness. He who spake, and it was done, could just as easily have sent his ravens to feed the hungry. He could have spoken the word only and the sick and afflicted would have been healed, and sent forth his angels to minister to the wants of his aged ones. But not so. As he commanded his disciples to pass over to the other side, that he might heal the man with the unclean spirit, so we are commanded to pass over to the other side of the road when we see those in need of our help—the destitute, the afflicted, and the friendless ones who will never cease out of our land. If it does mean a sacrifice of self, and we become weary as the burden of the work grows heavier or discouragements multiply, we should rejoice that to us it has been given thus to labor for Christ.

ORPHANS' HOME.

We know how our Savior when he was on earth took the children in his arms and blessed them and said, "Whosoever shall receive one of these little ones in my name receiveth me, and whosoever shall receive me receiveth not me, but him that sent me." Then how great a blessing rests on those who provide and care for his little ones in our Orphans' Home.

There have been in the Home during the year from May 1, 1903 to May 1, 1904, 106 children, 36 of whom were new ones. You will understand that a number of the children are half orphans. Often a father is left with no one to care for his motherless little ones, and places them in the Home, or a mother is left and has to earn a living, so cannot keep a home for her children. No child is refused admission on account of lack of funds, but if there is one parent living it is expected that he pay whatever he is able toward the support of the child. In many cases some relative contributes in a small way toward their support. Very often these people are able to take the children after a time and care for them again themselves. In this way there are children coming and going; so the number does not remain the same throughout the year. At present the number is unusually small, as there are only 65, and as the summer vacation is near there will probably be no new ones admitted until September. The children, when old enough, attend the public school, and on Sabbath attend church and Sabbath school at the Fifth Church, Allegheny. Each evening before retiring it is the custom for the children to come together in a certain room for Scripture to be read or repeated and a psalm or two to be sung, when all repeat the Lord's Prayer together and then march quietly up to bed.

Miss McMillan, the matron, left us in August, and Mrs. Lillian Sloan was secured to take her place, and has since been in charge; but she, too, will leave us on July 1, and the board is fervently hoping that a good Christian mother for the children will be secured before that time.

MEMORIAL HOSPITAL.

Our Savior gave of his time and strength to the healing of the sick and afflicted ones, and he blesses now those who extend a helping hand to the sick and afflicted. Our hospital, as you know, is small and necessarily limited in its work. The cases treated are, most of them, from the Orphans' Home, but when it is possible outside cases are taken in and given most careful attention. Last summer there were four little girls from the Italian mission in Pittsburg and a little Greek child from Allegheny. During the year from May, 1903, to May, 1904, there have been 184 cases treated in the hospital and about 150 dispensary patients. We have had but three deaths during the year. In the fifteen years of hospital work there have been 1,923 cases treated and but 39 deaths. In January our superintendent resigned to take up private nursing, and Miss Snyder, also a United Presbyterian graduate nurse, is now superintendent. The board has felt very deeply the loss by death of two of its number, Mrs. W. R. Ford and Mrs. I. W. Scott, who had been for years faithful and efficient workers. Thus, one by one, the workers are gathered home; but God does not permit his work to stand still.

We expect to begin our new hospital early in the summer, an extended account of which will be found in the annual report of the Association, which you will find on the table in the church. It was hoped that ere this ground would be broken and the building started, but for various reasons those of mature judgment have advised those having the matter in charge to wait for a time; but we hope the contract will soon be let and matters will be rushed, so that when another year rolls around there will indeed be much to report about our new hospital. In the meantime donations will be gladly received of sheets, pillow-cases, towels, and all those things which will be needed in such quantities when the new building is opened. They will be stored away and well cared for until needed. Donation and Reception Day at the Orphans' Home and Memorial Hospital will be held on June 2, to which you are all invited.

HOME FOR THE AGED.

Many, many years ago God commanded his children, "Honor thy father and thy mother." The same command comes to us, and we know he would have us not alone love, honor, and care for our own fathers and mothers, but for all aged and infirm ones, and especially those in our own beloved Zion who need our care. We love to think of our Home for the Aged in Wilkinsburg. What a comfortable, delightful Christian home it is for those in the eventide of life having need of just such a home!

The Home is taxed to its utmost capacity, and there is always a number on the waiting list. When a vacancy is caused by death it is always quickly filled, many applications coming from all parts of the Church. There are at present 51 in the Home, seven of these men. There have been but three deaths throughout this long, hard winter, one of these being the first inmate of the Home. She was in her ninety-fifth year. Another was a member of the family for eleven years. There are at present eleven over ninety years of age.

Plans have been submitted and approved for the building of a new wing on the east side of the building, similar in appearance to the one built some years ago on the Trenton Avenue side of the house, and we hope ere the next convention it, too, will be completed.

Now I desire to make just as strong a plea as lies in my power for your interest, prayers, and contributions for our Association work during the coming year. Are you a member of the Association? If not, make up your mind that you will be one. You are doubtless aware that the dues are $1.00 annually, and if you have the money with you to-day the Treasurer is here and will gladly take your name and money.

At the solicitation of some of our friends you know we decided to omit the usual bazaar last winter and make an appeal to the women of the Church to become members of the Association, and in this way have the means of support for our work. While doubting Thomas was among us as to what the outcome might be, and while we hoped that our rosy expectations might be realized and at least one-half the number of women in the United Presbyterian Church be recorded as members of the Association, only about $6,400 was realized. Now when you go home will you not see that if collectors are not already appointed in your congregation they be appointed at once, and go to work with a determination to have at least every woman a member of the Association? Of course if you are able to pay more it does not mean that you need limit yourself to this $1.00. To whom much is given, of the same shall much be required, and any amount, however large or small, will be gladly received. Perhaps you can interest some member of your society to endow a bed or a room in the new hospital or furnish a room in the Home for the Aged in memory of some loved one who has entered the Home not made with hands. Try to have the society to which you belong give something to the work of the Association.

I would also make an appeal for canned fruits, jams, jellies, and vegetables. You surely would not miss a few jars from your goodly supply, and if each woman of your society would contribute some, each institution would have an abundance.

Now, dear sisters, the work is yours as well as ours, and as assistance has always come when needed, so we believe it will come again. "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these, ye have done it unto me."

MRS. M. J. STEELE.

Report of Railroad Secretary.

We much regret to report a decrease in the attendance at our annual convention this year from that of former occasions, owing to the fact that United Presbyterianism does not predominate in and around Bloomington to the same extent that it does in other localities in which former meetings have been held.

Previous to the annual convention the rules regarding the railroad rates are published in our Women's Missionary Magazine and Church papers. A prompt compliance with these when purchasing tickets and when attending the convention would save the women themselves much trouble, and also enable the Railroad Secretary to attend to her duties promptly. She would emphasize the verbal instructions given during this and previous conventions. "Should any one holding a certificate have trouble on the homeward journey in securing the reduced fare, let her pay full fare home, get a receipt from the ticket agent, mail it and her certificate to the Railroad Secretary of the convention, so that she may take the matter up with the railroad official at headquarters and have it rectified.

In addition to the instructions given in the foregoing paragraph, we would recommend the women to be more careful and sign their certificates when purchasing their tickets; also see that the ticket agent uses pen and ink instead of an indelible pencil, as the special agent who vises the certificates at the convention refuses to accept those so signed.

We desire to express our hearty thanks to the District Passenger Agent, Mr. J. K. Dillon, for the great service he rendered the delegates in this matter; also to the women who assisted the Railroad Secretary in her work at the convention.

The number of delegates and visitors in attendance was as follows:

Trunk Line Passenger Association....	11
Central Passenger Association.....	115
Western Passenger Association.....	17
Total	143

Respectfully submitted,

MISS E. D. BROWN,
Railroad Secretary.

REPORT OF

Foreign Department.

Some one has said, "We take no note of time, but from its loss." This may be true of some people, but not of the secretaries of the Foreign Department of the Women's General Missionary Society, who have to note the passing days and months as letters and messages come with commendable frequency from Egypt and India. And then there is the final summing up of all at the end of the year. It seems but yesterday since the story of last year was told, and now another is expected before we turn to face the responsibility of the coming twelve months.

Could we turn back the pages of the year and let you see our faithful women in city, village, and hamlet, out on the prairie, or in the little mission church, who have labored and toiled in summer's heat and winter's cold, who have patiently gleaned and made many sacrifices known only to themselves and their loving Master, then would all who read this report understand why it is a record of successful work. Then, again, could you have followed our fifty-two foreign missionary women as they have gone about their appointed duties from day to day, since the last report was written, you would understand more fully how much of time, strength, and prayer it has taken to provide the facts for the varied story of our wondrously blessed women's work among women.

Let us therefore unite our voices as we have clasped hands across the seas, and thank God for his multiplying power exercised on our offerings and efforts of 1903 and 1904.

Growth is the one word characteristic of our foreign work, and the very many opportunities that come to us for still further advancement are reminders that the Lord who changeth not has said, "Every place that the sole of your foot shall tread upon, that have I given you." Therefore may we not urge every member of our society to read carefully the following report, and to pray earnestly that we may be given faith and power to do still greater things in the days that may still be ours for service.

The Treasurer's books reveal a total of $69,018.77 for foreign work for the year just closed. The amount disbursed is $81,710.99. These receipts include all regular contributions and thank-offerings as well as special gifts. The itemized account of expenditure can be learned only from Miss Sloan's annual statement, but a few special items may be noted here that will prove interesting. First, we have, as in past years, the entire support of the lady physicians, now five in number, and of the forty-eight ladies who labor in the schools and among the women and children in the towns and villages; this with the traveling expenses of our out-going and returning missionaries. Second, we provide Bible women and helpers of various kinds, and scholarships in a number of schools in both Egypt and India. Third, the medical work has been generously supported; also the girls' boarding school at Sialkot, India, while the boys and girls of the Junior Missionary Societies, with a few Christian Unions and Junior Endeavorers, true to their past record, have come up to and passed the mark set for them by bringing in the liberal sum of $1,200 for the support of our latest and most interesting work—the Girls' Boarding School in Luxor, Egypt.

Of work undertaken and completed, we are most happy to report the satisfactory completion of the hospital at Tanta, the formal opening exercises of which will be announced in the near future. In past reports we have given you the size of ground purchased for this building and the number, dimensions, and general plan of the buildings. Now we would have you add to all the bright, new iron beds in the wards, the stands, tables, couches, closets, instruments, Bibles, books, and all else that go to make up a complete, modern missionary hospital. This picture, put in the form of an up-to-date cineomatograph, would reveal the energetic, skillful, and actively-engaged figures of our trusted physicians, the suffering women and children who pass in and out of the comfortable reception-room where the Bible women, day after day, earnestly strive to plant the seed of the Word. Then again you would see the wistful eyes of those on the operating-table, or the bed of languishing, that are making their inaudible appeal to their Christian sisters of the United Presbyterian Church for help, blessing and inspiration not only to a renewed physical, but spiritual life. The Martha J. McKown Hospital is completed, but the Christlike work to be carried on within its walls must have your liberal support, that it may prove the blessing intended to our sisters in Old Egypt.

In Luxor, under Miss Buchanan's enthusiastic leadership, continued progress has been made. Sufficient land, two and three-fourths acres, as a building site for school purposes, was secured and sufficient money to pay for it was generously given by tourists visiting Luxor, to whom the school work commended itself. The building now in course of erection will be quite commodious, the lower story consisting of a chapel and two adjoining class-rooms, which can be used as an annex; hallways, dining-rooms, kitchen, pantries, store-rooms, lavatory, wash-room, and water closet. There is the usual Oriental court, the outside opening of which is in the rear of the building. The above rooms are arranged around the court with a passage-way running around three sides of the court. The second story will be made up of dormitories and perhaps other sleeping rooms. Fifteen thousand dollars have been advanced for this work, and it is now expected that the building can be ready for use by September.

Since writing our last report the following ladies have been appointed to foreign work who are now busy acquiring the language and "lending a hand" whenever possible:

To Egypt—Miss N. Belle Drake, M. D., Slippery Rock, Pa., supported by Women's Missionary Society of Omaha Presbytery; Miss Jennie L. Gibson, Barnett, Vt., supported by First Church, Mercer; Miss Anna M. McConaughy, New Concord, Ohio, supported by Women's Missionary Society of Chartiers Presbytery; and Miss Alfaretta Hammond, Cedarville, Ohio, supported by Women's Missionary Society of Xenia Presbytery.

To India—Miss Laura Cleland, Cambridge, Ohio, supported by the Women's Missionary Society of the Sixth Church, Pittsburg, Pa.; Miss Flora J. Jamison, Avalon, Pa., supported by the Sabbath school of the Avalon church.

During the last two months four more appointments have been made as follows: Miss Ruth Work, now a faithful teacher in the Pressley Memorial Institute, Assiout, Egypt, who will return to this country in June for a short rest and sail with the outgoing missionaries in the fall and enter upon regular missionary duties in Egypt. It is thought that Miss Work's support is provided for; also that of Miss Mary Kyle, of Xenia, Ohio, who has been assigned to India. Miss Margaret M. Wilson, of the Second Church, Chicago, supported by the Second Church, Mercer, Pa., will go to India. Miss Laura B. Walker, Carnegie, Pa., has been appointed to Egypt. Six other young women have made application whose credentials are now under consideration, but it seems doubtful whether further appointments will be made this year, as it is the policy of our Women's Board to avoid debt of any kind.

Detailed reports from both Egypt and India are printed in this connection, and we ask you to give them a careful reading.

Respectfully submitted,

MRS. E. M. HILL,
Assistant Secretary.

EGYPT.

Work Among the Women and Girls.

EDITED BY MRS. E. N. GIFFEN.

"Pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest, that he would send forth labourers into his harvest."

Perhaps never before have we felt more keenly that these words are spoken to us. In looking over the reports that come from all over the field, we find that Bible women, or teachers for women in their homes, are far too few to comply with the requests from the women themselves or from their husbands who desire that they be taught the Word. Some congregations report a majority of female communicants. In such cases it is where the women have had teaching in their homes or in small prayer-meetings.

It is hard in the large cities to get the women to come to a general prayer-meeting. The distance is too great for them to attend, and in order to reach them the workers must go to them. Is it any wonder then that we hear, "The work among the women has suffered for lack of Bible women"?

Some of our pastors have been very successful in teaching the women of their churches through the special meetings for women. The pastor from Sinnoris writes: "I am glad to say that many of the women of our congregation are much advanced in grace and in knowledge. The difference between them and those who are outside of the church is as great as that between light and darkness. It gives me great pleasure to hear their prayers at the women's prayer-meeting. The average attendance at these meetings is thirty-two women and girls."

The hope of the future is in the children of the land. The regular systematic teaching in our boarding and day school will have its effect in their hearts and lives. Miss McDowell, in speaking of work in the Alexandria school, says, "We are grateful that, although we have Jew, Catholic, Greek Orthodox, Copt, and Mohammedan girls in our school, yet not one voice has been raised against the teaching of either the Bible or the catechism by the girls themselves or their parents." She gives an incident to show that the girls are thinking on what they are being taught: "The teacher was telling her class that there is no way of salvation except through Jesus Christ. One little girl with great distress in her face said, 'I am a Mohammedan. Will I not be saved?'" This little girl at different times has shown great interest in her Bible lesson and has asked similar personal questions.

The Presbyterial Missionary Society was held in Alexandria last spring, and this meeting made a deep impression on the women of that church and enlarged their ideas of missionary work. Their thank-offering amounted to $39.75, and besides this they paid the expenses of sending a poor girl from Cairo to Syria, to her own people, and gave a contribution to the British and Foreign Bible Society. Miss Finney says that many Mohammedan women in Moharrem Bey have become regular hearers of the Word. The Bible woman has visited the home of a family of actresses, and has succeeded in arousing such an interest in the Bible that several of them are reading it with her. Although Christian in name, they are as ignorant of the Bible as heathen.

Mrs. Coventry says of the work in Mansourah that there are many open doors, and the two Bible women have all the pupils they are able to teach. One great hindrance to the work of the girls' school in that place is the undesirable situation of its building, but no better accommodations can be secured.

One of the district schools, in which the work is chiefly among the Mohammedans, has doubled its number since last April. It is believed that these village schools will have a lasting effect in the communities in which they are and in the lives of the children that receive instruction.

Mrs. Hart tells of a visit in the home of a little Moslem girl in Zakazik. The child's mother, with a foolish little laugh, told the little girl to repeat her prayer that she had learned at our school, and the girl, a child of five and a half years, arose, put her hand over her eyes, and repeated the Lord's prayer nicely. The mother thought it strange that she should cover her eyes, and seemed to think this act really a part of the prayer. Mrs. Hart said to her, "Don't you cover your eyes when you pray, that you may not see anything to take your attention or distract your thoughts?" She laughed and said, "Oh, I never pray. I don't know how. We never pray. It is a shame for women to pray until they get very old, then they may pray." They seem to be afraid of prayer. The teaching of the Lord's Prayer takes more Mohammedan girls from our school than any other one thing, yet more than half of our girls in this school are Mohammedans.

We often speak of the work among the women being so discouraging. It is hard to get workers who are willing to go from house to house, but those whose hearts are in the work and who do it for the love of the Master are very faithful. We feel that their work is not without fruit. This will be seen in the case of the Bible woman for the Tanta Hospital clinic, whom Mrs. Hunt describes as "a most pious woman whose heart is wholly in the work." She is a woman of dignity and experience. Her talks in the missionary society and women's prayer-meetings are most helpful. She also has a good influence on the women of the congregation. She was never in school, but learned to read in her home years ago, and is one of the fruits of the Bible work in Mansourah.

All the school girls attend the girls' monthly missionary meeting. From their voluntary offerings they support a poor old woman who has no one to care for her. Hearing of a poor family whose children could not attend school on account of having no suitable clothing, they voted to expend their next meeting's collection, which amounted to $2.10, for this needy family, and the girls never seemed happier than when making the dresses for these poor children, three of whom are now in school. Miss Bell closes this incident with, "The year as a whole has been one of blessing, and we trust some substantial progress has been made."

However much encouraged we may be over the work in the day schools, we feel that the results from the boarding schools are far greater. The careful home training and constant supervision and example of the lady missionary and her devoted helpers will have an influence on the hearts and lives of the girls that cannot be effaced by time or contact with their home friends. Miss Kyle says, "We have great cause for thankfulness in that the Lord has so signally blessed the school. The daily attendance has been large and regular. We have felt especially crowded in the boarding department. Every available space was taken at the beginning of the year and remained filled throughout the year. In all the years of the history of the school, never have we had such a large number desiring Christian education as at the present time. The enrollment the past year was 380 boarders and day pupils, and yet only $105 was drawn from the mission treasury to help defray the expenses of the school."

The average monthly enrollment of the Fagalla School was 192. The religious meetings in this school are prayer-meetings each Wednesday, Christian Endeavor meeting each Friday, and Sabbath-school and church services on Sabbath. One day in the month the Wednesday meeting is a missionary society, in which over eighteen dollars were contributed. There is a temperance meeting the last Wednesday of the month, when the children have verses, readings, etc., on that subject. Miss Thompson says further that the Christian Endeavor Society has perhaps done more than anything else to develop their religious life, and it has been a source of thankfulness that such an interest has been manifested in the society.

In the report of the women's work in Cairo, five districts are included. Miss Smith says of two of these that there are 152 pupils taking lessons, besides 167 regular hearers of the Word. The teachers have done faithful work, the pupils are much interested in their lessons, and the hearers in listening to the gospel story.

Miss Thompson says of the three other districts that the Esbikieh is the oldest and most important center. In the three districts eleven prayer-meetings are held weekly for women and girls in different places, under the supervision of three missionary ladies, with an average attendance of 148 women and 432 girls. Some of the meetings are held in the school, but others are from house to house. A few of the meetings in Boulac have been in the houses of Moslem pupils.

The one Bible woman in the Benha district has fifty-three pupils, and the work seems encouraging in spite of the fact that there is no missionary superintendent to watch over it.

There is no special work for women in Madenet el Fayoum. Mrs. Reed has done what she could to encourage the women to come to the church services. A part of the time they had a very faithful evangelist, who was a great help to the women.

In the large territory between the Fayoum and Assiout, embracing the provinces of Beni Suef and Minich, there are 787 female communicants, and the number of women and girls attending the Sabbath morning services is 1,211. Few women attend the evening services during the week. There is but one teacher of women in all the Minich province, and none at all in that of Beni Suef. In the Minich province there are three schools for girls containing about 120 girls, and in the Beni Suef Province 31 little girls attend the boys' school, there being no special school for girls. This looks like a sad neglect of so large a field, but this is only a part of much that is yet to be claimed for the Master, if the workers were only on the field and ready to take hold of the work. We cannot but exclaim, "How long, O Lord, must this state of things exist!"

Passing on to Assiout, we have Miss Dickey's cheery report, beginning with "Praise the Lord. Praise him for all the blessings of the past year." She speaks in high terms of the work done by her American assistants. Their living in the school among the girls adds to the home atmosphere and is of untold benefit to the girls. During the year seventeen united with the Church. Death entered the ranks during vacation and claimed one of the brightest of the seventh class, who had intended, after completing her studies, to teach in her own village. During the school session another was called home. These were both His children.

Two Bible women have gone out from this school during the year, one to a near-by village and the other to Benha. Each Wednesday afternoon seven prayer-meetings are held simultaneously, each under the leadership of a teacher except the one for the four upper classes, which is attended by two teachers, but led by one of the girls. After Sabbath morning service the girls are asked questions on the sermon to which they have just listened, and they mention the thoughts that have been helpful to them. There is also a Senior and Junior Missionary Society, the contributions of which amounted to $52.25 during the past year.

The town school, known as the "Khayatt School," has an enrollment of 300. Miss Hogg says: "There has been improvement in thoroughness, order, and tone, and the efforts made to help the less efficient teachers have for the most part met with a cheering response. Two weekly prayer-meetings have been started, one among the older girls, conducted by themselves, with the help of one of the teachers, and the other a meeting for prayer and study of the Sunday-school lessons by the teachers."

Of the women's work, Miss Hogg says: "A blind girl has been added to the five already enlisted, and her salary is supplied by a few of the women of the church. The pastor preaches to 140 women, on an average, each Sabbath morning, while the Bible women in their week's work read and explain the Word in their simple way to over 700. Some of these are only casual hearers, but 518 are under the continual influence of this persistent sowing of the seed. There are wayside hearers, no doubt, both in church and home, and the birds of the air are everywhere active; yet surely from all this steady work there must be such a harvest as would rejoice our hearts could it be made visible.

The missionary societies of the town raised a thank-offering of $75 at their March meeting. Later in the year another opportunity occurred to test their readiness to give. When a few years ago the congregation moved out of their old church into a new one, they made the mistake of bringing with them the old benches. These were supposed to be good enough for the women, while a sufficient number of new ones were made to seat the men's portion of the building. In September a suggestion was made that the women should collect money for the reseating of the portion of the church set apart for their use. The pastor's wife with a lady friend undertook the work. Together they visited every woman of the church, rich and poor alike, asking all to contribute according to their ability. In a short time $500 was raised. The seats have been ordered from America.

In Wuladeeya a forward step has been taken by the securing of a Bible woman. She is a blind girl who received a good training in Bible knowledge in the Presbyterian Memorial Institute. Three-fourths of her salary is paid by a few of her former schoolmates. She finds more doors open than she can take full advantage of among both Copts and Mohammedans, and many new houses have been reached. She holds a little meeting in her father's house on Thursday forenoons, and the Sabbath attendance has been much steadier since she began work. She shows more originality than is usual amongst her class, and seems thoroughly in earnest, but her field is a hard one, and will test all her powers of perseverance.

In Luxor Mrs. Murch reports two earnest Christian teachers for the women, one of whom has 38 pupils and the other 31. There are two weekly prayer-meetings for the women held in different parts of the town, with an average attendance of 20 at both places. These meetings are usually conducted by the evangelist.

LUXOR GIRLS' BOARDING AND DAY SCHOOL.

"Some of the mountains of difficulty are melting away, and prejudice is slowly but surely dying," says Mrs. Buchanan. "Even some of the husbands have brought their wives to the school to be trained. The entire enrollment the past year was 201, and the number of boarders 46. Many of the day pupils work early and late in their homes so that they need not be absent. It is a source of joy to see the earnestness of the girls in the weekly prayer-meeting and their willingness to take part in this service. On Sabbath evenings, after returning from Sabbath school, we have the Christian Endeavor for the Juniors, and later in the evening for the larger girls, and here for the first time some of the girls have learned to lift up their voices in prayer. Three have united with the Church and two others have desired to do so, but because of almost bitter opposition from their parents they thought it best to wait until the way would be opened for them.

"During the summer three of our boarders were stolen from their father's home and carried off to Nubia, their mother's former home, she being a Moslem. We can only pray that the seed sown in their hearts may even in the midst of heathenish darkness spring up and bring forth fruit to life everlasting. Just upon the threshold of the new year one of our sweetest little girls was taken to heaven in a fiery chariot after terrible suffering. Not more than ten minutes before the flames caught in her clothing she was singing, 'Every day will I bless thee.' I doubt if any one was ever more welcome anywhere than was Miss Gibson to Luxor. In the short time she has been with us she has given not only sufficient help in teaching English, but by her thoughtful tactfulness has lifted burdens all around.

"The foundations for the new building have been laid broad and deep, and we hope in another year, by the blessing of the great Master-Builder upon us, to enter our own completed house. We wish to record our thanks to the Juniors of the home church, to the Women's Board, and to all who have so generously aided us; but, above all, we wish to record our gratitude to the One who has crowned our year with goodness."

School work in the Luxor District has met with strong opposition in some places, but there is an earnest desire on the part of many to have their children educated. About the 1st of October Daoud Bey laid the foundation for a new school-building for girls. This will be erected entirely at his own expense in honor of his little daughter, who completed the first year of her age on the day the foundation was laid.

In Assuan we have not been able to hold our own in the school work. There is no special Bible worker there, but the preacher, Mr. Ibrahim Moosa, reports 19 women communicants, and that about 30 women and girls attend the Sabbath services and twenty of them attend the midweek evening meetings and the women's prayer-meeting.

As yet there are no Bible women in either Khartonne or Omdurman. One woman at each place is a church-member, and three women and several girls attend the Sabbath services. One woman, who is a Moslem, and her two sons, are asking to be baptized, but this cannot take place until they are further enlightened.

Of the medical work among the women in the Delta, Dr. Caroline Lawrence writes as follows: "The tale of the year's work in Tanta is quickly told. It has been but the holding of ground already gained. Dr. Watson's absence during almost the entire year left the medical staff with much added labor. Especially did the clinic suffer from necessary absence and irregularity. An effort was made to have the Bible reading and teaching go on steadily, and hundreds were thus taught during the year by the faithful Bible woman. Kafr el Zyatt clinic was not continued after the 1st of March. Benha clinics were kept open twice weekly when possible. A weekly prayer-meeting was held by the evangelist for the waiting patients. The repeated postponement of the opening of the new hospital building has been a disappointment, but we hope that the end of three months will see it in full operation.

"The coming of Dr. Drake in the autumn was very welcome. She has since been bearing more than her share of the burden. Thus it would seem that we are in a transitional stage, and that God's future has great possibilities. Dr. Drake writes interestingly of her work in Tanta and vicinity. Although handicapped seriously on account of the language, she has enjoyed a good amount of city and village work."

Report of Women's Work for Women and Children.

Some one has truly said that "a report should be a record of the acts of the Holy Spirit through the agency of his missionaries, native and foreign. Such a report is interesting and inspiring only so far as it shows the results of this activity." It is the results of this activity that we have striven to put before you in this report. There are always two phases, the dark and the bright, and before we can have showers of blessing we must have clouds. Dear friends, do we realize how constant our intercession should be? Will you, shall we, the women of the United Presbyterian Church, and all whom the Spirit through us can interest, live Isa. 62:6, 7 this coming year? "Ye that are the Lord's remembrancers take ye no rest and give him no rest till he establish, till he has made Jerusalem [India] a praise in the earth."

The Spirit works in different ways—through the evangelist breaking into pieces the strong heart, which, however, may have been prepared by years of patient teaching through another. Therefore we have different lines of work—medical, village, zenana, educational, and organized work among the Christians, the report of which is hereby respectfully submitted:

MRS. ALICE MACCLURE.
MRS. EDITH MORTON.
MISS KATE M. CORBETT.

Medical.

MEMORIAL HOSPITAL, SIALKOT.—PASRUR DISPENSARY.—ASSOCIATE BRANCHES, GIRLS' BOARDING SCHOOL, GIRLS' INDUSTRIAL HOME.

"That thou givest them they gather; thou openest thine hand, they are filled with thy goodness" (Ps. 104:28).

We have gathered only what the Lord has given us, but never before so largely. The dispensary treated 6,175 different cases, with 18,435 return visits. The Pasrur Branch, under Miss Nasar Ali's care, treated 1,801 different cases, with 5,817 return visits, making a total of 32,228. Of indoor patients there were 260, and among these three deaths have occurred. All have been most happy and willing to stay till cured or dismissed. Ninety per cent. left cured. Surgery has been decidedly on the increase. More visits were made to homes than in former years. Bible instruction has been given in both dispensary and indoor departments with encouraging results. The boarding school and industrial home have been cared for. No serious cases have occurred in the school, but there have been a number of deaths in the Home. In October plague broke out again in Sialkot more deadly than before. Twice it has visited the hospital. First, the wife of our bearer; she recovered, but the cook and bearer were quarantined, and we did our own work. Second, the Maulvie who was our munshi; we read with him one day and the next he was dead. In October an accident occurred in the hospital. The little three-year-old daughter of one of the assistants set fire to her clothing with a match and died from the burns. This year we had a Christmas tree for the indoor patients in the court of the hospital. One hundred native women and children were present, including purdah women, assistants, patients, outside Christians, and families of servants. The court of flowers with the tree made a pretty sight. Each one received a gift. A program consisting of talks, prayers, and music was given, after which tea and cakes were served and all went home happy. All the assistants have been most faithful during the year. In November the mission located Miss Minger with me as a coworker. She will be a great help to the work.

With thankful acknowledgment of God's goodness, and asking for your prayers the coming year, Yours in Christ,

MARIA WHITE.

THE GOOD SAMARITAN HOSPITAL, JHELUM, INDIA.

Superintendent—J. Phandora Simpson, M. D.

Hospital Assistant—Miss Kate Matthews.

Associate Branch—Bhera.

During the past year 15,145 patients have been treated in the out-door department and 9,714 in the Bhera Dispensary, making a total of 24,859. Of these about twenty-five per cent. came for eye diseases; then in order of frequency, fevers, diseases of respiratory system, stomach and skin, and gynecological patients.

There were 133 in-patients during the year. Of these 99 were Mohammedans, 25 Christians, and 9 Hindus. There were two deaths among the in-patients, one being a case of Asiatic cholera. The woman was found early in the morning just inside the hospital gate, where she had been brought and left by some friend or attendant. The cholera was epidemic for a few weeks in the city, and was followed by plague, which only lasted a short time before the hot-weather, but it began again with renewed energy in October, and the attendance of patients at the daily clinics fell more than half, as the village women were afraid to come into the city on account of the plague.

The hospital assistant in Bhera, Miss James, has been ill and unable to work for five months; and the helpers there, Miss Morgan and Miss Aldridge, deserve much credit for the way in which they kept the work up in August and September. During October they had their vacation, and Miss McCahon voluntarily gave up more than a week of her vacation in Murree to come back to Bhera to teach the women during clinic hours. Although she thought the women noisy and inattentive, yet they often ask where the Miss Sahiba is that told them such good stories. Since October the compounder from Jhelum has been assisting at Bhera. Miss Matthews, the hospital assistant in Jhelum, also did excellent work during the hot months when there are always more patients than during the winter, and when she had less assistance.

The patients usually listen well during the reading of the Bible and the singing of the psalms before the dispensing of medicines begins in the morning. Occasionally one tells us that she enjoys hearing the Bible, and comes oftener than necessary to hear it. One feels that, although there has been little or no visible effect on the patients from the gospel message, yet the word of God is being sown in their hearts, and it will not return unto him void, but will accomplish that which he pleaseth.

KHANGAH DOGRAN.

Our medical work bears a very close relation to all our other work, both city and village. Scores, yes, hundreds of women and children have been much relieved by our simple medicines, and at the same time have received the gospel message of healing for their souls.

Village Work.

We regret that space will not permit the insertion of the interesting report of this important department of missionary work, to which our missionaries devote many days and weeks of the year.

Miss Laurella Dickson has visited in sixty-six villages in the Sialkot district, and thinks that progress is being made.

Miss Fannie Martin, Miss Susie Young, Miss Anna Hamilton, with native assistants, have visited about Zafarwal. They report a revival of interest among the Megs, the weaver class, and a number of hopeful inquirers among them.

Miss Emma Dean Anderson reports for the village in the Pasrur district. Christians in 130 villages have been visited. Special mention is made of the organization at Rhodi, which is commended for its liberality, the progress in learning, and the respect commanded as true Christians. Two hundred and seventy villages in this district are without converts, but many are making inquiries and waiting to be taught.

Miss Rose E. McCullough reports visiting 71 villages in the Gujranwala district; 171 visits to village homes, besides innumerable calls for varied reasons. A Bible school for district workers was held after the summer vacation, in which she was assisted by Mrs. Cummins and Mrs. Soloman.

Miss Mary Logan and Miss Marion Embleton visit the villages around Khangah Dogran. Three and one-half months during the winter and three days each week in the summer are given to these village people. A Bible school, continued for four weeks, was well attended by all the workers. The book of Acts and the Catechism were studied with profit.

The Misses Wilson report much sickness, fever, and death among the villages they have visited around Gurdaspur. They relate the following: "When teaching the women to ask a blessing before eating their food, a sick woman said, 'I always say, "O Guru," when I go to mix my bread, or otherwise the flour would blow away. We can't expect a blessing on our food unless we show our gratitude for it.' Another informed us in a solemn way, 'Until we tell lies, steal, and slander our neighbors our food will not digest.' The men in these villages prove a great hindrance to the work by taunting the women and refusing to let them learn, although they would peep over walls, get on housetops to view us; and once a dozen young men stole quietly into a room behind the women. The people are very hospitable and so used to giving to their religious teachers that they press us to take gifts."

Miss Elizabeth McCahon and Miss Ella Gordon spent six weeks in the neighboring villages of Bhera and Jhelum, sixty-five in all. One month was spent among the Christians who have recently settled along the Jhelum Canal. The section visited is noted for its many bigoted, zealous followers of Mohammed. In two or three villages a hearing was refused and in some no interest was shown.

Of Pathankot, Miss Campbell very tersely reports, "100,000 women to reach in our district and only one missionary for it. Impossible to reach all."

Miss Nannie Spencer and Miss Kate Hill give the following encouraging statement as to village work near Lyallpur: In one village where four years ago the people were so rude to Miss Spencer that she had to be defended, this year was formed a well-taught class of inquirers ready for baptism. Among the non-Christian women we have had good attention; but until reinforcements come we can scarcely do anything for this class. Hundreds of villages mentioned! Thousands of women waiting for the gospel news! Two missionaries for 1,500 villages.

ZENANA WORK.

SIALKOT—MISS LAURELLA DICKSON.

Mary Anna, Sialkot's faithful gray-haired Bible teacher, was ill several months during the year, but in the remaining time made 2,703 visits among Christians and non-Christians. Such is her faithfulness that she rests only when too ill to go into the city. Another Bible reader began work in April, and opened a number of new houses, besides holding two meetings each week among Christian women.

ZAFARWAL—MISS SUSIE YOUNG AND MISS ANNA HAMILTON.

The city work is necessarily limited to the summer months, as we are itinerating during the winter. This summer, Leah, our Bible woman, proved an efficient helper. She gave more time to the city than we could have done. In all parts we find the people ready to receive us. Beyond saying that our summer's work has more forcibly proven how needy this city is, and how much could be done by regular zenana work by Bible women and a good school, we can report no progress.

PASRUR—EMMA DEAN ANDERSON.

Mrs. Jones has been engaged in zenana work all year, and has about sixty houses on her visiting list. Seven women and girls are reading; two of these are able to read the New Testament. The work has opened up very well, and the women are very ready to hear the gospel. Many of the women have heard the gospel through the Bible work in the dispensary. As in April the dispensary was removed from the mission-house to the city, and is now under Dr. White, I leave her to report this branch of the work.

GUJRANWALA.

The zenana work in Gujranwala city has been carried on under difficulties during the past year. Mrs. Soloman was granted a year's leave of absence after years of faithful service, on account of her health, and Mrs. Murray was required to do district work for the winter months with Miss McCullough, who had no other helper. The fearful scourge of plague which has visited the city has also interfered very much with regular work. In many instances whole families have been swept away, and there is hardly a home in the city that has not been called to mourn the loss of a loved one.

In July the services of a good Bible woman were secured for zenana visiting. Ellen has been faithful in her work as well as a friend to the women, and has often been called into their homes to sympathize with and comfort them in times of sickness and death.

Mrs. Soloman and Mrs. Murray are old and tried workers, loved and respected by all. Mrs. Soloman was given a leave of absence, but still continues to help a little. She is now fairly well, and has resumed her work. Mrs. Soloman also assisted Miss McCullough in the summer Bible school for workers' wives, and both she and Mrs. Murray teach in the Sabbath school.

Total number of visits made, 405.

KHANGAH DOGRAN.

Misses Logan and Embleton report that during the summer two days of each week were devoted to zenana visiting in the city.

BHERA—MISS ELIZABETH M'CAHON.

Little progress can be reported in the city work, but we are thankful for what God has given us. The Bible woman reports 200 open houses; also that one woman and her father-in-law freely confess that Christ is the true and the only Savior. Two pupils are learning to read and knit.

PATHANKOT—MISS MARY CAMPBELL.

My Bible woman, Ruth Wilson, and I have seen steady and growing interest in many of our homes in the town. We feel encouraged.

JHELUM—MISS ELLA GORDON.

Since the 15th of April, Mrs. Thomas, a native Bible woman, has been my helper in the city zenana work. We have visited 80 houses, a number of them regularly every week; 766 visits have been made. We have had 43 women who can read or are learning to do so. Two girls who were getting on nicely were forbidden by their father to continue because he did not want them to hear the gospel; but we still visit them and read to them. We have had 15 reading the Testament. One girl will not read loud when she comes to the words "Son of God." Another bright little woman who read regularly during the summer still says, "No one can convince me of the Sonship of Christ."

LYALLPUR—MISS NANNIE SPENCER AND MISS KATE HILL.

Zenana work was carried on during the summer only. An outbreak of cholera scattered the women badly. A Mohammedan woman, a former pupil in school, was found, and she became a good hearer. Naturally religious, she feared not to hear lest it be the truth, yet feared to hear lest she be convinced and "become an infidel to the prophet and the faith of her fathers." She begged us not to pray for her.

RAWAL PINDI—MISS JOSEPHINE L. WHITE.

The zenana work, house-to-house visiting, in this city and Sadar Bazaar has been carried on during the greater part of this year by myself and two assistants, Miss Appleby and Bella David. I had the latter give her whole time to Sadar Bazaar work. During the last four months of the year Miss Appleby gave most of her time to the work there, while I with two new assistants did the city work. A number of our zenanas are regular readers of the New Testament. Regular visits are paid to all these. After the outbreak of plague in the city many of the people fled from the place. After the disappearance of the plague many returned, but not all. The letters I have received from some of my zenanas have been a source of great encouragement to me. While I was away on my vacation one of my Mohammedan zenanas wrote me. She was interested enough in the Christian community to find out what was going on. Great zeal is now being manifested by the Christians; they hold meetings and go from house to house for prayer. Another, a dear friend of Brahman faith, says concerning her husband's coming to Christ, "I am the only hindrance in his way of doing so. May God give me more light to appreciate Christ and to realize how much we owe him." This woman has made great progress since I first knew her, and I have faith to believe that she and her husband will accept Christ, perhaps before long.

MURREE—MRS. ALICE MACCLURE.

Doors are open everywhere. No one has come out for Christ this year, but the two women mentioned in last year's report are still visited and are convinced, I believe, that Christ alone can save, but are held back by fear of their people. Continue to be much in prayer, that we may be channels of power.

EDUCATIONAL.

GIRLS' BOARDING SCHOOL IN SIALKOT—THE MISSES MARTIN.

Total number of girls in attendance during the year: Boarders, 154; day pupils, 8. Largest number enrolled at one time: Boarders, 140; day pupils, 7. Besides these, five pupil teachers, after one year's study, appeared for the Junior Vernacular Teachers' Certificate Examination. Two passed in the first and three in the second grade. These results are highly satisfactory, considering that this, being an entirely new department, and the work new to everybody concerned, we were to some extent ignorant of the requirements. We hope this will develop into one of the most useful features of the school.

The results of the annual inspection were very fair and of the Bible examination very good. The inspectress says: "Needlework is very good throughout the school. As usual, the order and cleanliness of the school premises cannot be too highly praised. The girls do all the work with great thoroughness. Drill has been added and active games, and the girls show a health and vigor not often seen in schools."

Some changes have occurred in the teaching staff. The head master, who had been in the school for over nine years, was compelled, owing to ill health, to resign, and Miss Franklin, our efficient normal teacher, left to enter the medical college. God has favored us in sending two well-educated Indian Christian ladies with training and experience, as teachers, one of several years' experience. They are from the Church Missionary Society, our mission never having heretofore provided advanced training for girls. One hundred and three girls are church-members, sixteen having united during the year, practically all who are old enough.

Two remarkable instances occurred of answer to the earnest, believing prayers of the girls. In December, Rev. W. B. Anderson held a series of meetings which were supplemented by noontide prayer-meetings. Practically all of the girls were helped. Mr. Anderson's plain exposition of God's will for us, as shown in his Word, made them realize their privilege of rising to a much higher standard of Christian life. Of many of our girls we can say: They are sincere Christians, daily and earnestly striving to overcome their faults and obey God's will.

We thank God for the presence and power and teaching of his Holy Spirit.

GIRLS' INDUSTRIAL HOME IN PASRUR—MISS EMMA DEAN ANDERSON.

One hundred and seventy-five dear children have been with us the past year. Many thanks to our Heavenly Father who has so bountifully supplied all our wants.

After having been stored away and crowded into every nook and corner of the old building and the mission-house for almost a year, you can image that April 7 was indeed to us a "red-letter day," for on that day the new building was formally opened. There were twelve new cottages, teachers' quarters, and a nice large day-school building consisting of four recitation-rooms and a large chapel. We had a large gathering of the missionaries, city officials, and friends. The children sang and recited, and we had several speeches from older people. Dr. Martin, the first missionary in Pasrur district, presided. We had refreshments and fireworks. Contributions to the amount of three hundred rupees were given by the city friends. One hundred of this has been set aside for a Bible prize fund, another hundred for industrial prizes, and the remainder was used in furnishing the chapel. As soon as the building was ready, the institution was put on the cottage plan, eight or nine girls in a cottage, and, having everything separate, doing all their own work and living as a little family. We divided the old dormitories into two parts, making cottages of them also. We have now eighteen different homes. We know of no other institution just like this in India, but consider it much superior to the old plan for orphan children. Four months of time were spent in looking after the building work. None but those who have done building work in the Punjab can understand just how much this, added to other duties, taxed the strength and occupied the time.

Five times during the year the death angel came to the home. Three dear little ones who never grew strong were taken away, and two of our brightest girls. The first had decay of the spinal bone and was entirely helpless for four months. She was so patient and so ready to go. The day after Christmas, Barkat, a dear child of about ten was taken from us, stricken with double pneumonia. All our efforts to save were fruitless, as Jesus wanted her in the home above. She said, "I love Jesus; he loves me; if he wants me to go I am ready."

During the year sixty-five were baptized and received into full membership in the Church, and twenty-one others were examined and passed for baptism, but as they were so small the session thought best for them to wait a while. All these were those who were gathered from the heart of heathendom during the famine.

Mr. Scott came to us in August for special meetings, and Mrs. McClure at the close of the year. Both were used of God. It is hard to give up this precious charge and go on a needed furlough, but God will watch over his own.

AVALON SCHOOL, PATHANKOT—MISS MARY CAMPBELL.

Thirty-four girls have been enrolled in our school during the year. We have in attendance Hindu, Mohammedan, and Christian girls. Miss Francis, the government inspectress, who examined our school in March, was very much pleased to find all three classes so united. In the log-book she wrote the following, "This is the only school in which I have seen Christian, Hindu, and Mohammedan girls learning together without distinction. The children seem to get on together in the most friendly way." Our girls passed well in this, their first government inspection. The needle-work received praise and the manners of the girls left a favorable impression on our inspectress, who places much stress, and rightly so, upon the children being carefully trained in polite ways.

Best of all, we think, is the result of our Bible examination, which was taken by Miss Young in the summer. There was only one failure, and one-half the number had grades over eighty-five. The opposition school started by the Arya Somaj only continued six months. We have rented a comfortable building in the heart of the town for our school.

GIRLS' HIGH SCHOOL, RAWAL-PINDI—MISS KATE M. CORBETT.

Given, House Support : Faithful Helpers Earnest Work :: Faith Prayer : X

Many in India are working out this equation, but the value of X will not be known in this world. The visible value in the Girls' High School to-day is thirty-five individual souls, and all the future influence for good these girls, won for God, may set in motion. Within the year thirty girls have been under Christian influence. When God scared the people they fled. Some of my girls are still away. "She will come even when it rains," a Hindu father complained the other day—the drawing power of love.

The crying need is for teachers, not those hunting an easy living, but earnest Spirit-filled workers for God. I have two such, Miss Kanaya Lall and Miss McCauley, who have done much for the success of the school; also two pupil teachers. The spiritual interest is encouraging. I would many things were different. The larger girls are earnest and helpful in teaching the wee ones; they are trying to leave old things behind, to press forward. They are children; therefore we must not expect too much. Christians, therefore we must keep the standard of Christian living high.

Hitherto hath the Lord helped me. He will carry on the work which he has surely begun and will give us what we need in order to work to his name's honor and glory.

GUJRANWALA CITY, GIRLS' SCHOOL—MISS HENRIETTA MOORE.

God has granted much of blessing. There is a corps of teachers, all women. While four teachers, two callers, and two normal students died during the year, all the Christian teachers have been kept in health, and an excellent Bible teacher has been added to the staff. One teacher made a public profession of her faith, and she has thrown her whole heart into the work of leading the girls to Christ. Whether the plague has been used to this end or not, the girls are showing a marked interest in God's Word. Several have privately expressed their belief in Christ, and one has been pleading to be allowed to come out as a Christian. This seems possible, as she is single and of legal age to choose her own religion. Another asks to be prayed for, as she does not know what to do. Still another has requested to be sent to a Christian school because she has lost all interest in her old religion and its forms.

We have reason to hope that many names which were never written on the roll of the church on earth have been entered in the Lamb's book of life.

RAWAL-PINDI SCHOOL FOR NON-CHRISTIANS—MRS. ALICE MACCLURE.

Our prayers for the girls in this school are being answered in many ways. Almost all the older girls are convinced that there is only one way of salvation, and that through Christ, and only fear holds them back. Many, too, are planning to stay in school as long as possible. This is, I believe, in direct answer to prayer.

The school was closed because of plague at the time when the examination is usually held, hence there was no examination and the upper class girls are remaining another year. One hundred and eighty-two different girls have been in the school this year. Pray that all the teachers may be on fire for God and souls, and that this school may become the channel of power it should be. The school for the sweeper girls has been kept open, but I can see no definite progress in any line.

Other Schools.

SIALKOT.

The non-Christian girls' school in the city has been cut down in attendance by the plague, yet we hope for good results among those remaining. One pupil teacher has accepted Christ and would be baptized if her people permitted. Instead, she is soon to be married to a Mohammedan.

ZAFARWAL.

The little station school continues to be a blessing to the waifs of the district. The number in regular attendance has been increased by five. All are making good progress in Bible and secular studies; also assist in the sewing and household work. One of the new girls professed faith in Christ and is learning to live the true life. In the village schools are twenty-three girls, and in the Christian and other boarding schools thirty.

GURDASPUR.

Two days were spent in examining the two girls' schools of Theh and Sat Koha. Out of twenty-eight girls enrolled twenty-six were present, and about twice as many of their friends and neighbors to hear the examination. It gave us much pleasure to hear the girls recite their psalms and catechism, especially to have them join us in singing the psalms and repeating the Lord's prayer. Four of them recited seventeen psalms in Punjabi meter, and sixteen from three to nine of them. To Mrs. Haqq's efforts all honor is due for this work. She has faithfully superintended these schools, though about twenty-four miles from her home.

JHELUM.

In the class of seminary women there are eight, some of them not more than seventeen or eighteen years old. They have a Bible lesson from nine to ten o'clock, then secular studies till twelve. The girls' school has been greatly hindered because of the plague. There have been 130 girls from time to time, but the roll now numbers only eighty. One day, as Isri was giving the older girls their Bible lesson, and was speaking of sin and the lot of those who are out of Christ, one girl began to cry, and said: "What shall we do? What will become of my father and mother, brothers and sisters." Isri is our faithful and efficient head teacher. We have three other teachers.

LYALLPUR.

This school enrolled during the year over eighty girls. Six died of plague and cholera. Twenty-eight left Lyallpur. Sixteen Hindu girls joined an opposition school opend by the Arya Somaj in February. At present the enrollment is thirty. The discouragement is that the population is migratory and the girls constantly changing. The encouragement is that the city people are awake to the purpose of our school. Even if girls do leave us after a short time, they have been taught of Jesus. One Hindu teacher stayed with us, though offered a higher salary in the opposition school. One Mohammedan girl came back to us after her marriage. A boarding department for girls from villages where there is no school was opened in April. We have had thirteen boarders during the year.

Organized Christian Work.

The object of all Christian organization is to deepen the spiritual life of each member and train for Christ's service. Almost every Christian community has therefore the Sabbath school, Missionary Society, C. E. or C. U., Senior and Junior, and prayer-meetings for the women, two at least of the latter being organized; Y. W. C. A., and a special Bible school each summer. The question is of course, "Are these organizations fulfilling their object?" Facing facts, we believe that the interest, the attendance, and the spiritual progress of these women are at least equal to that of the women of the home church; but our desire is that we may all be so filled with the longing to be trained for his service that we shall take advantage of every opportunity offered.

The report is along the lines of deepened spiritual lives as seen in a deeper prayer life, increased knowledge of the Word and His work, spirit of liberality, a desire to do more for Christ.

Sialkot. Girls' Boarding School, Sabbath school. Besides necessary expenses of school, 150 rupees have been contributed for a worker in Lyallpur. Missionary Society. Much interest in the study of mission work in other countries. Christian Endeavor. Five societies. Girls manifest interest and willingness to do their part.

City Missionary Society. Contributed to cemetery wall and Kashmere sufferers; helped two poor members; gave to presby-terial and delegate fund; gave a large thank-offering. Junior Christian Endeavor. Pastor's wife helped in conducting this meeting.

Pasrur. Bible school. The women were much interested in the Bible study. Spirit present in power. Sabbath school provides lesson papers and picture roll. Teachers' Bible class every Saturday evening.

Zafarwal. Missionary Society; increased membership. Help support two widows and an orphan boy. Women's prayer-meetings. One conducted by the pastor's wife and one by the teacher of Zafarwal school. Bible school. Women show spiritual growth by their increased power in prayer and by their desire to be more useful in the Lord's work.

Guardaspur. Missionary Society. Attendance good. Thank-offering, $10. Juniors. Attendance good. Assistance in teaching.

Pathankot. Christian Endeavor Society. Fourteen members, all active.

Gujranwala. Women's prayer-meeting. Average attendance, twenty. Juniors. Average attendance, fifty. Boarding school. Increased willingness to confess and to avoid sin.

Khangah Dogran. Juniors. Know how to search their Bibles. Four confessed Christ.

Martinpur. Junior and Missionary societies.

Lyallpur. Juniors. Gave thank-offering weekly. Missionary Society. Cost of entertaining delegates met by the members when the presbyterial society met in Lyallpur. Bible summer school for wives of workers. Good interest and work resulting in more knowledge and higher ideals. Afterwards when camping we found some who had been at the school faithful in teaching others. One unread woman had faithfully taught the women of her village the lessons she had learned, so that they passed a creditable examination. Thank-offerings were given to the village women when in attendance at the presbyterial meeting in April. In December the jugs were opened and liberal returns made. In some villages they requested more time, until after the winter crop was harvested. In one village a goat was being fed to be sold later on for the thank-offering. Unfortunately some one stole the goat. A chicken has been substituted for next year. Let us hope no covetous eye may rest on the thank-offering chicken.

Bhera. Juniors. Take part in prayer-service. Have collected 3 Rs. in jugs. Women's special meetings held in May, followed by a daily Bible study in June. They were the means of a spiritual uplift and increased interest in Bible study.

Jhelum. Missionary Society has contributed $10, divided equally among Rajpur Blind Asylum, St. Andrew's Colonial Home, and Kashmere flood sufferers. Christian Union. Some of the members contributed at the rate of one pice on the rupee of their salaries. In nine months the society has contributed 29 Rs. Juniors. Began with nine members; increased to twenty, eight of whom were Mohammedans.

Rawal-Pindi. Missionary Society. Increased interest in prayer and Bible study. Thank-offering for 1903 was $51. Young Women's Christian Association. Profitable Bible study; sent two delegates to conference in Lucknow. Bible school. Longing for the power of the Spirit on the part of many and desire to do more for Christ.

REPORT OF

Secretary of Home Missions

FOR THE YEAR ENDING APRIL 15, 1904.

"This is the gospel of labor—
Ring it, ye bells of the kirk!
The Lord of love came down from above
To live with the people who work.

"This is the rose he planted,
Here is the thorn-cursed soil;
Heaven is blessed with perfect rest,
But the blessing of earth is toil."

If this little song of Henry Van Dyke be true, then there are few more blessed people on earth than our hard-working missionaries as they toil day by day for the Master, the Church, and the salvation of the souls of men.

As the busy mothers labor with heart, head, and hand for the comfort and happiness of the loved ones in the home, as the faithful teachers toil in the schoolroom, the skilled workers in the sewing-room, the saleswomen in the store, the girls behind the desk, and as all the rest of the noble army of working-women in our Church take up their burdens day by day, it must cheer and rest them to remember that they have had fourteen representatives laboring in the homeland during the year, for they very well know that if the foreign mission work is to have a great forward movement it must begin by increasing the number and efficiency of the churches at home.

Our lonely laborers in the Warmsprings Reservation are still faithfully and at great sacrifice preaching the gospel to our Indian brethren. No story could be written which would give you an adequate idea of the field and its hardships. The reports which follow are very modestly written, and give only a brief resumé of the work of the year, but we know you will find them interesting.

OREGON INDIAN MISSION.

Report from Warmsprings Agency.

The year closing has been unusual as regards the health of the people on the reservation. There has been very little sickness either among the old Indians or the children. A mild and open winter was favorable to both Indians and their stock; and now abundant rains give promise of a good harvest.

Wakama, one of our oldest members, died this year. She was long blind and crippled, yet lived alone and did her own work, showing more than usual independence and energy for an Indian, and she was exceptionally cheerful, prayerful, and thankful. "Hath not God chosen the poor of this world rich in faith?"

There have been fewer calls for food, owing partly to a large supply of salmon secured last fall by the Indians, partly to less sickness, and partly to the fact that the Piutes, the most needy of the people, had more work.

Clothing and quilts have been supplied to needy applicants, and we still have a small supply on hand. Year by year the attention of societies has been directed to what clothing should be sent, yet much comes which is of little use to the Indians, and some they cannot use at all. The freight paid on goods received is from $20 to $40 from year to year. I am satisfied that if societies east of this coast would be willing to send as much money as would pay the freight on one hundred pounds of goods, say from $3 to $5, it could be spent to advantage here in purchasing goods suited to those in need. I suggest, then, that no clothing be sent the coming year, but money instead, as stated above. Donations received during the year were as follows:

Y. W. M. S. of Sixth Church, Pittsburg, one barrel clothing; W. M. S., Richmond, Ind., Monroe, Iowa, Midway, Pa., Los Angeles, Cal., each one barrel clothing; W. M. S., of San Jose Cal., three sacks of clothing and dried fruit; Thomas Aten, Fowler, Cal., barrel dried fruit. One box of Bible Songs was sent by Sixth Church, Pittsburg.

The W. M. S. of Loveland forwarded a box of quilts, which seems to have been lost en route. A "box of notions" sent from East Liberty, no State named, was lost en route. I tried in vain to locate the party sending it. The W. H. M. S. of First Church, Allegheny, sent five packages of hosiery as a New-Year's present for the Piutes. Quilt pieces came, by mail, from several parties. Five dollars were received from your Treasurer, Miss Sloan, in payment on freight. Mr. Ashenhurst and Miss Montgomery will report donations addressed to them. The work at the Simnasho station has been faithfully carried on by Mr. Ashenhurst amid unfavorable circumstances and many discouragements. He reports the attendance at services about the same as last year. Those Indians move about so frequently that the missionary is hindered in his work and influence over them. No serious sickness has been among the people there, and Mr. and Mrs. Ashenhurst have been blessed with health. None of our foreign missionaries have a more lonely field nor a more heedless people to deal with than Mr. Ashenhurst. He, as Mr. Speer and Mr. Morrow before him, has sowed the seed, but the harvest is not yet.

Miss Montgomery has continued her work through the year at the agency, going from house to house reading the Scriptures and bringing help and comfort to the Indians. She is always welcomed at the homes, and is highly esteemed by the people.

Mr. Ashenhurst and I made an effort to hold services with the Indians at their July encampment, but it did not seem to be a success. They were so engaged during the day in dancing, gambling, and horse-racing they would not attend, and it would be ten o'clock in the evening or later before the service began. Pictures were used to present the truth, and the whites who came needed the gospel as much as the Indians. The agent does not prohibit the gambling at these gatherings, and this is a greater temptation to our Christian people than the dancing. It also hinders some from coming to Christ, for they are not willing to give up what to them has a great fascination.

Appointed by his bishop, a Catholic priest visited the agency this winter. He secured the names of some of those who had been baptized years ago by the Catholics at The Dalles, expressed surprise that the field had been neglected, and intimated that the priest of the nearest parish would visit the reservation statedly. This may mean trouble by and by. The Shakers have not hindered our work the past year, and some of them have expressed a desire to return to the church.

Owing to the absence of the Piutes there was no service at the Siksika Chapel from July till New Year's. The attendance at the services since then has been about as last year. While they are not regular in attendance, yet nearly all come who are within two or three miles of the church. A new and interesting part of my work this winter was a visitation of the homes, accompanied by the elders. The people were notified of our coming, and in almost every case we found them at home awaiting our coming. In every home the house had been put in order and the floor swept or scrubbed, so the ladies will assent that at least one good thing came of these calls. The Scriptures were read in each home, and minister and elders made as plain and direct exhortation as they could to both saints and sinners. Each one in the household was then called upon to speak, and the response was quite general. Our own families welcomed us, expressed their pleasure at our coming, and some said, "If you come again you will find us waiting for you." Sometimes the people in one home would go with us to the next house where all would again take part. Our calls were from one to three hours in length. I wish to speak in praise of two of the elders who were so faithful and interested in this work. One of them rode from fifteen to twenty miles before he reached the places where the calls were to be made. The amount of our collections this year is $45. The services held, 111, with an average attendance of 61; prayer-meetings, 49; funerals, 10; marriages, 5; calls, 380; infant baptisms, 8; adult, 5; accessions by profession, 8. Although the accessions were not many, they were of an encouraging character. One man and his wife are the most intelligent and progressive Indians on the reservation.

I paid out this year $30.80 in supplies for the needy Indians. Received from the Women's Board, $50; had eighty cents from last year, so there is a balance of $20 to the credit of this fund. For the coming year will ask for $20 instead of $50, the usual amount.

WM. W. GORDON.

March 31, 1904.

Report from Simnasho Mission.

A statement of the situation in this mission is now due to the Women's Board, whose prayerful interest and support have made the work possible.

In recalling the events of the past year, there is much occasion for joy and thanksgiving for the bounties of God's grace and providence. The health of the Indians has been generally good. There have been no cases of smallpox.

Our preaching services have been attended about as usual, and frequent visits have been made to the homes of the people.

Last fall was favorable to the work outside the reservation, and the Indians were late in coming home. The latter part of the winter has been very bad weather, and this has interfered somewhat with our services and also with visiting in the homes. Some families have been away all winter under the pretense of working for white people on the other side of the river.

Within a few months a saloon has been opened at Wapinitia, twelve miles away, which brings red liquor and red man into closer contact.

One of the most interesting matters connected with the prospects of these poor Simnasho Indians is the appointment of a farmer by the government to live here and help teach and encourage the Indians to do farm work. Mr. I. J. Powell has been appointed to this work. Mr. Powell is a practical farmer of many years' experience in eastern Oregon dry-land farming. He is an earnest Christian and a minister of the United Brethren Church. The Indians have been very suspicious, and declare that they do not want another white man here. The missionary is about all they think they can stand, but although Mr. Powell has been here only a month, it is becoming clear that the Indians will soon find that he will not harm them, but will help them.

If this effort on the part of the government succeeds, and the Indians come to realize the advantage of cultivating their lands, they may in a few years give up to some extent their habits of wandering off, and if they can be kept at home it will help the mission work very much.

I have continued the study of the language, and have been preaching in it every Sabbath, yet I am not able to get the assistance of an Indian, and so am compelled to gather a meager knowledge slowly, as I hear it in conversation.

We wish to acknowledge the kindness of missionary and Junior societies that have contributed donations the past year.

Sincerely yours,

J. O. ASHENHURST.

Report from Miss Ella Montgomery.

Father Time has claimed another season of service. The year with its lights and shadows has gone from us forever. The joy that comes from ministering in His name to the sick and suffering, of sitting with the ignorant and benighted and in His name endeavoring to lead them to the foot of the cross, where, looking up, they may find joy and hope, of going into homes where sorrow and trouble have entered, and being used by the Master in bringing a ray of cheer to the sad and troubled ones,—these are lights in our pathway that can only be realized by actual experience.

As much of my work this year has been done under adverse conditions, I find that my record-book has been neglected, and only speaks for about half the time. My book shows 400 visits and 650 miles traveled with my horse, and something more than fifty miles walking. My work was hindered six weeks during the summer by the loss of my pony. I was called into the government school again for six weeks in the fall, but, coming at a time when there were few Indians at home, it did not interfere with my regular work. I have worked at Simnasho less this year than before, but have been better satisfied with results; namely, in having my efforts more concentrated.

I was at Simnasho from the 19th of May until the 24th of June, while Mr. Ashenhurst was at the General Assembly. As I only had my pony about one week of this time, my work in the homes was confined to those near the mission. I felt that my hands were tied, yet the Master had a purpose in it all. Things do not come by chance.

Our experience here during the early days of June was a trying one. Miss Finley, a frail and aged friend of Mrs. A., had come to spend the summer with her. About a week after Mr. A. had left home she was taken sick and in two weeks she died. You may imagine our loneliness when you think of us, twenty miles from friend or physician, as we watched death's icy grasp slowly but surely closing about our sister. The physician was faithful, but much of the time we were alone. We had neither help nor company from the Indians. These were trying days, yet it was the Master's purpose in our lives, and I am sure it brought our hearts nearer to Him, for He proved His promise true.

During the year I have had more opportunities of ministering to the sick than any previous year. Suggestions about the homes have been more kindly received and more generally followed. I have also been encouraged by the appreciative reception that has been given to Bible reading.

There are many discouraging features about our work; but while we have had but few converts, with conditions existing as they do here, the strengthening of the Christian means a great deal. The Christian Indian is not a self-feeding Christian. Very few of them can read the Bible; they must be fed. These people are being taught in a foreign language. The old people can neither read nor speak it, and the young people master the reading very slowly. It requires careful and patient teaching. These are truly a needy people. The longer I am with them the more my heart is drawn to them.

ELLA MONTGOMERY.

In July, 1903, by order of the Convention of the previous year, two women were sent to represent you in labors among the Indians living on the Tama, Iowa, reservation, Miss Campbell and Mrs. Given. A small house was rented, the only one available, and they proceeded at once to establish the United Presbyterian mission-home in Tama. I wish I could give you even a slight conception of the arduous undertaking. Those in attendance at Bloomington Convention will have an opportunity to hear Miss Campbell speak of her work; those at home may read in the Magazine the following brief reports:

MUSQUAKIE INDIAN MISSION.

Report for the First Nine Months, Ending April 1, 1904.

During the time since the mission was opened, July 1, 1903, we have received in our home 1,102 visitors, 284 of whom ate with us. Our sewing-machine has made 251 garments for the Indians. Medicine has been dispensed 34 times, and 22 quilts have been made.

I have made 321 visits in the homes of the Indians, and in most cases have been received politely, sometimes cordially. We seem to have gained the friendship of the better class of the tribe, and a fair beginning has been made in the study of the language, something we find exceedingly difficult from lack of information. An attempt was made to open a school, but with only partial success. One Bible has been given and two others promised, and occasionally an opportunity is found for teaching spiritual lessons. The following is the financial report:

RECEIPTS.

From Women's Board	$168 45
From Cedar Rapids Presbyterial	61 00
Salary for nine months	450 00
Cash donations	47 62

DISBURSEMENTS.

For house rent	45 00
For house furnishings and fuel	184 45

During the year very many boxes of supplies were received, two of which deserve special mention for the quality of contents, one a barrel from Kirkwood, Ill., and the other a box from the First Church, Allegheny, Juniors. Provisions or supplies for furnishing were received from First Des Moines, Juniors, Traer, Goldfield, Garner, and Monmouth. A host of Junior societies sent packages of picture cards, some of which could not be acknowledged, as no name was given.

Among the cash donations were First Allegheny, $10; Presbytery of Cedar Rapids, $10.62; and W. M. S.. of Waterloo, Iowa, $5. The remainder of the $47.62 cash was from individuals.

Since the first of April an independent telephone line has been put up at the expense of Traer, Reinbeck, and Amity congregations, but the cash expenditure will belong to next year's report.

Respectfully submitted,

ELIZABETH CAMPBELL.

Tama, Iowa.

Within a few weeks after the arrival of our missionaries upon the field, Mrs. Givens's health failed, and although she did everything possible to regain it, she was finally, very much to her regret and ours, obliged to resign. You will be glad to know that she has recovered, but is not yet strong enough to undertake a work which makes such demands upon one's endurance as do our home-mission enterprises.

For months poor Miss Campbell lived and labored alone, doing all her own housework, even her laundering. Several applicants were heard from, but none met the requirements.

The Secretary of this department, while making a missionary tour in Iowa, met Dr. Anna Jensen in Chariton, where she was a practicing physician and a very useful member of our church there. A few days thereafter a conference was held in our Tama mission-house between the Secretary and a committee from Cedar Rapids Presbytery concerning the purchase of land and the erection of suitable buildings. The gentlemen of the committee spoke so highly of Dr. Jensen that the Secretary's first impression of her was confirmed and the position was at once offered to her. After considering for a week she gave up her practice and went at once to Miss Campbell's relief. Here follows a very brief report of her personal labors:

From the time I came here, December 8, 1903, I have made 201 visits to the homes of the Indians. I visited 13 sick people, two of whom I sat up with at night. I gave my first treatment March 12, and have since given 27. At most places where I visited I was received in a very friendly manner and asked to come again. This was true especially at the places where I had treated some one. I have had but little opportunity for Bible teaching. Sincerely yours,

ANNA JENSEN.

As you will hear from Miss Campbell, the great need of this field is a building.

Several sites have been visited, but as yet none has been chosen, all having some drawbacks.

The Presbytery of Cedar Rapids is very much interested in this needy people, and has promised a contribution of two hundred dollars per year if we erect buildings. We hope this Convention will take some action concerning this new undertaking, for if the work is to be continued a building is a necessity, seeing that none can be had for rent.

Seattle, Washington.

Miss Wade has been rendering very acceptable service in Seattle, Washington, all reports testifying to her ability and faithfulness, one letter saying, "Her very presence is an inspiration."

In the early spring she was summoned to the death-bed of her mother, who departed this life in April. Our hearts go out in sympathy to our bereaved sister in her sorrow, and we know you will excuse the absence of her annual report.

Portland, Oregon.

Mrs. J. H. Gibson, Portland, Oregon, still continues to preach with her fingers to her deaf and dumb audience. Her quarterly reports are very interesting. The secular newspapers give many words of praise to this gifted woman for her valuable services to her "silent congregation." For some reason her annual report has failed to reach me.

Tacoma, Washington.

Miss M. J. Stewart, you will remember, succeeded so well as your representative in Tacoma, Washington, that the organization of the Second Church in that city was the result. The Board of Home Missions sent a pastor to take charge, and the presbytery asked that Miss Stewart be continued, in order that new work in another part of the city might be undertaken. This request was granted, and Miss Stewart began her preliminary canvass.

It was soon found that, although the people could easily be gathered together, not a single building could be rented in which to open a Sabbath school, which is always the first step. Application was made to the Board of Church Extension for an appropriation wherewith to purchase a lot. You will learn the rest of the story by reading the following short report from Miss Stewart:

Report of Miss Stewart.

During the last five months in Tacoma, (April 15 to September 15, 1903,) I made 650 visits and attended 135 meetings. These were happy, busy days, for we were looking forward to the completion of our new church, which we hoped to occupy September 1. The house which was being used afforded so little room for growth or comfort. Plans were being made to begin new work in another part of the city, and I had arranged for a visit home, expecting to return for the new work about November 1.

Just at this date word came from Rev. A. F. Kirkpatrick that the Board of Church Extension could not give the necessary aid; therefore it would be impossible to begin new work. Of course we were disappointed, but our ways are not God's ways; our disappointments are often His appointments. We go forward where He leads, and thus I came to Dayton. M. J. STEWART.

The people of the Second Church, Tacoma, are now worshiping in their new church, and the pastor reports progress.

The Board of Church Extension regretted its inability to grant the request for the new work, owing to lack of funds, and Miss Stewart and our board regretted that she could not go back to Tacoma, but the Master had another field ripe for her skillful sickle.

At the request of the First Ohio Presbytery and the session of the First Church, Dayton, Ohio, Miss Stewart was sent to begin work there January 1, 1904. Her report to date follows:

Dayton Ohio.

As the year 1903 was drawing to a close I received notice of my appointment to new work in Dayton, Ohio. Arriving here January 1, 1904, I found that Rev. C. E. McStravick and his session had secured a building and arranged for the opening of a mission Sabbath school. The school was opened January 3, with an attendance of thirty-four. The present enrollment is 200, and the average daily attendance for the quarter was 120.

The offerings for the quarter amounted to $20.96.

The first two months were spent in canvassing the neighborhood, and the results have been very gratifying. The people received me very kindly, were interested in hearing about the work, and glad that we were planning to organize a congregation. During the past three months I have made 1,435 calls. Many of these mean only a few moments at the door; others an entrance into the homes an opportunity for mutual help, the privilege also of reading the Word and praying. One old lady to whom I carried the promises of God said, with tears, "It has been a long, long time since any one came in to read or pray with me."

Our house-to-house canvass is not yet completed, for the work has developed so rapidly it was necessary to follow it up from the beginning. About 135 families have been found who do not claim any church connection. Many of these have accepted our invitation and are worshiping with us; for the others we will continue to work and pray.

The question is sometimes asked, "Do you not become weary and discouraged, meeting all sorts of people and trying to interest them in the work of the kingdom?" We do become weary in the work, but not of it. We believe we have something the world needs, something that will make people better, happier, more useful. Ought we not to spend and be spent for the betterment of humanity? If we were making a livelihood by selling some useful household article, we would want every home in the neighborhood to purchase it. Doubtless we would be very enthusiastic in advertising it. Should we not be more anxious to offer the "water of life," which is given without money and without price?

A week's special services were held last month. Rev. Mr. McStravick preached each evening, with good attendance. Three young men decided for Christ, and many of the people spoke their appreciation of blessings received. Our Thursday evening prayer-meetings are times of deep spiritual refreshing. Each evening we spend a half hour practicing the Bible songs, and under the efficient leadership of Rev. Mr. McStravick our young people are becoming greatly interested in the psalms.

The students of Xenia Seminary have served us very acceptably, preaching two sermons each Sabbath. The offering at these services amounted to $38.35.

With so many non-church-goers all around us, and the interest that so many of these are taking in our work, we believe the time is ripe for an organization. There is no Presbyterian church in this part of the city, and there are several families of Presbyterian faith who have expressed a desire to unite with us, if we organize now. Within the last few days twenty-eight persons have signed a petition asking for an organization. This petition will be presented at the meeting of presbytery, April 12, 1904.

The church-building which we now occupy is favorably located, surrounded by one of the most desirable resident sections of the city, a section where new homes are being built and other improvements made. If the Board of Church Extension gives the necessary aid and a pastor whom God shall choose is sent to this people, we may expect great things of the Second United Presbyterian Church of Dayton.

Yours in the work,

MARGARET J. STEWART.

April 10, 1904.

Although after our date of closing reports, I cannot allow this "note of joy and praise" to lie unheard until next year, so insert it now:

The Women's Board will rejoice with us, I am sure, because of what the Lord is doing for our cause in Dayton. On April 12, Rev. C. E. McStravick, one member of his session, and myself, attended the meeting of the presbytery at Cherry Fork. We presented a petition for the organization of the Second Church, Dayton, Ohio. This had been signed by twenty-eight persons. The members of presbytery were very much interested in hearing of our work, and voted unanimously that the petition be granted.

Thursday evening, April 28, was the time appointed for organization, and our hearts were glad as we came together for this joyous occasion. The pastor of the First Church preached an appropriate and helpful sermon. Twenty-five members were received; several others who were detained that evening will unite later.

The people are taking an active interest in the work. Even the little children talk about "our organization" and are bringing their parents to the services. There are so many unsaved all around us; we feel our responsibility for these, and realize we must do all we can to help them choose Christ and live for him. Pray for us that our faith fail not.

We expect to organize a Women's Missionary Society and a Y. P. C. U. in the near future.

During the last month I made 172 visits, attended twenty Sabbath services, seven prayer-meetings, and one missionary meeting. Yours sincerely,

MARGARET J. STEWART.

70 High Street.

Sharing in the joy both of the success and hope of the above report, I wish to endorse it, and to say that Miss Stewart's work has been faithful, efficient, and successful in a very eminent degree is a very mild expression. Faithfully yours,

C. E. MCSTRAVICK.

Don't you think that it will help to bring rest and peace to Miss Stewart as she wearily lies down to slumber to remember that at least two churches are the result of the Spirit's blessing accompanying her labors?

But there is still more to tell of our "forward movement for missions." You may remember that the report of last year told you of Miss McMunn's work in North Fairmont, Cincinnati, Ohio. How delighted we are to inform you that we now have a Second Church in Cincinnati, and that it is now worshiping in its own house and has a pastor of its own who will take charge of its interests as soon as he graduates from Xenia Seminary.

As Miss McMunn knows much more about about this work than I do, we shall let her tell her own story in her own way:

April 17 proved to be "banner day" in the history of Second Church, Cincinnati. Had service at 10:30 A. M. An attendance of 30 and $1.01 general contribution. Sabbath school at 3:00 P. M.; attendance, 96; contribution, $2.94. Church in evening; attendance, 115; contributions, $8.50, and 19 united with the Church on profession; 6 adult baptisms. Those boys of whom you have heard so much have every one united with the Church.

We now have a membership of 47, and the end is not yet. Expect to have services every morning this week. Communion next Sabbath.

Besides a general contribution of $15, which goes to the expense of conducting the meetings, the people of Fairmount last week gave voluntary contributions to the building fund to the amount of $50. Received word just a little while ago that a woman had $5 for me and wanted me to come and get it. So you see our finances are improving.

I have never been so busy nor so happy. God is dealing wonderfully with us.

Respectfully submitted,

L. ELNORA MCMUNN.

The wife of the pastor of the First Church writes as follows:

"It is now time to say, 'Hallelujah.' It has not been in vain to plant our banner on the hills of Fairmount. I can yet almost hear the voice that seemed to say, 'This is the place' on that Saturday evening in the twilight as we looked over the field. Am glad we listened to it. Our session has asked for the continuance of Miss McMunn in Cincinnati. The presbytery endorsed the same. We have sighted a place in Hyde Park, a rapidly-growing suburb, and a company expects to erect seventy houses on one street this summer. There is no church on that side except Catholic.

"We have a good family there and good workers. It is a beautiful suburb, and lots can be bought now for $500. We hope to get one donated.

"Mr. McKirahan is away at presbytery. When Miss McMunn phoned me I had to sit down and tell you. I know how each board enjoys seeing good results from the different fields. Wish you might be able to look over Hyde Park.

"Yours in the Master's service,
"MRS. J. A. MCKIRAHAN."

Fuller details of this new addition to the working force of the Church will be given by Miss McMunn in her address to the Convention at Bloomington.

Presbytery has asked for her continuance in Cincinnati, and the board has decided to grant the request, giving her leave of absence from the middle of June until September 1, as she needs a rest.

Miss Mary Paull began work in West Allis, Wis., April 19, 1903. Her labors, under our direction, continued until August 19 of the same year, and were so richly blessed of God that Rev. Mr. Birnley took charge of the mission at above mentioned date. Under our rule that we cannot support a missionary once a pastor is in charge, Miss Paull's connection with our work ceased at the end of four months.

Was it not time and money well spent that resulted in an organization at the end of only four months' labor? Presbytery was so well pleased with Miss Paull that it continued her in the field for a time, and work seems to be progressing. A brief resumé by Miss Paull follows:

West Allis, Wisconsin.

August 22, 1903.

The work here in West Allis was begun April 19. We spent that day distributing notices for the preaching service to be held on Sabbath. There were five present at that service. The next Sabbath we organized the Sabbath school with eleven present. There were twenty-five present on August 16. We had preaching services again one month after the first meeting, with about thirty present. Since then we had preaching every Sabbath evening until Mr. Birnley came, who holds two services a day, which have been well attended.

We have also begun a Thursday evening prayer-meeting, at which we study the Sabbath-school lesson for the next Sabbath. From April 19 to August 19 Sabbath school held every Sabbath, with an average attendance of thirteen. Number of calls made, 325.

We held a social May 19, about fifty people being present; also held a concert May 28; proceeds, $11.80. With the money from the concert and from the collections we have bought an organ for the mission-room. There are many Catholics in West Allis.

There are thirty-two saloons here, which are a great hindrance to the work, which has progressed a little slowly, but with God's blessing we feel sure of its success.

Yours for the work,
MARY PAULL.

Another new field and worker report to you this year, from both of which we expect great things in the future.

Toledo, Ohio.

REPORT OF MARGARET J. HUSTON.

Began work May 21, 1903. Canvassed the field, but could not find a room to hold our meetings in until July 19, 1903, when we started our Sabbath school in the afternoons. I worked half time between the mission and church until January 1. Since then have been at the mission alone. Made 3,191 calls. I have taught in Sabbath school and attended services in First Church at morning services since I have been here, and as many services as I could in the evenings. Have conducted thirty-three meetings of Sabbath school at mission. Organized midweek prayer-meeting February 24, and have conducted ten meetings. Organized Juniors March 16, and have held seven meetings. Organized Ladies' Aid Society and mother's meeting April 8, and have held two meetings. We meet on alternate weeks. Our church membership at the mission is thirteen. When we began there was only one United Presbyterian family here that had not united with some church, but they thought our case was hopeless and united with the Presbyterian Church, leaving myself as the only representative on the field; but I felt sure the Lord would bless, and He has. The work is steadily growing. Our Sabbath-school report for the first quarter was: Number enrolled, 35; average attendance, 26; average contribution, 49 cents. Total amount raised during quarter, $5.39.

Report of second quarter: Number enrolled, 45; average attendance, 32; average contribution, 71 cents. Total amount raised during quarter, $9.21.

Report for third quarter: Number enrolled, 40; average attendance, 28; average contribution, 82 cents. Total amount raised during quarter, $10.70. Total amount raised from July 19 to April 1, $25.30.

We are expecting more members in a short time. We have thus far thirty-five enrolled in the Junior Society and ten women in our Aid Society.

Yours in the Master's service,

MARGARET J. HUSTON.

Owing to the unexpected death of her mother, Miss Huston was excused from work for about six weeks, but has now returned and is working, if possible, harder than ever. The session and people are both hearty in her praise.

Bellingham, Washington.

REPORT OF ETHEL B. COX.

The postman just left a letter from Mrs. Campbell, saying that she is waiting for the report from Whatcom, but before I proceed with my report I would like to explain to those who have not yet heard it that there is no such place as Whatcom. There were two towns, Whatcom and Fairhaven, about three miles apart, and they have been gradually growing together for a few years; so the citizens decided that it was time for them to become one city. An election was held in October which resulted in consolidation. The name of the new city is Bellingham, and it has a population of 22,600.

When last year's report of the work at Eureka Mission was sent, services were being held each Sabbath afternoon at 2:30 in a booth of cedar boughs in the woods, but shortly after that the little church on the best corner in that part of the city was nearly enough finished for occupancy. The lot was donated by Mr. Eldridge. The building is twenty-six by forty-eight feet, and is divided into an audience-room and two class-rooms. It is all paid for, with no help from the board. The dedication services were held April 26. The sermon was preached by W. R. Cox from the text, "How amiable are thy tabernacles." The praise-service was conducted by the choir from the Broadway Church. After the preaching service the Sabbath school was organized. The attendance was thirty-five.

There were eleven in the primary class, and only two of them had ever been in Sabbath school before. It certainly was proof of the great need of work for the Master in that part of the city. One year later the attendance in the school has more than doubled, being eighty-two, twenty-six in the primary class and thirty in the young people's class. There are four classes in the school, but there should be at least two more. It is hard to get teachers. Dr. Chas. Phillips, of the Broadway Church, has been the superintendent for about nine months, and I believe has not missed being there a day except when away from the city. It is not necessary now for the Broadway choir to go out to lead in the praise service, for Eureka has a choir of its own. The young people like to sing the psalms.

Captain Douglass, who lives at Eureka, owns one of the little steamers on Lake Whatcom. Last summer he gave an excursion in honor of his little daughter's birthday, and there were quite a good many from the different churches in town and people from Eureka went. As is customary, a great deal of singing was done on the water, and the pleasing feature to United Presbyterians was the singing of the psalms by the young people from the mission. Although they had not been singing them long they were familiar enough with them to sing them from memory.

A Junior C. U. has been organized with forty-three members. They meet Friday evening after school, and through the Junior work a great many of the parents become interested and attend the services. Prayer-meeting is held each Friday evening at 7:30. The average attendance is 12.

During January and February five weeks of meetings were held in the church. W. R. Cox preached each evening during those five weeks except Saturday. There were from eight to fifteen who attended the meetings the first few evenings, but by the last week the attendance reached fifty, and although we had no organization, and no one united with the Church, yet some signified their willingness and desire to accept Christ as their Savior, and a deeper interest has been taken in all services since that time.

Eureka is not the only mission in which we are laboring. Two miles beyond Eureka, at Lake Whatcom, is Silver Heights. There Sabbath school is held each Sabbath in the basement of the schoolhouse, and preaching services are conducted by W. R. Cox at 4:00 P. M. A Junior C. U. has been organized there which met for a while on Wednesday evenings after school, but that was not satisfactory because the children did not all get out of school at the same time, so, beginning next week, we will meet Sabbath at 10:30 A. M.

The Sabbath school has been for some time past a union Sabbath school. It is really all in our hands now, but we have not yet put in our own literature, for we saw it was best not to do everything at one leap. I have written to the Board of Publication asking for some Bible Songs. We are hoping it will not be long until we can have some kind of a building of our own in which to worship. Cottage prayer-meetings are held Wednesday evening. The average attendance at these is fifteen.

We expect Rev. and Mrs. Best to take charge of the work here about July 1, at which time Eureka will become the principal field and Silver Heights the mission Sabbath school. Presbytery authorized the Broadway session to proceed with the organization at Eureka when advisable, but we are waiting for the new missionary to come before any further steps are taken.

Since May 1, 1903, I have made 1060 visits, and since September, 1903, have attended 349 meetings and services.

The average attendance in the Eureka Sabbath school for the year was 43; for the past month, 76. Since the organization of the school there has been raised by collections and other ways $92.15.

We can truly say, "The Lord of us hath mindful been, and He will bless us still."

Respectfully submitted,

ETHEL B. COX.

We regret to drop the name of one of our best workers, who has represented us for four years in Good Hope Mission, Pittsburg, Pa. Although the name "Wishart" is an honorable and well-known one in our Church, none wore it more deservedly than our friend "Elizabeth." Her reports are very modest indeed, and never tell half of her work, and although she is not now officially connected with the mission, her interest in it is unabated, and she gives it all she possibly can of her time and service.

Last spring Rev. J. H. Leitch was sent as stated supply, and our rule, mentioned before, prevented a longer continuance of Miss Wishart. Our best wishes go with her always.

GOOD HOPE MISSION, PHILADELPHIA, PA.

Report of Miss Wishart.

I herewith submit my final report as missionary in connection with Good Hope Mission, Pittsburg, Pa. My previous report accounted for my labors up to May 1, 1903. Since that time my term of labor has been counted as four months, though this has been extended over a period of six months, from May 1 to November 1, as it seemed that in this way the greater good could be done to the cause.

The number of visits made during these months has been 335. In addition to home visitation I have regularly attended the Sabbath school, preaching services, and the midweek prayer-meeting. The attendance upon all these services in Good Hope Mission during these months has been very encouraging, more so than at any previous period of the mission's history. Rev. James H. Leitch began his labors in that field July 1, and has been carrying it forward with characteristic energy. In addition to the ordinary work of a pastor and home missionary, he continues the Polish Bible class which has been taught in that mission for some years, also giving instruction in English to such young Polish men as care to receive such instruction.

The industrial school was reopened October 1, and continues to meet every Saturday afternoon. This school has an enrollment of about fifty. A number of devoted ladies of the different congregations in both Allegheny and Monongahela presbyteries attend its meetings and render valuable assistance.

During the four years in which I have been engaged in connection with this mission I have made 4052 visits, and have attended the Sabbath and other services. Thanking the members of your board for their uniform kindness and consideration, I remain, Yours sincerely,

ELIZABETH WISHART.

Owing to the death of a sister, the first week of April, and her duties as a member of the executive committee of the Bloomington Convention, Mrs. Marlin has been excused from presenting her annual report of her mission in Bloomington, Ind. We know that the work is in a very prosperous condition.

There are many, very many devoted Christians in this country who have longed to go to other countries as foreign missionaries, but who have been hindered by providential circumtances and kept at home. Still their hearts long to do foreign mission work. The Master knows all this, and as they are unable to go He sends numbers of people from all lands to us in this country, that we may give the gospel at our very doors to people from India, Africa, Egypt,

Japan, China, Hungary, Italy, etc. Statistics prove that about one million of foreigners land annually upon our shores. In a few years all the men of this vast host become American citizens and a menace to the life of our government if they are not evangelized. Nothing else will be able to make good, safe citizens of these people but the gospel of Christ. True, they come to better their temporal condition only; but shall we not take advantage of their ardent desire to become acquainted with our language and institutions by opening schools, especially in our cities, where they can be given not only a secular education, but also taught the way of eternal life.

It is said that there are two hundred thousand Italians in Allegheny County, fifty thousand of them living in Pittsburg. They are Catholics, of course, but their soul's salvation is precious in His sight whom we serve. The claims of this people upon our sympathy were laid upon the hearts of the women of Monongahela Presbytery, so that they have been supporting two workers, who are giving their services for the benefit of their countrymen. Rev. J. B. Fortunato received most of his education in his own sunny Italy, but graduated from our Allegheny Seminary this month. Examinations hinder him from presenting his cause in person at this convention.

Miss Emmeline Trapini is our other worker in this mission. The use of a room in the old Third Presbyterian Church, Pittsburg, is allowed them rent free, but as this building is to be torn down in the near future it has become necessary to begin to plan for a building. At a recent meeting of Monongahela Presbytery that body assumed the support of the pastor, with the understanding that the presbyterial shall not render less assistance than heretofore. About four or five miles from the down-town mission a branch work has been established in Brushton, in the eastern part of the city. This also needs a building badly, as they meet in the basement of a school-house, very inadequate to the needs of the work.

The Y. P. C. U. Union of Monongahela has given financial and other aid to the women ever since the Italian work was begun.

Herewith is appended a report from both workers. You will find them interesting:

ITALIAN MISSION.

Report of J. B. Fortunato.

It gives me much pleasure to report another year of progress and blessing in our work in the Italian Mission.

All the regular services have been held. We now enroll seventy-seven members in the congregation. The infants of the parents who are members have received baptism, as also some adults. The work in the sewing-school, under the care of the American ladies, has been satisfactory. The Sabbath school for children has received a new superintendent and some additional teachers. During the winter months both the school for the study of English, and especially the religious services, were well attended.

We have been blessed in the past months in having a lady missionary, Miss Trapini, who has been very faithful. Her work has done much good, especially in breaking down prejudice and opposition to our work.

Persons attending secular schools, 170; Sabbath school for adults, 51; Sabbath school for children, 51; prayer-meetings, 65; preaching services, 55; street meetings, 21; calls made and received, 800; new members received, 34; adults rebaptized, 24; children baptized, 8; deaths, 2; certificates granted, 10; members canceled because they went away, 15; members remaining in full communion with the Church, 52.

Financial report for 1903-1904: Collected in the church, $208.50; expenses, $170.83; remaining in the treasury, $37.67; balance of April 1, 1903, $16.60; total balance in treasury April 1, 1904, $54.27.

With the exception of the number of calls these figures are for the Pittsburg Mission only. Since July regular services were held on Sabbath afternoon in Brushton, Pa.; a school for the study of English on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday evenings; a Sabbath school for children at 2:00 P. M. on Sabbath; a prayer-meeting service on Wednesday evening, and on Saturday afternoon a sewing-school for girls. Including calls made by Miss Trapini, 1,170 calls have been made by your missionaries in both fields.

After April 21, 1904, my attendance upon the Sabbath services at Brushton must be discontinued, because I am compelled to give my whole time to the down-town work, and also because I have obtained a license and intend to begin a series of street preaching on Sabbath afternoons.

Report of Emmelina Trapini.

It is a short report that I can make for these five months of missionary work that I have done among the Italians. I have been looking on both the Pittsburg and Brushton fields, and I see that they are very large; but they must be cared for very much, and they will become very fruitful, I am sure.

My first aim has been in trying to reach women to come to our mission. That is the hardest of this missionary work, but I thank the Lord that He has enabled me to add six more to the attendance at our preaching services, hoping that soon they will be converted and confess Christ. Besides these there are a few men who were converted through my means. I understand that this is not by power or might, but the Spirit of the Lord.

Two of these six women are very enthusiastic, and I surely believe that they will be received into the fellowship of the church at next communion, and the four others will come afterward if the Lord will reveal Himself to their heart.

The Sabbath school has good attendance. The average attendance of the children is from thirty-five to forty, and we think it is a good number under the circumstances. They all belong to Catholic families.

Besides this work I am doing I conduct, every Sabbath evening from 7:00 to 7:45, the meeting of the "Violet Cross," a society instituted against swearing and using obscene and blasphemous language. The attendance is very good.

During all this time I have made 370 visits, besides my visits to the Mercy, the United Presbyterian, St. John, Allegheny, and East End hospitals.

Respectfully submitted,
EMMELINA TRAPINI.

We commend this work to your prayerful interest, and hope that this recital may encourage some of you to establish similar work in other cities.

Ministerial Relief.

We still have with us the aged and invalid minister, the worn-out missionary, the bereaved widow and fatherless children of the Church.

We esteem it a great privilege to be permitted, through your loving contributions, to minister to them in a limited degree necessities, and to bring the sunshine into some of their dark days, which a sympathetic letter enclosing a check carries with it. They are patiently and bravely enduring their trials, saying with the poet through their tears:

I cannot always know and understand
The Master's rule;
I cannot always do the tasks He gives
In life's hard school;
But I am learning, with His help, to solve them
One by one,
And when I cannot understand, to say,
"Thy will be done."

I do not urge you to remember this department. You have always seen to it that its treasury has always been well supplied, and I am sure you will continue to do so.

Expended for our needy loved ones, $1,078.

This closes the eighteenth annual report of the Home Mission and Ministerial Department, written by the same hand. What an inestimable privilege to be used of the Master in one work for so long a time and to be permitted to see the results of His blessing upon the work! We turn with hearts full of hope to the work of the year already commenced, and our prayer is:

"In all we think or speak or do,
Whatever way our steps are bent,
God shape and keep us strong and true,
Courageous, cheerful, and content.

"God, help me! help me to suppress
All longing for what cannot be,
And grant me means wherewith to bless
Whoever may have need of me."

Respectfully submitted,

THE UNITED PRESBYTERIAN MISSION LIBRARY
475 RIVERSIDE DRIVE NEW YORK 27, N. Y.

REPORT OF

Secretary of Freedmen's Work

FOR YEAR ENDING APRIL 15, 1904.

As we come again to review with you the work of another year in the Freedmen's Department of our work, we would humbly acknowledge our Heavenly Father's guidance and His blessing upon our feeble efforts to elevate and Christianize the negro in our Southland.

Our work during the past year was conducted along the same lines as in the previous year, but with some additions. The large number of pupils in the sewing department at Norfolk made the services of an assistant sewing teacher necessary, and early in the year such an additional worker was granted. More personal supervision was then possible, and good results were seen in increased attendance and in the great improvement in the character of the work.

Last September, at the request of the Freedmen's Board, sewing departments were added to the flourishing schools at Midway and Annemanie, our two youngest stations, and we can now report for the first time a sewing department in successful operation at every one of the fifteen mission stations under the care of our Church, requiring the services of sixteen skilled teachers, an increase of three over the number last reported.

The number of cooking departments remains the same as before, one having been maintained at each of the following stations: Norfolk, Chase City, Knoxville, and Millers Ferry. The object of this department is to teach the preparation of wholesome food and its relation to the health of the family, and to stimulate a love of home and home duties. Teachers in both these industrial lines tell of the interest and enthusiasm manifested by the pupils in their work, of their eagerness to learn, of their efforts to put into practice in their homes what is taught in school, and of the pride and pleasure the dusky mother takes in the skill of her daughter as displayed in the neatly-made garment or the well-cooked food.

Our farm of 627 acres, located in Wilcox County, Alabama, continues under the efficient management of Mr. N. B. Cotton. The corn and cotton crops last year were very good, the mission farm having a larger yield of cotton and corn to the number of acres cultivated than any other farm in the neighborhood, and the receipts amounted to $864.45. Since Mr. Cotton took charge of the farm, in 1900, he has received $1,200 from the board to pay advances to tenants, to purchase a mule, mowing-machine, wagon, and fertilizer, and has returned to the Board $2,245.45, or $1,045.45 more than he received, a fair income on investment, but if not one cent of income had been received the Women's General Missionary Society would be amply repaid in the improved home life of the tenants and in the good influence the farm is exerting in the neighborhood. A committee, consisting of the Secretary of Home Missions and the Freedmen's Secretary, made a recent visit to the Alabama stations on the occasion of the celebration of the decennial anniversary of Prairie Mission, and noted with pleasure the marked improvement in the homes of the tenants and the striking contrast between their homes and their surroundings and those of tenants on adjoining plantations. The personal interest manifested by the superintendent in each tenant, his efforts to teach best methods of farming, and to create an interest in agriculture are stimulating the people to zeal and enthusiasm in their work, and are inspiring them to a higher plane of living. Families who came on the farm a few years ago without anything are to-day the owners of cattle and stock, with houses neatly furnished, clean and tidy.

In our last report we recommended the sale of small portions of the farm to persons approved by a committee appointed by the board. Judge Henderson, Mr. James, and Mr. Cotton compose this committee, and steps have been taken to divide the farm into plots of five acres each, with the understanding that one person may purchase two or more adjoining plots, but no one person is to have more than forty acres, and land is to be sold to those persons only who intend to make a living on it. Owing to delay in securing the services of the county surveyor, the division of the farm has not been made, and consequently no sales.

After consultation with the superintendent of the farm and the pastor of Prairie Mission, we deem it advisable that supplies for the tenants be furnished the superintendent, which they can purchase from him at a reasonable margin to cover expenses, and also that the superintendent have an office where tenants can consult him at stated times, and therefore recommend:

1. That the plantation house be used as a place of residence for the superintendent and his family only, and that rooms be set aside for a superintendent's office and for a store-room for supplies, and that the house shall not be otherwise occupied unless with superintendent's consent.

2. That the plantation house be put in a more habitable condition, and be given a coat of paint when funds will permit.

3. That the board authorize the purchase of two hundred fruit trees, to be set out by tenants, with the understanding that one-half the crop shall belong to the Board.

4. That a new barn be erected on the farm when funds in the treasury will permit.

In December an interesting conference was held with the Secretary of the Freedmen's Board to consider the "articles of agreement" adopted by both boards in 1895 for the management of the work entrusted to the W. G. M. S. The result was a clearer understanding of these articles, and a determination to adhere more strictly to them in the future.

We were gratified at the responses made by our missionary societies to appeals for clothing, a greater number of boxes and barrels finding their way south than ever before. While most of these contained useful and serviceable articles of clothing, not a few had in them much that was worthless, it being really a waste of money to pay the freight on them. We would therefore again suggest that societies send only good, practical clothing.

As planned, the Mary Carson Memorial, for whose erection we reported last year a contribution of $500 through the King's Daughters of the Sixth Church, Pittsburg, was completed and furnished ready for occupancy last fall. The $500 provided for an addition to their girls' dormitory toward the building of which the people of Camden had themselves furnished $112.38, and in order to make the whole building a Mary Carson Memorial it was decided to refund the Camden people the $112.38. With this as a nucleus they proceeded to raise money to build a boys' dormitory, which they have touchingly named the C. Jane Vincent Home. It cost $537.92, of which the Board donated $190. These buildings are ceiled throughout, and with their coat of white paint and their green shutters are buildings we point to with pride. We wish we could say as much of the interior of the school-building, but its dilapidated plastered walls and ceiling, as well as those of the school-building at Athens, are an eyesore. Our experience with these buildings teaches us that plastering in the South is a failure. If we had the money we would like to scrape off all the plaster and ceil those buildings.

The girls' dormitory at Miller's Ferry was entirely inadequate to meet the demands made on it, and the people there, with commendable enterprise, planned to erect an addition to their building at a cost of $600, pledging themselves for $300. Judge Henderson, who has always been a staunch friend of the mission work in Alabama, and has time and again manifested his interest in a substantial way, generously gave the W. G. M. S. the deed for the land on which this dormitory stands, as well as for the lot at Prairie, on which the old Methodist Church stands, which they plan to use for the sewing-school and the agricultural class. With the exception of some ceiling and the painting, the Miller's Ferry dormitory is completed, and as soon as it could be occupied was filled to overflowing.

During the past year the W. G. M. S. has supported twenty-seven workers among the Freedmen, requiring for salary alone $1,030 every school month. During the year $9,160 was expended for salaries; $151.87 for sewing machine and other expenses incurred in sewing and cooking departments; $178 in paying for insurance on buildings; $1,371.45 toward erection and furnishing of dormitories, more than $800 of which was designated for that purpose; $250 for advances to tenants and for fertilizer; $207.19 for traveling expenses; $387.44 for scholarships, shoes, and church at Norfolk as designated. The total disbursements were $11,836.95, almost $12,000, while receipts were only $10,497.49, or $1,339.46 less than expenditures. As we closed last year with a credit balance of $1,395.61, we were able to meet the increased expenditures, and to close this year with a credit balance of only $56.15. But what of the year to come? A little thought will convince every delegate of the urgent necessity of increased contributions to meet the growing demands of this work. We have reason to believe that the direct responses societies made to special appeals of workers accounts at least in part for the deficiency in our income. The first duty of our missionary societies should be to support the work which the General Assembly has entrusted to the care of the W. G. M. S., and we would urge societies not to take funds from regular contributions to meet special appeals, as such responses greatly interfere with regular work.

We recommend that the work undertaken in all the industrial lines be continued this coming year, and ask for it your continued interest and increased contributions, and over and above all your prayers that the Heavenly Father will bless the efforts of His children to lead these poor, ignorant, and degraded ones into Christian lives, and that everything may be done for the upbuilding of the Master's kingdom.

Respectfully submitted,

MRS. J. B. HILL.

SEWING DEPARTMENT.

The work this year has been enjoyed very much by me from the fact that the boys and girls have taken so much interest in the work. Really I have been overjoyed with the way in which the larger boys have taken hold of the work. They, as well as the girls, have attempted with pleasure any kind of sewing given them. I think, with the continued aid of our many friends who have helped us, much good may be accomplished through them for our Church.

SEWING DEPARTMENT.

I enclose report for the month just ended, also annual report.

Our enrollment in sewing department this year is 92, with 162 for the entire school. The work of the sewing department has met with the usual success. The sewing-machine put in last September has enabled us to teach a few of the advanced pupils dressmaking, but we have not allowed this feature to interfere with handsewing, which is most important. As on last year, the smaller children are being required to make books of samplers showing the various stitches, while the larger girls are making each a large sampler, showing the different stitches, simple and fancy, with gusset, patches, etc., all on one piece of cloth. We hope to send you some of these latter in a few days for inspection. During April and May the advanced girls in sewing will be given an opportunity to make in the sewing-room their dresses for the closing exercises.

Our teachers join me in expressing to you and your Board our great gratitude for your genuine interest in us and our people in supporting this department.

DOMESTIC SCIENCE DEPARTMENT.

Our department, although the newest, is by no means the least interesting, and it is very gratifying to note the daily increasing interest manifested by our girls. The object of the department has been to teach the preparation of wholesome, substantial food that is or should be used in every family, and its relation to the health of the family. Aside from cooking, cleaning has been been given an important place in our program. This at first seemed mere drudgery, and was not always willingly done, but neatness and order are gaining their place in the girls' idea of education; and some have brought their teachers in to show them the clean room and neatly-kept pantry and cupboards. Others have come to tell with much pride how some outsider had complimented our department on its general appearance. The girls do all of the work themselves; nothing is hired done. Rivalry seems the surest way to create interest, and this was deeply excited when the plan of serving the weekly dinner to the faculty was changed from the regular daily routine to the individual class work. It is a secret from teachers and pupils what each class is to serve until the eventful day arrives and success has been attained. A certain limit as to expense is not to be overstepped, and it is very hard sometimes to curb the ambition to excel another class by an elaborate bill of fare, and here the lesson of little things made great is taught. It is not how much, but how well that counts.

Economy is one of our first rules, and when they are better acquainted with the work will be able to manage their own dinners, both in buying and serving. At present more instruction has been given to preparing and serving, and the advanced or normal classes can prepare and serve a four-course dinner very creditably, and the younger pupils do very nicely.

It must be said that there is a marked improvement from month to month, and our department, not yet two years old and working under some very great disadvantages, has done much, and will, as all similar de-departments do, stimulate that love for home and home duties so much needed in the race for which it is maintained; and if, in the words of Ruskin, we can train the girls "to be perfectly and always ladies—loaf-givers," the succeeding generations will bear witness. Following are a few of the different lessons taught:

Soups—Tomato, potato, stock, with different vegetables.

Beef—Boiled, fried, broiled, roast, croquettes.

Potatoes—Boiled, fried, baked, escalloped, croquettes.

Eggs—Omelet, poached, soft boiled.

Fish—Boned and fried, croquettes, soup.

Chicken—Fried, stewed, baked.

Cookies—Gingersnaps, sugar.

Cake—Common butter cake, white cake, and chocolate, different fillings.

SEWING DEPARTMENT.

We feel that the work in this department has been very successful this term. The girls, as a rule, have been much interested in their work. Many of the boys from the primary and intermediate grades served this term for the first time. The girls in the fourth and fifth grades have been taught to do some fancy work, though we spend very little time in doing work of that kind, as we think the great need is for careful training in plain sewing. Number of pupils, 75. Articles made, 86; yards of material used, 282.

Enclosed you will find sewing-room reports for the month of April and for the year just closing.

This has been a hard but prosperous year. We have had many difficulties, but I think that we have successfully met them all.

We owe much to the Women's Board and to the Ladies' Missionary societies throughout the Church. We could not have gotten along without their prompt and liberal assistance.

I believe that we received the largest and best lot of clothes this year that we ever received. Our people have been better clothed than ever before since we have been here. There was comparatively little suffering among them. Until the chickenpox and whooping-cough broke out among them we had the highest per cent. present each month at day school, Sabbath school, church, and Christian Union that we ever had. We believe that this is due to the large amount of good clothes received. The teachers and people are grateful for such help.

It would be better to have the bulk of the clothes reach us before the cold weather sets in. Most of them came late in the winter this session. You would favor us if you would have more clothes for young men sent. They have the hardest time, and are compelled not only to support themselves, but also to assist their parents. Their wages are low and their work is irregular and uncertain. In most cases they are not sure that they can collect after they have earned. E. K. SMITH.

SEWING DEPARTMENT.

There were enrolled in the sewing-room this year 104 pupils. By them 84 garments have been completed, leaving 34 unfinished garments. New material on hand, 69 yards. Owing to the late entering in of the larger pupils, not so many garments were finished as we at first hoped. We have tried to teach the lessons of patience with their work until mechanical skill is acquired. No more enthusiasm could be desired than has been displayed in their work this year. Among other garments we have made two worsted dresses for young ladies, pants for boys, also shirts, sheets, pillow cases, handkerchiefs, little girls' dresses, aprons, and underwear. Some fancy-work has been taught. The smaller children have nearly finished two quilts. While we sew, we try to discipline by informal talks, and we find this, together with an ambition to do nice work, especially good in effect on refractory pupils. We hope to do much more the coming year.

SEWING DEPARTMENT.

This is the third year since the sewing department has been introduced here, and I am glad to say that it has been a great help to the school. The object up to the present has not been to make money, but to teach the pupils how to help themselves by mending and making their own garments. Nine classes, most of which are very small, have sewed during the year. Each class has a period of thirty minutes every school day. The younger pupils made model books. Others made skirts, pillow-slips, shams, aprons, etc. Five quilts were also made, and several calico dresses were cut and made by the large girls. There is a good deal of unfinished work on hands which we hope to complete during the following weeks. Our sewing-room is small and not very convenient, but the new sewing-room in the building which is being completed will be so nice that it will make up for the little inconveniences we have had to bear. We have had a few persons outside of the school to come in for sewing. The children have seemed interested, and there has been a decided improvement in work.

In view of the changes we have done well this school year, and as the people become more acquainted with our new principal, Rev. J. A. Cotton, I feel assured that the school will increase in patronage. The small rate of tuition seems to debar some from attendance. The board sent us a nice, large range, which proves to be an excellent baker. We are proud and grateful for all that is being done for all the work, but especially for our little corner.

The work of the primary department is not reported on this blank. Since they are doing model work and quilt-piecing, I thought I would tell you something about their work. They have made quite a number of models that are a credit to the department. We also have a class of girls making hats out of raffia, which will be finished by commencement, and I think will prove to be quite useful to them for the summer. We have furnished our sewing-room with sewing-tables, scissors, and another sewing-machine, which will make the work much more convenient than it has been. The most of our girls are preparing to make their dresses for commencement, and I am glad to say that about all of them can cut and make themselves a dress. The boys have also done very good work in this department this year.

Another year has gone, and again we are asked for our annual report. How short the time seems since we last reported for the year. The work during this year has been very gratifying. More interest has been taken and better work done. More pride has been taken in the finishing off and not so much rushing through just to get it out of their hands. We had hoped to report a class of five to finish the course, but one decided to give up dress-making and take "housekeeping" instead, so we have but four who are working very hard to complete the required course.

DOMESTIC SCIENCE DEPARTMENT.

The young ladies of the eighth grade and third normal classes are required to take domestic science, and there are a few special students who elect to take it. The eighth grade is divided into two classes, each class meeting once a week for a two-hour lesson. The third normal class meets twice a week for two-hour lessons. The classes take turns in preparing and serving faculty suppers, and the young ladies in each class take turns in serving, two serving each time.

Several cakes have been made and sold to the teachers for the tables in the dining-room. These cakes have been sold for the cost of the material and the money given to the superintendent of the boarding department, with the exception of seventy-five cents, which I intend to add to a fund for the domestic science equipment.

I have given the young ladies some lectures on home economics, with Dr. McGranahan's approval. No record of work done previous to Sepember, 1903, has been found.

In planning the course an effort has been made:

1. To illustrate the salient points in the most economical manner.
2. To classify lessons according to food principles as far as practicable.
3. To use foods in season.
4. To make the course as complete as possible, as many pupils will not have the second course.
5. To correct somewhat the work of the classes in order to save time and supplies.
6. To furnish variety to stimulate the students' interest.
7. To consider the technical progress of the student.
8. To plan light dishes in the late spring.

GENERAL OUTLINE OF COURSE.

Lesson 1, introductory; Lessons 2-6, starch; Lessons 7, 8, general study of food principles; Lessons 10-12, proteids; Lessons 13-15, raising batters and doughs; Lesson 16, Christmas lesson, sugars; Lessons 17-20, miscellaneous; Lessons 21-23, combustion, fats; Lesson 24, table setting and serving; Lessons 25-27, wheat and its products; Lessons 28-30, eggs; Lessons 31, 32, raising by eggs and baking-powder; Lesson 33, miscellaneous; Lesson 34, salads; Lessons 35, 36, invalid cookery; Lessons 37, 38, miscellaneous; Lesson 39, frozen desserts; Lesson 40, review and cleaning.

Report of Bible Reading.

There have not been any great changes since the last report, but there is a greater interest in the study and reading of the Word, which cannot but bring forth fruit in time. At the meetings of the Reading Club home life and its duties are discussed, and they are very interesting. They tell of things they have learned that they never knew before. A goodly number of these are mothers of young children, and these things point to a better training for the coming generation.

The Sabbath Circle is composed almost entirely of women who cannot read, and they do not have any means of obtaining information except in this way, and, only having it once a week, their progress is naturally slow. They are learning, and it is encouraging to teach them.

The children are making garments for themselves, and are very anxious to show what they can do in the school. These children all belong to those who have to work for a living, mothers as well as the fathers. The majority of the women wash and iron. They do not have much time to teach the children, and some of them could not teach because they themselves do not know how to sew up a straight seam.

Visits, 1,206; meetings of Bible Band, 40; meetings of Reading Club, 47; meetings of Sabbath Circle, 45; meetings of children's sewing class, 47.

This department has done well this year. The children are very anxious to learn how to sew, and were glad when sewing hour came. This is a needed department because (1) our children do not have parents who are able to teach them how to sew at home or even to mend their own clothes; (2) much improvement has been made in the neatness from the influence gained in the sewing-room. Here the girls are taught to make what they wear, which greatly helps in the home. Parents looked with glad faces at the things which the children made for the close of school.

MILLER'S FERRY, ALA.

We have no form for an annual report, and so I send what I think will be of interest. The girls as a whole are interested in the sewing. Several of them are either taking dress-making at college or teaching sewing, and many who are now in express a desire to take sewing lessons.

We have done quite a little fancy-work this term, including cross-stitching, hemstitching, making sofa pillows, etc. These were sold during the fair and the amount used as an offering to our Board. The graduating suits or dresses rather are very neatly made. The class has had a great deal of literary work to do and we have not done as much sewing as we desired.

The work at the dormitory has gone on smoothly, although we lost two girls with pneumonia. After furnishing the new addition there will be a small balance.

There is a cash balance of $23.19.

The interest for the year has been good. There are a number of ready-made articles on hand. All kinds of new material are needed for next term. A quantity of material was used as curtains for tables and windows at the dormitory. We hope to use our new sewing-room, built by the boys of the carpentry department, next term.

SOPHIA D. COX, Industrial Teacher.

NORFOLK, VA.

Another mile-stone in the domestic science department of Norfolk Mission College has been reached, and though we have labored under considerable difficulties—extra large classes and an unusually severe winter—yet we feel that much has been accomplished. Eggs have been higher this winter than in years, and that, too, has handicapped us. As to regularity in attendance, the pupils need to be complimented, as they have braved the storm many a day in order to be at their post. There were enrolled 242 girls, taken from second grade up and including high school.

The articles cooked were as follows: 119 loaves of bread, 100 pans of rolls, 90 pies, 25 cakes, 1,120 cookies, 75 fries, 85 roasts, 75 stews, vegetables daily, 50 puddings, 33 desserts, 20 pounds cereals, 4 pounds oats, 38 pounds wheat, 38 pounds rice, 8 boxes cocoa, 3 cakes chocolate, 9 pounds coffee, 2 pounds tea, 198 soups, 100 broths.

CASH RECEIVED.

Amount from dormitory	$ 49 45
Amount from students	146 06
Total amount received	$195 51
Cash disbursed	$195 51

At the close of the term we will make an exhibit of the work done by the girls during the year.

Thanking you for your cordial support, and trusting you may ever continue the good work you have begun here, I am,

Sincerely yours,

FLORENCE A. GANEY.

SEWING DEPARTMENT.

Number pupils: Grade 5, 27; grade 4, 36; grade 3, 63; grade 2, 82; grade 1, 72; preparatory, 91; total, 371.

Number articles made, 236; number yards used, 773½.

In addition to the above are two dresses cut and basted, thirty towels hemmed, 400 catalogues sewed. A ladies' coat, double-breasted, with pockets, was one of the most difficult garments made during the year.

The wisdom of the board in securing an assistant is demonstrated by the present enrollment according to grades, which is the best in six years. Individual attention can now be given those needing it, with the result that, although from one room alone forty pupils were added to the first grade at the beginning of the year, and it now contains ten less the number than at this time last year, and the fifth grade has a larger number than ever before. More interest is shown by the older pupils and a noticeable difference in their personal appearance.

The work started in the model school has not been all that we expected on account of the illness of the pupil teachers, yet some good work was done, and the little ones have learned most of the principles of the first grade and make very neat stitches, the boys doing quite as well as the girls.

The raffia and basket work introduced about the middle of the term proves quite fascinating, and while not a great deal has been accomplished, yet a start has been made, several articles completed, and a number more are in process of making. We hope to have a creditable display at close of school with our usual exhibition of garments.

The present Senior class is the best in average ability for the past six years. One young lady has successfully finished the course in sewing.

RICEVILLE, TENN.

We are sending you the report of our sewing, and hope you will be pleased with it. I have been deeply impressed with some of my workers in the sewing-room; they have improved so rapidly. We could do much better with our work if we had a sewing-room. We need tables for the girls to put the work on. Our room is so small we can have but one table. We have no nice place to keep the work, and it gets soiled. There is so much dust at the school-building that, without a close place, it is impossible to keep the work clean.

We were very thankful for the goods sent to the sewing-room last year, which were quite a help to us. We hope our industrial work will improve every year.

SEWING DEPARTMENT.

Another year has passed, and we are called upon to give a report of the work done in the sewing department.

During the year sewing has been taught to one hundred and five girls. All the girls are taught plain sewing, while in the advanced grades instruction is given in cutting and fitting. This year a number of the girls made "samplers." These have all the different stitches, beginning with basting, then running, hemming, over-sewing, French seaming, felling, outline stitch, patching on plain and on striped or checked goods, ruffle, and sewing on band, buttonhole, and sewing on button.

The following garments have been made the past year: Dresses, 46; aprons, 117; shirt waists, 58; skirts, 33; samplers, 66; and 111 other articles, including caps and sleeves for cooking school, underwear, work-bags, and dressing sacques. Total number of garments, 431.

The interest has been good, and the improvement in the work decided.

MARGARET T. KERR, Teacher.

GIRLS' INDUSTRIAL HOME.

During the year there have been twenty-one girls in the Girls' Industrial Home. Eleven boys have taken their meals here and roomed in the cottage. In addition to their school work, domestic science, and sewing, the girls have received instruction in cooking, dish-washing, baking, sweeping, bed-making, and all of the duties pertaining to housekeeping.

The matron meets with the boys and girls in the dining-room two evenings each week. On Saturday evening for S. P. R., or split-verb society. After singing and prayer the roll is called, and each member is expected to answer to his name by reporting any incorrect use of language he has heard made by other members of the society during the week and any irreverent conduct during religious services.

Sabbath evening they have prayer-meeting. One of their number leads the meeting, and all take part. Some evenings two-thirds of them offer prayer. The meetings are very interesting. Family worship is conducted in the morning by the matron. In the evening she calls for some one to volunteer in prayer.

We feel that God is blessing the work in this part of His vineyard.

MARGARET E. CAMPBELL, Matron.

MRS. W. J. REID,

Late Foreign Secretary of the Board of Directors.

"We try to guess what radiance now
Is resting on that gentle brow,
Lovelier than shown upon it here;
What heavenly work she has begun,
What new immortal friendships won,
That make the life unseen so dear."
